Renata Castilho

Also known as Reni Varoli or Renata C, she is an Italo-Brazilian-born artist (b. 1960). Her artistic journey began in Paris in the mid-1970s, where she studied at Lycée Rodin and later trained in jewelry design, model making, and 3D modeling at BJO Formation.

In 2001, she furthered her education at the Glassell School of Art in Houston, focusing on oil painting, and also pursued Art Sciences and Aesthetics at the University of Bologna (DAMS) in 2019.

A self-taught creative in fashion illustration, graphic arts, and object and furniture design, Renata ultimately found her most authentic form of expression through painting – a medium she describes as her “most beloved language.”

Over more than four decades of artistic exploration, she has lived and worked across France, the United States, Italy, Brazil, and Spain. Since 2021, she has resided in Tenerife, where she owns TheNothingRoom Gallery Boutique in Puerto de La Cruz.

Her portfolio includes evocative pieces such as Blows the Wind, Nature, Village, Platano, Pulpo, Poblado, Bay, Nageuse, Otoño, Restos de Primavera, Apilados, and many more.

Renata’s art is defined by profound simplicity and a contemplative nature, translating moments of life, light, and nature into color and bold strokes. She doesn’t hesitate to change tools, often using spatulas, brushes, and even her hands. In fact, she finds it refreshing to continuously explore new techniques—just as she does in life. Each phase of her work is unique and carries its own significance, eventually becoming part of the history and stories she shares.

Active internationally for over forty years, Renata Castilho (Varoli) remains devoted to capturing the poetry of everyday life through her painting.
