City of Abbeville looking to reverse trend of population loss

By Henry E. Green

The City of Abbeville is coping with population loss. In 2010, the Census indicated that the City had just over 5,200 residents, and the 2020 Census has the population at just below 4,900, said City of Abbeville Deputy Administrative Officer Mike Clary.

To understand the picture, one needs to go back to the 1990 Census, which showed a City population of about 6,000 people.

"This population decline has been a trend for quite some time, and it is not a problem that is unique to Abbeville," Clary said.

"If you look at the state of the state did experience some level of population decline over the past 10 years, while areas such as Greenville, Rock Hill, Columbia, Charleston, and Myrtle Beach experienced population increases," he

"So the question then becomes, 'How do we as a rural community reverse that trend that has emerged over the past 30 years?'

"There are many different factors in the answer to that question. For example, you have the County economic development board working to not only recruit new industry, but retain the industry

"As far as the City goes, we are working to solve the problem in a myriad of different ways, which includes investment in infrastructure, removing abandoned and dilapidated housing, encouraging new small business investment, and making the City more attractive for those wishing to build homes inside the City, as well as other efforts to improve the quality of life such as Opera House shows, festivals and events, and those efforts also help to bring in tourism as well."

Overall those are efforts to make Abbeville a better place to live and visit," Clary

The Abbeville County Historical Society is in the process of working on the Creswell Cabin behind the Abbeville County Museum in Abbeville. Here is Steven Marner hard at work this week on the cabin. The plan is to disassemble the cabin, which is in need of repairs, and assemble it again. It will be completely reconstructed, said Society president Andrew Hartsfield. Any rotten or split logs will be replaced. A donor here in Abbeville has volunteered to help fund the project. "We really would like to have the building put together by the early spring of next year," said Hartsfield. (Staff photo by Henry E. Green)

Labor Day marks summer's conclusion

Labor Day is by tradition the time we say a sweet good-bye to summer, although technically the season continues for several more weeks.

This year Labor Day, traditionally observed on the first Monday in September, falls on Monday, Sept. 6.

Schools will be closed on Labor Day, as will many businesses and government offices.

Labor Day is an Abbeville County government holiday, and the same holds true for the City of Abbeville and the

"The Abbeville Wheels of Time will be hosting their annual car show on Saturday, September 4th from 6:30 AM - 3:30 PM," said

City applies for grant to fund demolition

By Henry E. Green

The City of Abbeville is applying for a grant to help fund the demolition of condemned properties, according to Mike Clary, the Deputy Administrative Officer with the City.

The City is applying for a grant of about $225,000 from the Community Development Block Grant program of the state of South Carolina.

The City of Abbeville hopes to hear from the state early in 2022 whether it received the grant.

The City hopes to use the money, if it is awarded, to fund the demolition of 17 properties, all located between Highway 72 and Cambridge Street.

"You can apply based on Census blocks," he said.

This is the first time in recent memory that the City has applied for a CDBG grant to fund the demolition of condemned properties.

"They are all residential properties," he said of the properties the City wants to demolish. "None of them are currently occupied. Most haven't been for a number of years."

The application process includes a series of hearings. One was held several weeks ago, to solicit public input, and another such hearing, with the same purpose, is scheduled for Sept. 7 at 1 p.m. in the City Council chambers of the Opera House.

"The City allocates a limited budget each year to tear down condemned structures," he said. However, that allocation is typically for one or two properties.

If the City does not get the grant, it will likely apply for the grant again next year.

Abbeville County and surrounding counties had a net loss of housing units from 2010 to 2020, he said. "Part of the idea here is that by removing vacant and condemned structures, we can encourage new investment and single family housing in these areas.

"This is part of the effort to reduce the overall trend of housing loss and population decline inside the City."

Artist Guild to be busy in coming months

By Henry E. Green

The Abbeville Artist Guild has a full slate of activities for the fall.

First, this organization which promotes the arts in Abbeville County wants to play Hide and Seek with you!

"The Abbeville Artist Guild will hide over 30 small pieces of original artwork in the stores in downtown Abbeville," the Guild reports.

"On Saturday, September 18 beginning at 10 a.m. you can own an original piece of artwork created by a local artist. All you have to do is visit the local participating merchants and search for the artwork. A map of participating merchants will be available at the Abbeville Welcome Center.

