We Are All Americans

Stories from Three Road Trips Across Our Nation in the Long Wake of 9/11

By Peter Laufer

In the days after September 11, 2001, photojournalist Peter Laufer set out on a cross-country journey to capture America at its most vulnerable and united. Traveling from New York to California, he documented the voices, faces, and emotions of a diverse cross section of citizens grappling with tragedy, resilience, and what it meant to be American in that moment.

Ten years later, and again on the 20th anniversary, he retraced his trip across the country, reconnecting with Americans to learn how their perspectives had shifted as the nation healed, adapted, and faced new challenges. The result is a remarkable chronicle spanning two decades (2001, 2011, and 2021), one that reveals both the enduring spirit and the evolving identity of America.

Key Features:

- Firsthand interviews with Americans reflecting on 9/11 and its aftermath
- Three cross-country journeys capturing diverse perspectives across states and regions
- Intimate portrait photography paired with interviews
- Documents 20 years of national transformation through lived experience
- This deeply moving portrait offers a rare and authentic look at how a nation—and its citizens—continue to define what it means to be American

Peter Laufer is a journalist who reports on borders, identities, and migration along with the relationships of humans to other animals. A former award-winning correspondent for NBC News, he's written numerous books and covered wars, earthquakes, coups, and elections. Laufer holds the inaugural University of Oregon James Wallace Chair in Journalism. He lives in Eugene, Oregon, and Marin County, California.

Commemorative American Quilts

Stitching Our Heritage from 1876 to Today

By Sandra Sider, Foreword by Pamela Weeks

Just in time for America's 2026 semiquincentennial, reveals the significance—especially for women—of commemorative quilt making through 250 years of US history.

Quilts were not just lying on beds during America's history; in fact, they were sewn specifically to celebrate all of the nation's important birthdays, anniversaries, and celebrations.

Quilt historian Sandra Sider's book explores the history of commemorative quilt making from the 1876 US Centennial to today, showing how it has acted as a tool for preserving stories, bridging cultural divides, and celebrating important moments both local and national.

Sandra Sider, an expert quilt historian, is a past president of Studio Art Quilt Associates and served as curator of the Texas Quilt Museum from 2012 until 2022. She has taught textile history for the MFA Textiles program at Parsons School of Design and elsewhere and has written or edited more than a dozen books concerning contemporary quilt art. sandrasider.com

Street Corner Talking, The Autobiography of Kim Simmonds

The Life and Music of the Founder and Guitarist of Savoy Brown

By Kim Simmonds, with Debbie Lyons Simmonds, Foreword by Mike Vernon, MBE

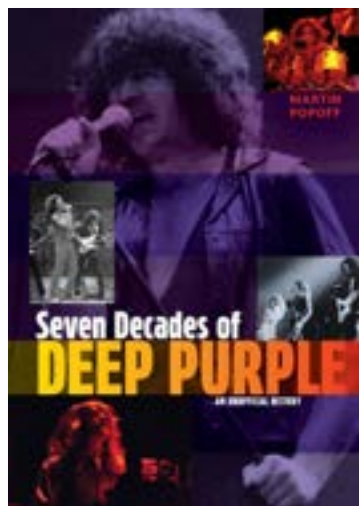

In this candid autobiography, Kim Simmonds, legendary guitarist and founder of Savoy Brown, shares his six-decade journey in blues-rock. From discovering the blues in post-WWII Wales to leading one of Britain's most enduring bands, Simmonds recounts Savoy Brown's rise to international fame, particularly in the US, where albums such as Street Corner Talking and Hellbound Train became classics. With honesty and humor, he reflects on the ever-changing music scene, encounters with legends such as Jimmy Page and Eric Clapton, and the challenges of keeping a band together. Even after a cancer diagnosis, his passion for music never wavered. Featuring a foreword by producer Mike Vernon, MBE, and contributions from Kim's wife, Debbie, this book is filled with behind-the-scenes stories and personal reflections. A must-read for music lovers, it offers a rare glimpse into the life of a true blues-rock pioneer who played until his final note.

