

Bull the Frog

Written & illustrated by
S. C. Farrow

Narrated by Neil K. Hess

Bull the Frog © 2020 S.C. Farrow
Narrated by Neil K. Hess
Illustrations © 2022 S.C. Farrow

All rights reserved. No part of the text or images may be reproduced, transmitted, downloaded, decompiled, reverse-engineered, or stored in, or introduced into, an information storage or retrieval system in any form or by any means, whether electronic or mechanical, now known or hereinafter invented, without express permission of the publisher.

One day last week across the creek,

Bull the Frog sat on a log.

A fly went by,
right past Bull's eye.

It looped and flipped,
zinged and zipped.

It buzzed his nose,
and then his toes!

It stopped and sat
right on Bull's hat!

Bull flipped his tongue.
Around it swung!

Sherplat! Kerfort!
The fly was caught!

Bull gulped the fly
and breathed a sigh.

In Bull's big tum,
the fly was yum.

Suddenly, Bull's tummy flurped!

And then he burped!

The fly shot out right past Bull's snout.

To Bull's dismay,
it flew away.

Oh well, instead,
Bull went to bed.