"Once you find a piece of artwork, sign the 'Take Me Home' card that is attached and leave the card with the cashier. The artwork is yours to keep. Please just one piece of artwork per person." Then, on Saturday, October 2, the Guild will present Jesse's Veggies Workshop from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Abbeville Civic Center. The cost is $25 for AAG members and $35 for non-members.

To register, one may call 366-5881, or email abbevilleartistguild@gmail.com. The deadline to register is Sept. 27.

The workshop is taught by Jesse Nance, an Abbeville native who makes vegetables from Styrofoam and paper and has sold them to galleries, shops and even Disney World, the Guild reports.

He will teach workshop participants how to make the vegetables.

The cost of the workshop includes all the materials the participants will need to make "veggies."

Participants are asked to bring their lunch.

The Artist Guild members have been asked to display some artwork in the windows of the old Belks building, as part of a project coordinated by Abbeville City Council member Jason Edwards.

The Guild, which will soon be announcing the winners of its recent photo contest, will have its next general meeting on Sunday, Sept. 12, at 3 p.m.

This will be Paintnic in the Park, and Guild members will meet outside on Abbeville's Court Square, and in the case of rain those in attendance will meet in the Welcome Center.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring a piece of art to work on, or bring materials to paint, or "draw what you see outside."

Jesse Nance is the president of the Artist Guild, while Jane Agan is the treasurer, and Carolin Ann McLane the secretary.

Fire damages store at Hester's Bottoms

By Henry E. Green

Although a fire destroyed the general store at Hester's Bottoms campgrounds in McCormick County several weeks ago, the campground operators are working to overcome the unfortunate occurrence. "Several weeks ago our general store caught fire," said Abbevillian Lindsey Jones. "The building was under renovation, and we had planned to open it this week before Labor Day. Unfortunately, it was a total loss. At this point, we do not know what the cause is. We were told by the investigators that it could take a few months to receive the final report. Fortunately, no one first time in November and was hurt, and the fire was contained to the one structure. Therefore, the rest of the park was unharmed and is still open and fully operational. We are actually hosting a Labor Day event this Sunday from 4-6 pm with live music, raffles and food sales."

Jones earlier this year explained how she and others came to invest in the property.

"The property, formally known as Mt. Carmel Campground was closed for over 6 years," she said. "The Army Corps of Engineers released an ad for interested investors back in the fall of 2020. I met with them for the

I submitted a proposal in January and then presented to their board in February. I, along with my partners Keith and Melanie Stewart, was awarded a 25 year lease in March. We have been working diligently to restore the property which will now be known as Hester's Bottoms Campground. It currently has 44 campsites, 3 bath houses, a beach area, playground, boat ramp and dock."

They had been in the process of adding the general store, and they had a ribbon cutting event in May, with live music, food and events for the kids on the agenda for the celebration.

McGowan water line project moves forward

By Henry E. Green

The McGowan Avenue water line project is moving forward step by step, said Mike Clary, Deputy Administrative Officer for the City of Abbeville.

Bids for the project are due Sept. 28, said Clary. And after the verification of those bids, they will go to Council for approval."

The project is intended to replace the current water line running the length of McGowan Avenue.

"The McGowan project is a component of the City's overall project to improve its water distribution system. Other projects include the Mill Village waterline project that was completed earlier this year, and the proposed Henry/Hillcrest waterline replacement project.

The bids that will be opened on Sept. 28, will be considered by City Council at the October City Council meeting.

Council is expected to choose one of those bids, sign a contract with the chosen bidder, and work will begin "at some point later this fall," Clary continued.

Engineering for the project is being done by the firm of Dunn and Shirley.

"The majority of these lines (that are due for replacement) are just aging out," he said. With older infrastructure, cracks and breaks are more likely to happen.

Part of the McGowan water line project is being paid for with a grant--an SRF (State Revolving Fund) Principal Forgiveness Loan.

"In practice, it is essentially a grant," he said, noting that the City does not have to pay it back.

This "loan" comes to about $575,000. The City will pay the remaining portion of the estimated cost, and this remaining portion comes to approximately $200,000.