Kim Simmonds (1947–2022) was a British blues-rock guitarist and the founder of Savoy Brown and was known for his fiery solos and pioneering British blues from the 1960s onward.

Debbie Lyons Simmonds met Kim in 1991 at, as you guessed, a gig. They were together for the next 31 years, until Kim's passing. Kim's dream was publishing this book, and working on this has brought her even closer to him. She is thrilled to make this book a reality and is even more excited to share it with everyone. She resides in New York with her family and pets.

Mike Vernon's credits include producing some of the all-time great artists, such as Savoy Brown, Eric Clapton, David Bowie, John Mayall, Ten Years After, Peter Green, and Fleetwood Mac. Vernon still works in music to this day, most recently with his new formed band Cat Squirrel.

The Essential Artists and Songs, from Old-Time to Honky-Tonk, 1920–1970

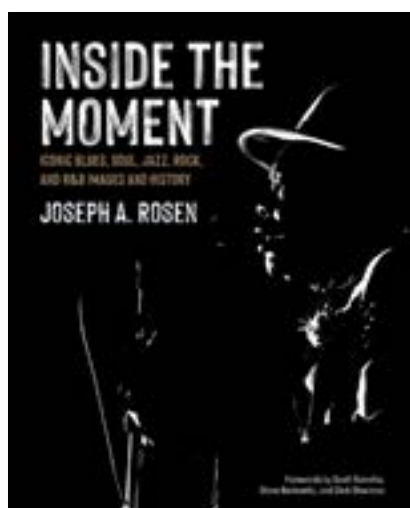

By Tony Russell, Foreword by Scott B. Bomar

Vintage Country is the first illustrated book to explore the rural and urban roots of country music, tracing its evolution from early recordings and radio days to its 1940s–1950s rise, before Nashville's dominance.

Written by renowned historian Tony Russell, it profiles over 100 key artists and bands, including Jimmie Rodgers, Doc Boggs, Taylor's Kentucky Boys, Red Foley, DeZurik Sisters, Carl T. Sprague, Hackberry Ramblers, Hank Williams, Molly O'Day, Merle Travis, and the Louvin Brothers.

The book is organized into six chapters by style and era: pre-Depression "Old Time" music, Radio Years stars (1930s–WWII), cowboy & western music, Western swing, honky-tonk, and bluegrass. Each entry highlights the artist's history, influences, and career, with an "essential recordings" list for quick reference. Richly illustrated with posters, sheet music, and artifacts, Vintage Country brings the genre's origins to life through evocative visuals and expert storytelling, making it a compelling resource for music lovers and historians alike.

Tony Russell is a leading historian of American vernacular music. His books include Blacks, Whites and Blues (1970; reprinted 2001), Country Music Records: A Discography, 1921–1942 (2004), Country Music Originals: The Legends and the Lost (2007), and Rural Rhythm: The Story of Old-Time Country Music in 78 Records (2021). He has been nominated twice for a Grammy for Best Album Notes and has received Lifetime Achievement Awards from the Association of Recorded Sound Collections and the International Country Music Conference.

Midwest Home

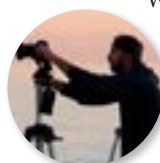

Interior Design in America's Heartland

By Ryan Hainey, Foreword by Carl Dellatore

Midwest Home is a richly photographed tribute to the quiet confidence and enduring charm of Midwestern interior design. Featuring 20 homes ranging from lakeside retreats to sleek city lofts, the book captures the full spectrum of style across America's heartland and celebrates how architecture responds to place, climate, and culture. Far from being derivative of coastal trends, these homes speak their own language: one of sustainability, practicality, and beauty born of restraint.

Key Features:

- Tells an often-overlooked story of regional design: This book brings attention to the quiet innovation and deep-rooted beauty in Midwestern residential design.
- Features intentional curation: The selected residences include chic urban apartments, a Craftsman-style home, a European-style villa, an updated farmhouse, and lakeside retreats—with each project reflecting a broader story about Midwestern living.
- Provides rare, insider access: Hainey has lived and worked in the region for over a decade, and some of the region's top designers have granted him access to spaces the public rarely sees.
- Showcases sustainability: The spotlighted homes display the region's commitment to craftsmanship, local materials, and sustainable design practices.

