This November, we celebrate a decade of innovative fundraising with our 10th anniversary auction. From highly collectable Royal Academicians to the most exciting emerging names in contemporary art, this auction marks Art on a Postcard's largest fundraising project yet. The global online auction runs via Art on a Postcard from 5 – 19 November, with a private view on 12 November at Gathering London.

Since 2014, Art on a Postcard has raised more than £2 million for The Hepatitis C Trust through support from immovable art icons like Damien Hirst, Marina Abramović, Peter Blake RA, Grayson Perry RA, Chantal Joffe RA, Christina Quarles and Claudette Johnson among many others in the charity's signature postcard auctions, which are also considered an unmissable opportunity for spotting new talent as well as acquiring mini-masterpieces by world-famous, sought-after names.

2024 marks 10 years since Gemma Peppé founded Art on a Postcard to raise funds for the Hepatitis C Trust in response to her decades-long battle with hepatitis C, at a time when there was little information, support or research available. After hepatitis C testing became available, Gemma led the Trust's Get Tested campaign.

- FINANCIAL TIMES

Our 10th-anniversary auction comes when the Hepatitis C Trust is on the cusp of delivering its life-changing goal of eliminating Hepatitis C by 2030.

The Tenth Anniversary Auction features the provocative Wynnie Mynerva, whose work challenges societal norms around gender and desire and Florine Démosthène, an internationally celebrated artist exploring identity and culture.

The auction also features acclaimed names like Charming Baker, recognised for his darkly humorous, classically inspired works, and Chris Levine, a pioneer of light art, best known for his iconic portraits of HM Queen Elizabeth II.

Antony Micallef, known for his powerful expressionist paintings that blur the line between painting and sculpture, Emma Cousin, who contributes her surreal, vibrant explorations of human experience, and Mali Morris RA, who offers her luminous abstract pieces that play with complex colour relationships, are also contributing.

Further notable contributors include Stephen Chambers RA, whose patterned, geometric works have been exhibited at the Venice Biennale, and Oona Grimes RA, whose multidisciplinary approach spans drawing, ceramics, and film. Katherine Jones RA, brings her meditative works that blend printmaking and painting, and Mick Rooney RA, his narrative-driven compositions that frequently draw on myth and history. Nathalie Du Pasquier, founding member of the Memphis Group, contributes vibrant experimental pieces that blur the boundaries between painting and object.

Helen Beard adds a fresh perspective with her vivid, textural depictions of intimacy, while David Harrison presents his fantastical and surreal interpretations of the natural world and Roland Hicks brings his meticulous paintings that hover between abstraction and realism.

Bobbie Russon's contemplative figurative works and Ryan Mosley's narrative pieces with rich historical references will also be showcased, alongside Emma Richardson's oil paintings which investigate themes of female desire and transcendence, while Clayton Schiff's haunting figures offer a quiet reflection on human nature.

In addition, bidders can look forward to Hayden Kays' Pop Art sensibilities, Charlotte Keates' compositions inspired by modernist architecture and natural environments, Nana Wolke's film-like analysis of actual and artificial realities, Adrian Dica's mixed-media works juxtaposing industrial ruins with unexpected elements, and John Stark's evocative landscapes blending the spiritual and material worlds.

Anne Rothenstein's delicate, layered oil paintings invite emotional reflection, and Aly Helyer's surreal portraits delve into the complexities of human identity. Klodin Erb presents her expressive explorations of gender and identity. At the same time, Anna Rock's fragmented, pattern-rich compositions blur the lines between memory and reality, and Atticus Gordon explores the processes of meaning-making in painting.

Curators of the November auction include longtime Art on a Postcard supporter and Soho Revue founder India Rose James, Jealous Gallery founder Dario Illari, artist and founder of The Bomb Factory Pallas Citroen, The Auction Collective founder Tom Best, Benjamin Murphy and Nick JS Thompson of Delphian Gallery, and Art on a Postcard founder Gemma Peppé.

“I’ve been a big supporter of Art on a Postcard and been to every exhibition since it started so I feel really honoured. In the past I would bid for any tiny little piece that I could. I’d go through the auction lots and see a really big name and I think “god I could never get that in a gallery” - I love that aspect of their charity.”

London-based artist Pallas Citroen established The Bomb Factory Art Foundation in January 2015. After acquiring the space and necessary funding in late 2014, she designed and project-managed the build until completion. Pallas now serves as the Managing Director of The Bomb Factory, working towards expanding relationships with other art organisations and the community. Additionally, she aids in creating the future program of events and oversees the development of the Foundation. Alongside her duties to the Bomb Factory, Pallas continues her art practice, focusing on sculpture and installation.

Gemma Peppé founded Art on a Postcard in 2014 to fundraise for The Hepatitis C Trust. Former Tust CEO Charles Gore brought Gemma on board to utilise her experience as a music agent in fundraising within the music industry. Before running Art on a Postcard, Gemma managed The Hepatitis C Trust's successful prevention campaigns, What Not to Share, which featured Lily Allen and Mark Ronson, and the Get Tested Campaign. These campaigns were highly effective in raising awareness, with T-shirts designed by Bella Freud and Sadie Frost; the campaign involved a collaboration with Boy George on a photographic project in which they dressed contemporary celebrities as 1980s icons. Art on a Postcard has raised over two million pounds and receives approximately 1,000 artworks annually.
