A TABLE FOR THE NATION

A Table For The Nation at Lincoln Cathedral

BLACKBURN CATHEDRAL

bc 1926:2026 A Table For The Nation
at Blackburn Cathedral

Created from a section of the nation's most significant tree - a gigantic 5,000 year old Fenland Black Oak - the 13m table is made from ancient, fossilised oak and is a masterpiece of craftsmanship.

Unlike anything seen before, 'A Table for the Nation' is made from timber older than the pyramids and gives us a unique insight into the scale and majesty of our ancient high forests.

The black oak was discovered in 2012, the year of Her Majesty the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, and was completed, unveiled, and dedicated to her in 2022, her Platinum Jubilee year. It will now enjoy a twelve month residency at Blackburn Cathedral where all are warmly encouraged to visit and marvel at this stunning piece of history.

We are deeply honoured that Blackburn Cathedral will be the home to the Fenland Black Oak Table for the next twelve months. This magnificent work of exceptional skill and artistry is genuinely without equal.

We trust it will inspire everyone who comes to visit it or who gathers around it for special events. As a powerful centrepiece that draws people together, we hope it will stand as a unifying focal point - truly living up to its calling as 'A Table for the Nation'.

The Revd.
Canon Andrew Horsfall
Interim Dean of Blackburn

Having previously been displayed at Ely, Rochester, Lincoln and Lichfield cathedrals, Blackburn Cathedral is the furthest north the table has been. Available to view during normal opening hours, it will be used for special worship, community activities and commercial events throughout our centenary year and into 2027.