With a foreword by Carl Dellatore, Midwest Home will captivate architects, designers, and lovers of regional architecture and American style as it celebrates the soulful, sustainable, and story-rich interiors from across America's heartland.

Ryan Hainey is a photographer and creative director based in Milwaukee, drawn to the quiet power of place and the emotional resonance of design. His work has appeared in Architectural Digest, Luxe, and ArchDaily.

Gilroy Indians

The Indian Motorcycle Company of America, 1999–2003

By George F. Paul, Foreword by Rey Sotelo

The Indian Motorcycle Company, based in Gilroy, California, revived and renewed an iconic brand. Indian Motorcycle was once the largest and best-known bike company in the world but ceased manufacture in 1953, permanently. Forty-six years later, the Indians of Gilroy brought the brand back. Although the company survived for just five years (1999–2003), it was responsible for resurrecting the Indian brand into a single legal entity after years of other abortive attempts at rival and the resulting chaos.

The launching of the Gilroy operation amid fierce legal competition from other groups, its struggle to develop an all-Indian motorcycle, its hand-to-mouth operation, and its final collapse is a fascinating story. The 13,000 motorcycles built at Gilroy have a cult following.

This is the only comprehensive, illustrated history of the Gilroy Indian motorcycles. It also provides an intimate look at the short, tumultuous life of the business behind the bikes.

George F. Paul is a speech pathologist by trade. His passions include vintage phonographs, about which he has authored several books, and motorcycles. He lives with his family in western New York state.

Boeing 777

People "Working Together" to Produce the Triple Seven

By Dan Dornseif, Alan Mulally

The "Triple Seven" is the most produced wide-body jet airliner in history and remains a fixture for many of the world's great airlines today. The 777 was the first Boeing airliner to be designed using digital software, and the first to utilize "fly-by-wire" controls. Such innovations were incubated by and executed through a leadership and management system dubbed "Working Together."

In the creation of this work, author Dan Dornseif enjoyed the collaboration of many individuals directly involved with the airplane's development and operation, including Alan Mulally, who was Boeing's director of engineering and general manager of the 777 project. This book is written for experts and laymen alike and includes more than 400 photos and diagrams.

This is Dan Dornseif's fourth book on jet airliners with Schiffer Publishing. With more than 20,000 hours of flight time, he is a pilot and captain for a major American carrier. When he is not flying jetliners, he enjoys spending time with family, flying antique aircraft, and scale modeling. He lives in Florida.

Apollo 8 in Photographs

By J. L. Pickering & John Bisney, With Ed Hengeveld

The Apollo Photo Archive series comprises the most comprehensive pictorial record of America's moon-landing program ever published.

The series continues with the Apollo 8 launch in December 1968. Frank Borman, Jim Lovell, and Bill Anders achieved several historic firsts on this flight. Apollo 8 was the first manned flight to escape Earth's gravity, and the first to orbit another celestial body (the moon). Launched by the Saturn V rocket, the crew of Apollo 8 reached 24,593 mph, setting both manned speed and distance-from-Earth records.

The Apollo Photo Archive features images of spacecraft and rocket assembly, crew selection and training, preflight activities, mission countdown, launch, the flight itself, splashdown, and subsequent crew appearances and related activities. This particular volume includes more than 800 images.

J. L. Pickering, who has amassed the world's largest private archive of US human space flight images, has been conducting historical photo research on the US space program for nearly 50 years. This includes assembling, studying, and organizing a personal collection of more than 250,000 prints, transparencies, and digital files. Today he serves as a resource for authors, museums, astronauts, and others. He lives in Illinois.

John Bisney is an author, journalist, and retired network news correspondent who covered the space program for more than 30 years for CNN, the Discovery Science Channel, RKO, and SiriusXM Radio. He witnessed more than 60 space shuttle launches and was one of the few broadcasters at the 1986 Challenger disaster. He holds a master of arts degree in journalism from the University of Missouri School of Journalism. He lives in the Tampa Bay, Florida, area.

