ABOUT US

THE BOER BREED WAS DEVELOPED BY DUTCH FARMERS IN SOUTH AFRICA IN THE EARLY 1900S.

1993

The breed was introduced to the United States in 1993.
The American Boer Goat Association (ABGA) was founded that same year.

AMERICAN BOER GOAT ASSOCIATION

Boer goats are prized for their rapid growth rate, excellent carcass quality, and adaptability to many climates. A docile and highly fertile breed, Boer goats have been primarily used for meat production. Over a century later, these traits set the Boer goat apart in the purebred and commercial segments of the American meat goat industry.

Almost 8,000
members strong and 25,000
registered goats
annually

Today's ABGA offers its members marketing, educational, and commercial industry opportunities, along with youth involvement through the Junior American Boer Goat Association (JABGA).