The McGowan water line serves not only the residents of McGowan Avenue but also functions as a trunk line, meaning that it affects water across that portion of the city, Clary continued.

a Word from "THE WORD"

Rev. Dr. John Keith

Importance

jkeithfbca@gmail.com

Psalm 33:18 "Behold, the eye of the Lord is on those who fear Him, on those who hope in his mercy."

In his book, "How to Win Friends And Influence People," Dale Carnegie tells us that we should picture everyone we meet as wearing an invisible sign around his neck that says, "Make me feel important." Everyone wants to be acknowledged and accepted.

Psalm 33:18 informs us that God sees that invisible sign and that He knows us intimately.

Three thoughts fairly jump out at me from this passage. The first one is that God thinks I am important. He thinks I am important enough to warrant His attention. Out of the over 7 billion people on planet earth, God takes notice of me. That means I do not have to worry about what is going on in my life because God knows all about it. If God notices me, then I know He will take mercy on me. It is as simple as that.

I reverence Him and my hope is in His mercy—not my merit, so I don't have to worry about what is going on around me because God has it under His control. That is important in this day and time of seeming chaos in our nation and around the globe—because I know God is in control I don't have to worry—He's got this.

The second thing that this verse says to me is that because I am important to God, He is vitally interested in me and what is going on in my life. In Matthew 10:29-30, Jesus makes this abundantly clear. "Are not two sparrows sold for a copper coin? And not one of them falls to the ground apart from you Father's will. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Do not fear therefore; you are of more value than many sparrows."

If God knows the number of hairs on my head, that translates His great interest in me. Because I know God is interested in me that means I don't have to try to get His attention. Some folks will go to bizarre lengths to garner the attention of the world. Often when people act out it is a desperate attempt to get people to notice them. I can rest in full assurance that God is paying attention to me and whatever my situation is. The third thing that this says to me because I am important to God is that He will invest into my life. Psalm 32:8 says, "I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go; I will guide you with my eye."

Think about that for a moment—God will guide me with His eye. He is vitally interested in me because I am important to Him, and His eye is on me and because I hope in His mercy I will look to see where His eye is looking. God is always looking out for my best interest. I can trust His leadership because I know He is watching over me. Because God's eye is on me He knows what I need and when I need it I can trust Him. Because God's eye is on me I can rest in assurance, because I know that I am important to Him.

Dear child of God, you are important to God, you have His full attention, He knows what you need and when you need it. You don't have to go to bizarre actions to get God's attention—His eye is on you.

Rest in the knowledge that He is not only aware of your situation, but in due time He will act accordingly in your best interest.

COVID-19 surge hits home at AAMC

AAMC has seen record numbers of patients in the Emergency Room over the last two weeks due to the current COVID-19 surge more than 50 a day, which for our hospital is a very high volume of patients, according to Meg Davis, Marketing/Foundation/Volunteer Services Director with AAMC. "We typically see 25-30."

"Over the weekend our situation became critical," she continued. AAMC is licensed for 25 beds but typically staffs 18 beds which under normal circumstances meets our needs.

"With the alarmingly fast spread of the Delta variant, we began planning weeks ago for a surge identifying space in our former OB unit and preparing the area for patients. We have opened those beds which allows for an additional 5-6 inpatients. As of Tuesday (today) we currently have 11 medical/ surgical patients and 8 COVID Unit beds filled.

"We have moved the monoclonal antibody infusions to a large conference room in our administration building to keep up with the demand for this treatment as well as to clear areas where we can open additional beds.

"Monoclonal antibody infusions are given to those who have had a positive COVID-19 test and have mild to moderate symptoms. It can reduce the effects of the virus, often preventing severe disease and a hospital stay.

Due to the very high demand for COVID-19 testing and care, AAMC is temporarily moving its Respiratory Clinic to one side of the Healthcare Center beginning tomorrow, Wednesday, September 1st.

A separate entrance will be used for those patients requiring testing, she said. "This building was designed with two separate wings that will allow us to provide an isolated area for those who have respiratory conditions while, at the same time, providing a safe environment in which to see well patients."

"AAMC would like to remind our community to please only come to the Emergency Department for true emergencies," Davis continued.

"If you feel you need to be tested for COVID-19 please contact our respiratory clinic at 366-1770 or visit one of our mobile testing clinics Tuesdays or Thursdays from 8:00am – 12:00noon."

All is well in Due West

Erskine interim president Tom Hellams provides college update

By Henry E. Green "Head, heart, hands."