Keepers of a Movement

Black Collectors who Preserve Art, Stories, and Legacies That Define Black Life

By Myrah Brown Green

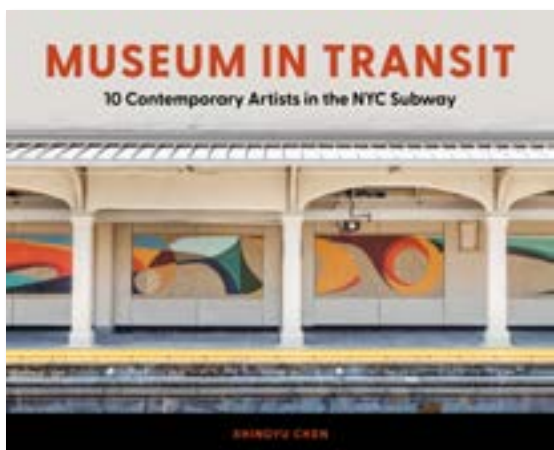

For centuries, Black artists across the African diaspora have been architects of cultural innovation, resilience, and transformation. Their art, music, literature, and activism have profoundly shaped the world. But behind these celebrated figures stands another equally vital force: the Black collector.

These keepers of history and culture play a crucial role in preserving artifacts, stories, and legacies that define Black life. They safeguard rare books, heirlooms, art, and ephemera that might otherwise be lost, ensuring future generations can access these narratives.

Keepers of a Movement honors these individuals whose passion and dedication illuminate our heritage and identity. Each collection showcases a unique perspective, offering a deeper understanding of history. Visitors will also hear from collectors about their personal connections to the works featured. More than objects, these collections represent lives, communities, and movements—ensuring that Black voices are heard, remembered, and celebrated for generations to come.

Dr. Myrah Brown Green is an art historian, author, arts consultant and coach, lecturer, and independent curator. Dr. Myrah has published and is included in multiple publications. Her award-winning book Brooklyn on My Mind: Black Artists from the WPA to the Present was released in November 2018. Dr. Myrah resides in New York City.

Mediterranean Tattoos

The History of Tattooing Since Its Earliest Origins

Edited by Luisa Gnechi Ruscone & Guido Guerzoni

Modern tattooing gained widespread attention in the 18th century, when a British naval officer, Capt. James Cook, returned from Polynesia with “Prince Omai,” the first fully tattooed man seen by the English court. His appearance sparked both fascination and intrigue. However, tattooing in Europe predates Cook’s voyages by millennia. Evidence from the Paleolithic and Neolithic Eras reveals that tattooing has served various purposes, meanings, and visual styles throughout history. This book offers a chronological and geographical journey displaying key artifacts, testimonies, and artwork, exploring the diverse expressions and cultural roles of tattooing over time. It spans the broader and historical Mediterranean, including ancient Egypt, Italy, Greece, Israel, France, and the Balkans, as well as other regions with notable finds such as Peru, Siberia, and the Tarim Basin in northwestern China. This wealth of information aims to inspire contemporary tattoo artists and deepen understanding of this ancient, global tradition.

Luisa Gnechi Ruscone is among the leading Italian scholars of tattooing. She has written several publications on this subject and curated numerous exhibitions.

The Little Book of French Signs

By Kim Buddee

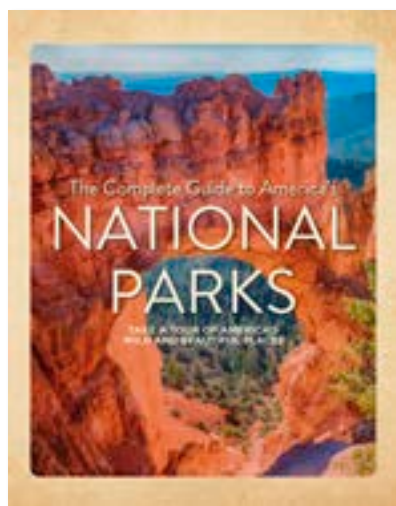

This is a celebration of the stunning graphic works that grace the streets and buildings of the cities and countryside in France. There is the ornate gold-leaf signage of charming cafés, the ancient medieval signs hanging off facades, and the vibrant glow of neon lights.

