RAISING THE BAR SINCE 1907

The first Pullum shop was opened by W.A.Pullum in 1907 to service the needs of the early weightlifters at the famous Camberwell Weightlifting club.

“Pop” Pullum, as he was known, was the winner of 15 British Championships, had over 50 gold medals, and broke nearly 200 Official British and World Weightlifting Records.

In 1948 Wally Pullum joined his uncle to learn the business, and his love of weightlifting grew. He went on to open his own weight lifting club in 1949 in the shed at the bottom of his garden.

Over the years, Wally trained hundreds of people with many successes in Bodybuilding, Weightlifting and Powerlifting. Using this background, Wally branched out into equipment manufacture, and started to sell custom made gym equipment in the 1980s.

In 2005, Wally retired, and Wayne and Andy took over the business. Since then, Pullum has grown in size and reputation, and in 2016 moved to a new unit in Leighton Buzzard, giving them nearly three times the space.

SUPERYACHT GYMDESIGN

Superyacht gym design involves a delicate balance between practicalities, functionality, and aesthetics.

Let's explore the key considerations for creating an exceptional onboard gym.

Practicalities:

As in any gym we consider the likely number of simultaneous users, their training needs and skill levels. This will help space allocation, during this process we consider height and weight distribution as these are key in a maritime environment . Outdoor gyms require planning for equipment stowage during voyages.

Functionality:

Space is often limited so we always look for equipment that is versatile, being a manufacturer we can tailor our offerings around individual locations. Being gym experts, we recognise the wide range training needs and can help select the best mix of equipment and accessories to get the most variety. Wherever possible we like to include an element of free weight training as there are so many exercises possible with just some basic tools.

Custom storage solutions can be catered for to suit the maritime needs. Space to stretch, perform Yoga or similar is essential as are some basic Cardio Vascular tools such as a bike and rowing machine.

With all our recommendations we consider robustness as we recognise vessels can be out of port for long periods of time.

Aesthetics:

Choosing gym equipment involves meticulous decision-making. The goal is to create a gym that not only performs on par with land-based counterparts but also enhances the yacht's visual appeal.

As part of our Gym designs we consider risk to users and the vessel. We will produce an onboard maintenance schedule as well as recommend a service plan.
