Welcome!

My name is Csilla, I'm the artist behind Tiny Bits Costa del Sol, based in Mijas Costa, where wedding bouquets are transformed into timeless pieces of art.

Many of my brides travel to Spain from abroad to celebrate their destination wedding. After the celebration, their flowers stay with me in the studio, where I carefully preserve them and turn them into elegant framed keepsakes.

Once your piece is finished, it is safely packaged and shipped to your home, whether you live in Europe, the United States, the United Kingdom, or anywhere else in the world.

This way, your wedding flowers can travel home with you and remain a beautiful reminder of your special day in Spain.

I'm proud to be a Wedding award winning artist, trusted by couples from around the world to preserve one of the most meaningful details of their wedding day.

HOW can your bouquet REACH OUR STUDIO?

getting your flowers to the studio is easier than you think

MANY BRIDES WONDER HOW THEIR WEDDING BOUQUET CAN SAFELY REACH THE STUDIO AFTER THE CELEBRATION

The good news is, that is much simpler than most people expect. Even during the busy wedding days, sending your bouquet requires very little extra planning.

Most bouquets arrive at the studio through express shipping services. Many international and national couriers offer 24-48 hours delivery, which is ideal for transporting fresh flowers safely. Services such as DHL Express, UPS Express, Correos Express or similar express couriers can quickly deliver your bouquet to the studio.

Because the studio is located on the Costa del Sol, there are also convenient local options for brides who are getting married in the area.

If your wedding takes place nearby, the bouquet can be delivered to the studio in person, or in some cases we can collect it the day after the wedding to make the process even easier for you.

Once the bouquet arrives at the studio, the preservation process begins, carefully transforming your wedding flowers into a timeless framed keepsake.

Keep your bouquet in a cool, dark place until sending.

Get a box big enough to fit the bouquet.

Wrap the stems with wet paper towels & plastic.

Place the bouquet into the box, standing & add paper towels all around.

Add a note with your name, phone, wedding location & date.

Close the box, add fragile signs & post it!

EXPRESS SHIPPING OR LOCAL PICKUP, YOUR BOUQUET WILL REACH THE STUDIO SAFELY

WHERE NATURE MEETS ELEGANCE

The beauty of a preserved bouquet lies not only in its delicate details but also in the journey it undergoes. Each flower, a living part of nature, experiences a natural transformation during the drying process. Whites may take on a subtle creamy hue, reds may deepen into rich burgundy tones, this is part of the charm and authenticity of preserved blooms. For those seeking the most vibrant interpretation, color correction is always available, allowing the original, lively colors of the flowers to shine once again.

Whether you prefer the natural, gentle tones or the vivid, restored palette, understanding the unique nature of each flower ensures a result that is both beautiful and timeless.

To achieve the best outcome, it's recommended to send your bouquet promptly, while it's still fresh. Planning ahead and considering the colors and styles you love ensures that every detail reflects your vision, preserving the elegance of your bouquet for years to come.