The ghostly remnants of faded advertisements that whisper tales of bygone businesses are shown together with iconic plaques depicting street names and house numbers. Contemporary street art that transforms urban landscapes into open-air galleries is displayed beside beautiful painted shop fronts.

This collection of images serves not only as a testament to the remarkable diversity of the signs but also as tribute to the artists and craftsmen who brought them to life. Some signs are merely functional objects—others are works of art—but all are windows into the past and reflections of the present, capturing the essence of the French spirit and its change over time.

Kim Buddee is an Australian architect and filmmaker best known for his designs in film and television. His passion for finding beauty in everyday places has drawn him to explore and capture images from around the world. He has crafted his photographs and text into books on Cuba, France, Myanmar, and Thailand.

America's Ballparks

A Trip Across the Country to Visit Baseball's Playing Fields, Old and New

By Nancy J. Hajeski

Nothing stirs the soul of a baseball fan like the crack of a bat against a ball . . . or the sight of a fielder leaping high into the air to snatch that ball out of play. What would these fans be without their favorite sport, and what would baseball be without those high-tiered, impossibly beautiful temples to the sport called ballparks?

North Americans have treasured some wonderful venues from bygone eras but sadly lost so many as well. Within the pages of this book, readers can revel in the new builds—the retro-modern fields inspired by Baltimore's Camden Yards, while looking fondly back at the older, more-traditional ballparks often referred to as Jewel Boxes. In America's Ballparks all 30 Major League Baseball stadiums are covered in detail, along with a brief history of their teams and background on any previous ballparks in which they played.

Special features throughout the book include the following:

- The design evolution and anatomy of ballparks
- The home fields of the Negro Leagues
- The top venues of Japan's Nippon Professional Baseball
- There is even a section that examines the long partnership between baseball and corporate branding.
- Each ballpark entry provides cumulative team stats, as well as lists of stadium firsts and club achievements.

Nancy J. Hajeski is a lifelong baseball fan, as well as the author of the biography of a sports legend—Ali: The Official Story of the Greatest of All Time. She lives in New York.

Psi, Spirits, and Other Paranormal Phenomena

An Academic Exploration of Paranormal and Psychic Accounts

By Scott Quimby

A well-researched and written presentation of paranormal and psychically related stories and historical accounts by an established author and professor.

Belief in unusual events and phenomena not fitting the way we expect our everyday world to work has been around as long as we have been able report experiences. Although science, over the last 400 years, has carefully examined conceivable aspects of what we think of as the "natural world," often concluding these unusual phenomena do not exist, large numbers of people continue to believe that they do.

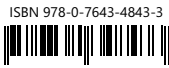

We are fascinated by accounts we cannot explain of the paranormal: ghosts, hauntings, contact with deceased loved ones, direct awareness of people's thoughts, glimpses of the future, contact with spirits and aliens, and much more.

Discover in-depth discussions for topics such as

- psychic research, spiritualism, and relesement therapy;
- demons, ghosts, witches, and evil entities; and
- visions, religious beliefs, past lives, and mystical experiences.

Through academic research and personal experiences/observations by celebrated author, clinical psychologist, and professor Scott Quimby, with a lifelong interest in human potential, this book offers some of the best stories you will encounter.

Scott Quimby is a retired university professor and clinical psychologist. He has a PhD from Purdue University and has published five books. He lives in Tennessee.

The World in Me

By Daria Tavoularis

Through lyrical verse and rich, dreamlike imagery, The World in Me invites children to see themselves as part of nature's great story—from shifting skies to deep emotions, from the rhythm of time to the dance of seasons.

As young readers journey through one continuous panoramic illustration, they'll spot a fairy, a child, a crow, and a red thread on every page—gentle symbols of connection, curiosity, and care for all living things.

A poetic meditation on empathy and earth stewardship, The World in Me reminds us that everything in nature—including ourselves—is beautifully intertwined.

Daria Tavoularis received her BFA in studio art from the Cooper Union and her MFA from the University of British Columbia. She has been a student of the natural world for as long as she can remember. Daria lives in the high desert city of Reno, Nevada, which was once a prehistoric inland sea. She considers the earth to be very wise, since it has lived through so much change and evolution.

