Buddha to Buddha is known for its handmade bracelets that are all crafted with passion and skill.

It will take a silversmith approximately 1,5 to 3 days to create a single bracelet. This may not sound very economical, but we at Buddha to Buddha pride ourselves that at a time where “real-time”, “direct delivery” and “swiftness” are valued buzz words, we don’t compromise. Maybe to some retailer’s regret, but our lead-times are not very likely to be shortened. Only if you understand the beauty and art of our jewelry, you will value and cherish every single, unique item that hits the shopfloor.

To give you an impression, we show and explain here how one of our icons - the Barbara bracelet - is made. The process of making a single bracelet is intensive and very inspiring to witness.

- A small long stretched piece of silver, about 10 by 1 cm is being flattened till it reaches a certain thickness.
- After that it’s pulled through a triangular shape until a neat triangle shape is created and soldered closed on the seam.
- This long thread of about 1 m is then wrapped around a tube with a certain diameter and sawn into little pieces, creating small links that are also sewn closed.
- The necessary amount of links all chained together is twisted in a long shape with a special handmade tool until it has the familiar flat triangular shape of the chain bracelet.
- The last part of the process is soldering the casted lock on the bracelet and polishing it to a high shine finish.

IMITATIONS

Authorized dealers

The quality of the imitation duplicates is in no way representative of the craftsmanship of the original pieces. Buyer beware: We advise you strongly to only buy authentic Buddha to Buddha items from authorized dealers. For a list of all our official points of sale you can check our website: www.buddhatobuddha.com/nl/stores

Authentic or imitation?

Buddha to Buddha only sells the highest quality 925 silver with perfect finishing and we do not allow for anything less. Shops, webshops and online marketplaces that offer 'Buddha to Buddha-like', 'Buddha to Buddha Style' or 'silver-plated Buddha to Buddha' are just not selling you the genuine article.

Buddha to Buddha jewelry is all handmade in Southeast Asia. Every piece is crafted by a silversmith. Imitation Buddha to Buddha products are usually developed in China under poor conditions. Imitation items are made from alpaca with only a silver coating. Therefore they feel heavier but the silver plating may change colour or cause an adverse reaction on your skin. In some cases it could detach from the product.

Bali

Buddha to Buddha owns a factory on Bali. This is closed for the public and NOT possible to visit. Guided tours to "Buddha to Buddha factories" are offered locally but are not in any way associated with Buddha to Buddha or our dealers in Bali.

Second hand

If you want to buy a second hand piece online, please do so cautiously. Have a good look at the available pictures from the seller and when in doubt always ask for more. If you only receive pictures that come from the original Buddha to Buddha website, view this as suspicious and same goes for blurry photos. Demand the original purchase receipt or a copy from their point of sales.

Your help is greatly appreciated

If shops in your neighbourhood sell copies of our jewelry, with or without the Buddha to Buddha logo or refer to our brand in any way, please inform us. We hope to safeguard the reputation of our brand so that you, as our client also reap the benefits.
