MISSION PATCHES FROM ALL ROCKET LAUNCHES

ABOUT THE PROJECT

SPACE PATCHES is an independent project dedicated to the collection, documentation, and dissemination of mission patches from rocket space launches.

The website hosts a growing series of completely free eBooks, created through years of research, writing, and graphic design, with the goal of making this often fragmented and overlooked heritage accessible to everyone.

WHAT MAKES THE PROJECT UNIQUE

- Free eBooks focused on mission patches from past and current space programs
- Strong emphasis on less-covered launches from smaller provider and Chinese missions
- No paywalls, no registration, no intrusive advertising
- Manually curated content with historical and visual attention to detail.
- Independent, non-commercial project created for the space enthusiast community

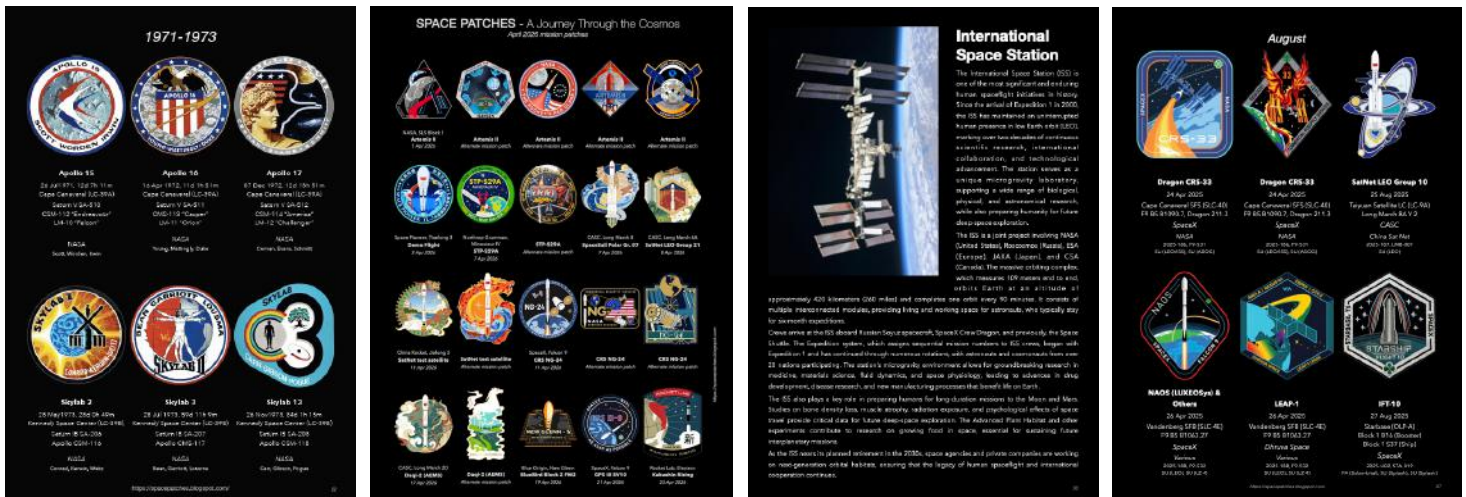

AVAILABLE CONTENT

- Thematic eBooks and posters dedicated to mission patches from space rocket launches with high-quality images with interactive navigation, zoom, and search features, fully optimized for both desktop and mobile devices
- Infographics about the latest 60 days rocket launches
- Last Month's Space Mission Patches and historic Patch of the Day
- Regular updates and new publications

TARGET AUDIENCE

- Space and astronautics enthusiasts
- Science communicators, educators, Social media managers
- Mission patch collectors
- Students and readers interested in spaceflight history

HOW THE CONTENT CAN BE USED

- Featured or mentioned as a free educational resource
- Referenced in videos, podcasts, articles, or newsletters
- Images may be used for outreach and educational purposes with proper attribution

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Created and curated by Gabriele Formentini, a space enthusiast and independent researcher, with the aim of freely sharing a long-term research project with the wider space community.
