Projects You'll Love to Make

Made by Michelle

I recently finished this rag quilt using a Layer Cake and a few coordinating fabrics. It was one of those projects that came together easily and felt good every step of the way. The soft edges and colorful squares give it that cozy, lived-in feel, the kind of quilt that invites you to curl up and stay awhile.

I just wrapped up this quilt sample. I used my serger, switching between coverlock and chain stitching techniques. The serger made it so much easier to achieve clean and sturdy seams, giving the quilt a polished finish. I found that alternating between the coverlock and chain stitching techniques added a delightful texture and visual interest.

Upcycle Projects You'll Love to Make

This jacket started as an old hand-quilted quilt that was far too beautiful to stay tucked away in a closet. I decided to give it a second life and turned it into something I could actually wear! Using the Tamarack pattern (which we carry here in the shop), I stitched it together on my serger. Because the fabric was already quilted, it came together quickly—no extra notions needed.

Upcycle Projects You'll Love to Make

When I found an old pair of jeans tucked away, I couldn't bring myself to throw them out. Instead, I decided to upcycle them into something festive: a handmade denim stocking!

My daughter-in-law loved it so much, she requested one for every horse at her barn. Luckily, my two little helpers were eager to join the fun, cutting, stitching, and creating their very own masterpieces. These stockings aren't just décor; they're memories sewn together, one happy afternoon at a time.

FABRIC FUSE INTERFACING

Baby Lock Fabric Fuse is great for stabilizing fabric prior to embroidering or to add stability in the same way that one would use interfacing in sewing garments. This interfacing is flexible and doesn't impact the "hand" of fabric. Fabric stays fluid but with a good foundation that won't stretch. Hats, collars and cuffs, bag making and more benefit from this stabilizer.
