Complete high-end joinery package for a private client, delivered in collaboration with Kingerlee Ltd.

This bespoke commission included fully fitted joinery across the kitchen, gallery, bathroom and guest suite. The scope comprised engineered oak plank base units and tall kitchen cabinetry with sliding doors, complemented by a metal-clad island that provided a striking central feature.

A concealed drop-down bed was seamlessly integrated into custom cabinetry, while bespoke vanity units were crafted for the bathroom. Random-width tongue and groove ash panelling was installed to both ceilings and walls, creating warmth and texture throughout.

All joinery elements were finished to the highest standards, using a combination of specialist stains, lacquers and metal detailing to achieve a refined, contemporary aesthetic.

Bespoke joinery package for instrument storage –
Dragon School, Oxford

This project involved the design, manufacture and installation of custom-built instrument storage units, delivered as part of a main contract with Dragon School.

Crafted from oak-faced plywood with solid European oak lipping, each unit was designed to balance durability, functionality and visual appeal. Black rubber lining was applied internally to protect instruments during daily use, while precision-cut flush pull handles and Blum hinges ensured seamless operation.

All components were CNC-machined for accuracy and consistency, and finished with two coats of OSMO 429 Natural — enhancing the natural beauty of the oak while providing robust, long-lasting protection.