Those three words take in the mission of Erskine, according to Dr. Tom Hellams, Erskine's interim president.

Erskine wants to exert a positive influence on the knowledge a student gains in his young life, and as far as the heart is concerned, Erskine has for years described itself as a Christian institution.

Finally, the college is committed to inculcating in its students the desire to serve.

"We want to encourage students to serve others," he said.

Established in 1839, Erskine has had its ups and downs in terms of enrollment through the years, reaching a peak in 1970-1971-the first time the institution had surpassed 700 in enrollment.

This was followed by a period of decline in enrollment, before a plan for growth was unveiled in 2018--a plan incorporating an athletic model.

That included the revival of a football program which had been discontinued in the 1950s. This past a goal of 1,000 to 1,200 spring, Erskine had its first football season in about half a century, and there are 150 students on the football roster.

Another hallmark of this expanded athletic program?

"We have rodeo," he said. Something seems to be working. The enrollment rose from 560 in 2018 to 720 students just before COVID hit.

Even during the pandemic, enrollment increased to 820 students, during 20-21 academic year.

The pandemic changed much, moving instruction online, and Hellams noted wryly that though young people do some things online very well indeed, online instruction is not one of them.

"They don't handle online education well at all," he said.

Hellams praised the concept of in-person instruction, while noting that the effects of the pandemic continue to rage.

"We have 11 students who have tested positive," he said.

Erskine is striving toward in enrollment, and the institution has been buying up property to provide living space for students, creating townhouses for example, and buying some apartments.

Hellams told Abbeville Rotarians that a search committee is busy looking for a president, and that he is not interested in becoming a permanent president.

At the age of 65, he hopes that Erskine will hire a long term president who will lead the institution for at least 10 years, and he would like to spend time with his grandchildren.

Hellams told the story of a young man who wanted to be a part of the University of Louisville marching band. He faced two challenges--he was blind, and he could not walk.

His father found a way to help his son, providing for his son to be pushed across the field in a wheelchair in sync with the band while they were performing.

That, to Hellams, exemplifies the ideal of service Erskine espouses.

Abbeville County Forest Landowners Association still going strong

By Henry E. Green

So you want to be a forest landowner?

Or maybe you just like trees? If so, the Abbeville County Forest Landowners Association might just be the group

The County Association is an Affiliate Member of the Forestry Association of South Carolina, according to the Association.

"It is geared toward forest landowners, but you don't have to own land, anyone with an interest in forestry or wildlife issues can join," the County Association reports.

"Forest products are an important crop in Abbeville

County, and forestry is a major land use in the county. Most of this land is owned and managed by individuals like you. The Abbeville County Forest Landowners Association is made up of the people who own and manage our county's forests.

Quarterly meetings of the Association feature educational presentations by experts in various aspects of forestry, and speakers discuss everything from marketing forest products to dealing with beavers.

From time to time, young people are also honored for agriculture-related honors.

Members receive regular mailings from Clemson University and the South Carolina Forestry Association.

Luke Penney is the current president of the County Association, which meets at the Abbeville County Agricultural Building on the western outskirts of Abbeville.

Cam Crawford, President and CEO of the Forestry Association of South Carolina, was the keynote speaker at the most recent meeting of the Forest Landowners Association.

"The Forest Landowners Association averages between 75-85 members a year," said Tom Brant of Clemson Extension.

Trustees approve budget Option Two

By Henry E. Green

When the Abbeville County School District Board of Trustees approved second and final reading on the District budget for 2021-2022, it marked the end of a long road.

The 2021-22 fiscal year began on July 1, but second and final reading on the budget for the new year was not held until the August 24 school board meeting.

Second reading had originally been scheduled for the June meeting but it had to be postponed due to an error in connection with public notification.

Then, at the regular meet-

July, the trustees agreed to table the budget, and hold a budget workshop to study it more.

The school board finally approved second and final reading on the budget at the trustees' August 24 meeting, and the trustees could choose from three budget

"Regarding the budget, we provided three options for the board to choose from-one with a millage increase, one without a millage increase, and one that could use fund balance and/or ES-SER funds to balance," said Abbeville County School ing of the school board in District Superintendent Dr. Mason Gary Thursday.

