Welcome to the October/November edition of Grin N Share It

Welcome to the latest edition of our newsletter. The Halloween celebrations have just concluded and now preparations are underway for Christmas, which we hope this year can be celebrated with family and friends in a far more relaxed way, unlike last year when we all were still under significant restrictions and kept apart from loved ones.

Practice News

We are pleased to announce the return of Dr Anjali Bhuva who returned to the practice this November following her maternity leave. We are delighted she has returned, and this adds to the depth of our team and the services we provide. Anjali will be working on Thursdays and Fridays.

In our last newsletter, we informed you that Dr Hamish Joshi had joined the practice. Dr Joshi is now launching aesthetic treatments at the practice! He is now offering a whole host of treatments which include Botulinum Toxin injections, Dermal Fillers, Chemical Peels and Micro-needling by our Level 7 Trained Practitioners Dr Hamish Joshi and Dr Priya Modi. Get in touch for more details!

Over the past 12 months, we have been requesting medical histories from our patients in a digital format. Our hard work has paid dividends and we can now say that over half of our entire patient base has now completed at least one digital medical history. During this process, some of you have experienced difficulties in logging into these forms whilst in the practice, so we have now added additional patient WIFI access for all our patients whilst you are here. We hope that this will enhance your experience during your time with us. Please lookout for the code which reception will be happy to provide you with.

We have also been busy investing in further technology and have overhauled all our IT systems to make them more efficient and up to date. IT is at the heart of everything these days and our practice is no different and it was imperative that we had the necessary systems in place to be able to provide all our patients with an effective service.
