Pro Arena Champion Interview: gabrielm999xd

Congratulations to gabrielm999xd, the Champion of the Pro Arena in the Champions Tournament! A Voxie Tactics veteran player since 2022, he also achieved Rank #203 in the Champions Tournament Extreme Arena and even placed Rank #9 in the Season 0 Draft Arena Leaderboard way back in 2022.

What was your overall strategy in approaching the Champions Tournament and aiming for the top spot in the Champions Pro Arena Leaderboard?

gabrielm999xd: My strategy was:

- Testing different Voxies compositions one month before the event
- Choosing my starting team wisely
- Equipping them with the best weapons, armor, and accessories
- Having all 3 Voxies with 3 pets
- Stocking up on enough potions in my inventory (Great and Max HP and Mana potions)
- Playing every day non-stop for 8 to 10 hours
- Learning from my mistakes and improving with every match
- Studying how my strongest opponents play
- And a bit of luck.

What do you consider the biggest factor that led you to reach the top spot in the Pro Arena leaderboard, and why?

gabrielm999xd: I believe that playing every day for 8 to 10 hours non-stop and reaching the "Master" level faster than my opponents at the beginning, and then progressing to the "Tactician" level to earn the maximum amount of points per win.

What was your team composition for the tournament? Did you own or rent the Voxies and items that you used? With the gear rarity limitation for Pro Arena, which Rare items and pets did you mainly use for your team?

gabrielm999xd: Both the Voxies and the gear were mainly rented. My initial composition was 2 Rangers + 1 Druid. Later, I experimented with other compositions like 2 Rangers + 1 White Mage and 2 Rangers + 1 Priest, but ultimately, the team that worked best for me was 1 ranger + 1 Ninja + 1 Druid (all compositions were always 5 movement). Regarding the main items, they were the dark bow, ice bow, and lightning katana. For pets mainly bats.

What were the most significant challenges that you faced during the tournament, and how did you overcome them?

gabrielm999xd: The main challenge was being able to defeat the top players like Wanow and EyeForAnEye. They are very skilled players, and their composition of 2 Druids + 1 Ranger was particularly hard to beat because they had a lot of healing and could regenerate mana between them. (I think the spell "Morning Dew" is very broken in Pro Arena when 2 Druids are on the field, the Voxies team should either remove the Druid's ability to regenerate mana or nerf the amount of healing.) To counter them, I had to swap one Ranger for a Ninja to blind the druids and prevent them from healing or using potions.

Which part of the tournament did you enjoy the most, and why?

gabrielm999xd: It was actually more stressful than fun, as I played for 28 days between 8 to 10 hours non-stop, almost 1000 matches. On top of that, I had to manage my time between work, playing, and sleeping, which was very little.

In your opinion, what are the key strengths and weaknesses of the Champions tournament mechanics?

gabrielm999xd: As for strengths, I thought it was good that points were given based on the rank reached (Veteran, Master, Tactician). As for weaknesses, I think managers should have had their own leaderboard separate from the players, as many of the owners didn't play but have a lot of rentals, which pushed them ahead of good players, especially in the Extreme Arena. On the other hand, the VOXEL bonus bags were very few, even though I was always in the Master and Tactician ranks. I think they should have increased the drop percentage.

Would you like to say something to the Voxies team and the community?

gabrielm999xd: I want to congratulate the Voxies team for making the tournament possible. I know they work hard to improve every detail of the game, as well as the mechanics and rewards.

I hope the game will soon be available on mobile devices to attract new players, because the active player base is low, which means it takes a long time to find a match.

Long live Voxies, and my best wishes to the entire community!