> "The board voted on Option Two that had no millage increase and used budget reductions and carry over from last year to balance the budget.'

> ESSER funds are federal funds that have been provided to the School District in connection with strategies to help the District cope with effects of the coronavirus.

> The approximately $28 million budget plan originally called for a requested 5.88 mill tax increase, and it provides for state-mandated pay increases for teachers.

August 31 was the first day of instruction at Captivating Montessori School, and there were slated to be a total of 28 students, ranging in age from three to 10.

Chiles will be the teacher, and she will be helped by a team of volunteers. Barbara Ervin from Lander University will be there at the school one day a week to provide assistance.

"She is the former Montessori education director for Lander University," said Mrs. Chiles.

"Our program is designed to help home-schooling families," she said.

Classes will be held Tuesday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and will supplement the home-schooling instruction.

Montessori education was created by Dr. Maria Montessori, who believed in helping children learn through manipulation of materials, Mrs. Chiles said.

Montessori education enhances creativity, in her opinion, and she went on to say that through observing the children, she can tell what their interests and passions are.

Mrs. Chiles is from Belton. "I taught for eight years in Anderson, at Montessori School of Anderson," she

Long, hard look

Former Abbeville mayor Delano Freeman discusses Afghanistan

By Henry E. Green

America's longest war has come to an end, and a former mayor of Abbeville recently weighed in on America's experience with Afghanistan.

That experience began in a major way following the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, and ended this week.

Delano Freeman is no stranger to this Central Asian country, having served in the U.S. Army National Guard there from March 2011 to January, 2012.

"We were very successful military-wise, but were unsuccessful with nation building," he said. "Our involvement in Afghanistan started in the Eighties, and we missed opportunities to nation build after the Soviet Union left in 1989.

"The mission in 2001 was to disrupt terrorist training bases and capture Osama bin Laden. The U.S. Military accomplished both of those missions," he continued.

"The culture and dynamics of Afghanistan were far too complex, and many of us in America will not understand.

"There is no true economy. Their major exports were opiates. Many of the local nationals worked on U.S. bases.

This is why the Taliban could pay them to be suicide bombers, because of the lack of money making opportunities.

So what's next?

"We saw a similar ending in Vietnam and Iraq," he said. "Will we take advantage of lessons learned?"

US House of Representatives Duncan Supports Articles of Impeachment against President Biden

Congressman Jeff Duncan

In response to the foreign policy failure in Afghanistan of President Joseph R. Biden, Congressman Jeff Duncan today signed onto an article of Impeachment against the President for dereliction of duty. Through withdrawing American troops from Afghanistan in a manner contrary to sound military advice, the President recklessly left behind thousands of American civilians and Afghan allies, along with taxpayer-financed weapons and military equipment, endangering the lives of the American people and the security of the United States.

"I am heartsick at the President's failure to fulfill his duty that has resulted in American deaths and thousands of Americans and Afghan allies being abandoned at the risk of being tortured, captured, held hostage, or killed at the hands of the Taliban or other terrorist forces," said Congressman Jeff Duncan. "Our Commander-in-Chief showed reckless disregard for both American citizens and allies in neglecting to secure their safe evacuation from Afghanistan once he withdrew our troops. The President promised to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States, but it is evident the President has failed to fulfill this charge."

"Impeachment is a very serious matter, and one I do not take lightly. It saddens me that it has come to this, but the President's actions have proved he is a threat to our national security and the Constitution. President Biden has been derelict in his duties and neglected the responsibility the office of the president requires," said Congressman Jeff Duncan. "It is time to take action and remove the sitting President from office due to his gross negligence that undermined our national security, led to the Taliban's takeover of Afghanistan, and resulted in a grave humanitarian crisis."

Many proponents of the halt in evictions do not view COVID-19 transmission as the primary goal of the eviction moratorium and instead cite financial difficulty stemming from the economic fallout of the pandemic and subsequent response. While it is true that many people were out of work due to shuttering businesses or could not work due to closed schools and childcare services, Congress, as well as many of the States, provided billions of dollars in COVID-19 relief to help Americans make ends meet.

Furthermore, businesses are currently begging for people to come back to work, and every school district in the country should be back to in-person learning.

Growing pains

School District ponders rising enrollments at three District schools

By Henry E. Green

What do Dixie High School, Cherokee Trail Elementary and Diamond Hill elementary schools all have in common?

