How We met

I still remember the day we met... it felt like any other normal day, nothing too special, nothing extraordinary. But sometimes, the most ordinary moments become the most important ones in our lives.

At first, you were just someone I knew, someone I spoke to casually. There was no idea, no expectation that you would become such an important part of my life. But slowly, things started changing. Our conversations became longer, our talks became more meaningful, and without even realizing it, you became a part of my everyday life.

What I didn't notice at that time was how comfortable I had become with you... how your presence started to feel like home. You were no longer just a person I met, you became someone I looked forward to, someone I missed, someone who made my days better without even trying.

And today, when I look back, I realize that meeting you was not just a moment... it was the beginning of something truly beautiful.

*Happy Birthday to the most beautiful soul I know.
Thank you for being part of my life,*

Smruthi

*I love
you*

Happy Birthday, my love
You came into my life quietly, but you changed everything.
You are my comfort, my happiness, and my favorite part of every day.
I wish you all the success and joy in the world, and I promise to always stand by you.
Let's keep writing our story together... forever.

Suresh Favourites

FOOD

Food is definitely one of his biggest loves.

His face lights up when he gets to eat his favorite dish, and somehow, food always makes him happier than anything else.

Watching him enjoy his food is a happiness in itself.

MUSIC

Music is something that connects deeply with him.

There are songs he listens to on repeat, songs that match his mood, and songs that somehow tell his story. Sometimes, even without saying anything, his playlist says everything.

MOVIES

He has his own taste when it comes to movies and shows.

Some he watches again and again, not because they are new, but because they feel familiar and comforting.

Just like him... simple, real, and meaningful.

CUTE HABITS

It's not just what he likes, it's the little things he does that make him special.

The way he reacts, the way he talks, and the small habits that only people close to him notice.

Those are the things that make him... him.

Our Adventures

Forever with You

Some stories end, some stay in memories,
but ours is still being written.
And I want every page with you.