Hanging Out with Gram

By Nancy Viau, Illustrated by Amanda Lenz

Young Mateo is excited to hang out with his grandmother, and he has carefully prepared a list of activities that he thinks are exactly right for sweet, old Gram—complete with leisurely walks, lots of rest, and carefully selected foods. However, Mateo soon realizes that Gram has her own way of interpreting his list. One by one, she debunks his expectations, encourages him to be more active, and leads him on a series of unexpected, new adventures.

- Celebrates multigenerational family bonds: The story encourages grandparents and grandchildren to share interests and adventures and to truly get to know each other.
- Encourages sharing outdoor activities and learning new skills: Mateo and Gram run in the park, ride bikes, swim in the ocean, and read together.
- Challenges stereotypes: The antics of this vibrant, active, and adventurous grandmother repeatedly push her grandson out of his comfort zone and debunk his misconceptions about how older adults behave.
- Funny and heartwarming: Charming, detailed illustrations pair with funny dialogue and situational humor for a fun, playful story.

Patch Tarot

The Spirit Science Deck

(Tarot Kit Box Set with 78 Cards and Guide Book)

By Jordan River

Blending ancient teachings with lived spirituality, Patch Tarot makes esoteric wisdom accessible for the rest of us. In the prismatic visual world of Patchman from Spirit Science, discover the Tarot through the profound symbolism of the Qabalah, alchemy, astrology, and more.

Patch Tarot is the result of extensive study and research into the foundational Tarot systems, including the Rider-Waite and Thoth, with roots tracing back to the Order of the Golden Dawn in 1888. Each card is carefully crafted by integrating these historical perspectives with deeper esoteric symbolism from Hermetics, alchemy, and Qabalah, creating a uniquely harmonious synthesis of wisdom and reflection.

Every detail carries symbolic weight, whether subtly hidden or prominently displayed—from clothing and objects to the environment itself. While readers may intuit their own meanings, the deck also includes “astral signatures” in the corners, offering key insights into planetary, zodiacal, elemental, and qabalistic connections, along with upright and reversed interpretations.

Jordan River is the creator of Patch Tarot and Spirit Science, a globally recognized platform that has taught millions about spirituality, Tarot, and esoteric wisdom. With over 14 years of teaching experience, Jordan blends ancient wisdom with modern insights, making deep knowledge accessible and transformative. He lives in British Columbia, Canada.

(Lenormand Box Set with 37 Cards and Guide Book)

By Anastasia Kashian, Foreword by Caitlín Matthews

Based on the offbeat imagery of medieval marginalia, The Marginal Lenormand brings traditional Lenormand symbolism to life with anxiety-ridden rabbits, highly suggestive fruit trees, and flowers sprouting from inappropriate places.

With imagery ranging from bawdy to humorous to just plain strange, Marginal is sure to amuse, while still maintaining Lenormand's classic meanings and renowned accuracy. Creator Anastasia Kashian provides both the rich watercolor images and the lively guidebook text, which reviews card meaning as well as interpretations with select pairings.

Whether you're drawn to the absurd, the esoteric, or the oddly insightful, this is a deck for those who know their history, appreciate a bit of edge, and aren't afraid to laugh while divining their fate.

Anastasia Kashian is an artist and the creator of the Les Dinosaures de Marseille (2021) and Baba Yaga's Little Book of Hut Maintenance, or, Chicken Legs for the Soul. Anastasia lives and works mainly in West Wales.

Candle Whimsy

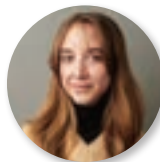

23 Bold, Bendy Projects That Break the Mold

By Anna Dykhoff

Learn the basics of candle making, then use your skills to color outside the proverbial lines. This clear, colorful guide focuses on ways to add eye-catching visual movement to candles.

First, learn in-depth candle-making basics. Next, master five techniques: dipping, casting, building, shaping, and dyeing. The 23 projects encourage you to shape your candles in unexpected ways. Twisted, spiraled, angling in striking directions?