They are all growing, according to Dr. Skip Hopkins, Director of Student Services with the Abbeville County School District.

"Each of those schools have experienced an increase in student enrollment over the past five years," he said by email Wednesday.

" Diamond Hill Elementary is up approximately 20 students, or six percent, since 2016, Cherokee Trail Elementary is up approximately 30 students, or six percent, up approximately 35 students, or seven percent.

As of Wednesday, the enrollment of Diamond Hill is 320, while that of Cherokee Trail Elementary is 459, and Dixie High School 502.

The next phase of the proposed Capital Improvement Plan moves 6th and 7th grade students from Diamond Hill Elementary and Cherokee Trail Elementary to a new two story building located on the Dixie High School campus. The addition would also house eighth grade students.

"This would provide enrollment relief for DHE and CTE and open up classroom space that currently serves 6th and and Dixie High School is 7th grade students," said Hopkins.

> Funding Phase 3 of the CIP (Capital Improvement Plan) would require passage of a bond referendum from the voters of Abbeville County. The voters would consider a question(s) developed by the Board of Trustees that would be placed on the ballot at a date determined by the board.

> "The proposed CIP also includes a two story building at AHS," he continued. "These are Dr. Gary's proposals, but the school board would define the scope of the referendum."

> Dr. Mason Gary is the Abbeville County School District Superintendent.

It might not be my fault, but there's a lot of asphalt

by Lamar T. West, Sr.

From published reports,

South Carolina.

Driving from Walhalla, there are 41,000 miles of which is in the northwest state maintained highways area of South Carolina, in the state of South Caro- to Myrtle Beach, which is lina. I repeat: 41,000 miles. northeast and on the coast One could drive to Los An- of South Carolina, is just ungles, Calif. and back eight der 300 miles. This means times and still not have it is 300 miles from the two driven as many miles as furthest points, towns/citit would take to tour all the ies in South Carolina (as state maintained roads in the crow flies) yet there are 41,000 miles of state maintained roads.

South Carolina also has quite a few county and city/ town maintained roads. That is a whole lot of bricks, cement and asphalt.

If your favorite pothole is not attended to quickly enough to keep your car's front-end aligned, now you know why.

EC professor writes book about slave trade

By Henry E. Green

There are few stories as tragic as the trans-Atlantic slave trade, the notorious Middle Passage, in which Africans were taken from their homeland to be enslaved in the New World.

An Erskine professor has written a book about the mid-19th century twilight of the slave trade.

Dr. John Harris, Mc-Donald Boswell Assistant Professor of History at Erskine, has written a book about how the slave trade continued even after the United States prohibited the slave trade beginning in 1808.

A native of Northern Ireland, Harris grew up just outside Belfast, where his father was a pastor.

"I slowly gravitated over here," he said humorously of his move to America.

Married to an American, he has lived in the United States about 10 years.

Having received his undergraduate degree in Northern Ireland, he received his PhD from Johns Hopkins, and now lives in Anderson.

The book, meanwhile, grew out of his doctoral dissertation at Johns Hopkins. It shines the light on what could be termed the closing years of the slave trade.

The Last Slave Ships: New York and the End of the Middle Passage underscores the role of New York as a central point in the slave trade during this period.

Many slave ships set out from New York during this time. "It's not really a Southern story," said Dr. Harris.

Though the slave trade was illegal, U.S. enforcement of the slave trade prohibition was lax.

As many as 500 ships carrying as many as 200,000 Africans, were embroiled in the "middle passage" at that time.

The British generally did not apprehend American vessels, and when they did, they would take the captives to the British colonies in the Caribbean, where slavery was illegal, but where the Africans ended up toiling on plantations in conditions not too far removed from enslavement.

The voyages kept up even during the Civil War, and the last slave ship left New York in 1863.

Then there is the well-known story of the Clothilda: "It was the last slave ship to arrive on American soil," he said.

Cuba, however, was the destination of the vast majority of the African captives.

The Last Slave Trips is Harris's first book. "It's been selling well," he said. "It's been reviewed well." Harris is fond of his adopted country. "I like it very much here," he said.

There is ONE thing he has had to get used to, though.

"The heat," he said, noting that in Ireland the summertime, temperatures usually only get into the seventies.