- The 23 projects allow candles to shine with curves, twists, sculpture, and other ways to level up and personalize this craft. Projects include a candle crown; candles that are twisted balls, multiple branch, spiraling, color-marbled, and more.
- A fresh design aesthetic for today's makers. The author's innovative, whimsical designs transform this craft into an ultracontemporary, expressive new favorite.
- Focuses on natural, sustainable materials. Anna explains ways to source your wax and wicks wisely, and their environmental impact inside and outside the home. The projects use beeswax or stearin wax (a vegan option), plus cotton wicks.
- Repurposes everyday materials that readers probably have lying around the home, such as glass jars, toilet paper rolls, and crayon wax.
- Teaches dyeing and coloring methods using either purchased wax pigments or crayons: dyeing wax, dip painting in a water bath, and marbledizing.

Anna Dykhoff is a set designer and interior designer working primarily in film, television, and the performing arts. Her design curiosity led her to try working with wax as a potential set-creation medium, and then she decided to make a few candles. She teaches her striking candle design techniques to makers of all kinds. Anna holds a degree in interior architecture and furniture design from Konstfack University of Arts, Crafts and Design. The Africa Ship

Ludwig Bockholt, Zeppelin L 59, and the Most Daring Rescue Mission of WWI

By Dominic Etzold

Paul Emil von Lettow-Vorbeck, who commanded imperial German forces in East Africa during the First World War, is widely regarded as one of the finest military leaders of the war, on either side. He and his men managed not only to evade capture or destruction, but to truly instill fear within their primarily British opposition. This was despite being not only vastly outnumbered but also nearly impossible to resupply from Europe. The Royal Navy smothered East Africa with an incredibly effective blockade, while the Allied forces on the ground controlled all major rail lines.

In late 1917, the German navy devised a desperate plan to resupply von Lettow-Vorbeck's army via airship. The plan called for a lone airship, L 59, to be piloted by Captain Ludwig Bockholt and an all-volunteer crew from Bulgaria directly to the East African colony. There was no consideration of a return journey; L 59 would be disassembled for supplies and her crew would join the fight on the ground. This work details the planning, execution, and eventual failure of this ambitious operation, along with the sad fate of L 59 and her crew.

Dominic Etzold holds a degree in history and politics from Drexel University. His first book, Reaping the Whirlwind, was published by Schiffer in 2023. He lives in New Jersey.

Combat Historian

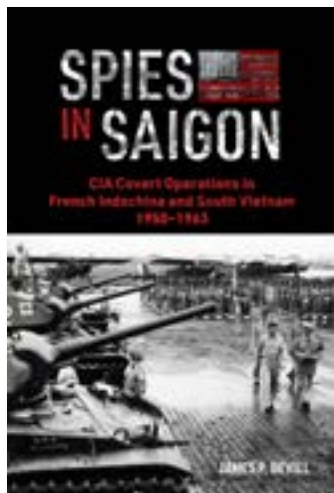

Collecting and Writing Army Special-Operations History from Desert Storm to Afghanistan (1991–2002)

By Col. (Ret.) Richard W. Stewart

Richard Stewart was the chief historian of the US Army from 1998 to 2015. From 1990 to 1998, he was the command historian of US Army Special Operations Command. In this capacity, he deployed to cover special forces during Operation Desert Storm (Saudi Arabia and Kuwait), Task Force Ranger (Somalia, "Black Hawk Down"), Operation Uphold Democracy (Haiti), Operation Joint Endeavor/Guard (Bosnia), and Operation Enduring Freedom (Afghanistan).

This work is both a history of Army special operations and their missions during that era and a first-person account of experiencing conflict through the very specific lens of the combat historian.

Dr. Richard W. Stewart retired as chief historian of the US Army in October 2015 after 28 years of civilian service. He received his PhD from Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut, in 1986. His historical works include War in the Persian Gulf: Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, August 1990–March 1991, The United States Army in Somalia, 1992–1994, Operation Urgent Fury: The Invasion of Grenada, October 1983, and U.S. Army in Afghanistan: Operation Enduring Freedom, October 2001 to March 2002. He served as the general editor of the two-volume American Military History and was coauthor with Brig. Gen. (Ret.) John S. Brown of American Armed Forces and Battles in the Pacific: World War II for the American Battle Monuments Commission. He also served for 30 years as an Army officer, including deployments to the Persian Gulf for Desert Storm, Somalia in 1993, Bosnia in 1997, and Afghanistan in 2002, retiring as a colonel in June 2002. He lives in the Washington, DC, area.

Spies in Saigon

CIA Covert Operations in French Indochina and South Vietnam, 1950–1963

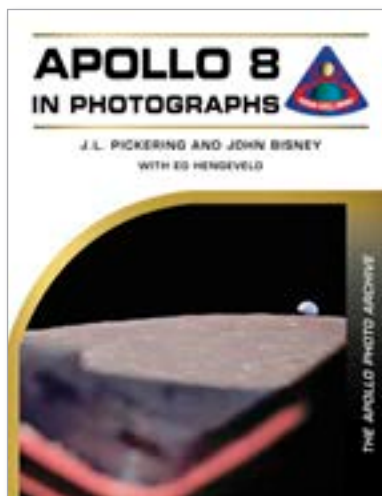

By James P. Bevell

America's involvement in Vietnam began in the early 1950s. Using personal stories, eyewitness accounts, and recently declassified CIA reports from the field, author James P. Bevell describes the agency's clandestine efforts to block Vietnamese independence, then help create the Republic of South Vietnam.

Key among these primary sources are the CIA files of Paul L. Springer. Springer arrived in Saigon in May 1950. In 1951 he was named the CIA's first chief of station in Indochina. In this role, during the French war against Ho Chi Minh and the China-backed Viet Minh revolutionary movement, he built the foundations of the American espionage network in Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos.

Following the 2019 conclusion of a successful Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) lawsuit for the records of Paul Springer's CIA files, the CIA information review officer argued that "plaintiff's FOIA request could reasonably be expected to cause damage to national security by disclosing intelligence activities, sources, and methods." Lost in this argument is that all the intelligence records related to Paul Springer's service as chief of station were over 55 years old. The countries they pertained to no longer existed, and any of their perceived adversaries had long since died.

James P. Bevell is an independent historian and award-winning author. His love of history inspired him to read, organize, and catalog the voluminous papers of his wife Jodie's father, Paul Springer, who taught at Yale-in-China in 1941–42 before joining the US State Department in Chungking. This research resulted in Blackboards and Bomb Shelters: The Perilous Journey of Americans in China during World War II (Schiffer, 2021). Spies in Saigon picks up Springer's story in the postwar period. He lives in Houston.

Apollo 8 in Photographs

By J. L. Pickering & John Bisney, with Ed Hengeveld

The Apollo Photo Archive series comprises the most comprehensive pictorial record of America's moon-landing program ever published.

The series continues with the Apollo 8 launch in December 1968. Frank Borman, Jim Lovell, and Bill Anders achieved several historic firsts on this flight. Apollo 8 was the first manned flight to escape Earth's gravity, and the first to orbit another celestial body (the moon). Launched by the Saturn V rocket, the crew of Apollo 8 reached 24,593 mph, setting both manned speed and distance-from-Earth records.

The Apollo Photo Archive features images of spacecraft and rocket assembly, crew selection and training, preflight activities, mission countdown, launch, the flight itself, splashdown, and subsequent crew appearances and related activities. This particular volume includes more than 800 images.

J. L. Pickering, who has amassed the world's largest private archive of US human space flight images, has been conducting historical photo research on the US space program for nearly 50 years. This includes assembling, studying, and organizing a personal collection of more than 250,000 prints, transparencies, and digital files. Today he serves as a resource for authors, museums, astronauts, and others. He lives in Illinois.

John Bisney is an author, journalist, and retired network news correspondent who covered the space program for more than 30 years for CNN, the Discovery Science Channel, RKO, and SiriusXM Radio. He witnessed more than 60 space shuttle launches and was one of the few broadcasters at the 1986 Challenger disaster. He holds a master of arts degree in journalism from the University of Missouri School of Journalism. He lives in the Tampa Bay, Florida, area.
