سُورَةُ الْكَافِرَاتِ
AL-KAFIRAT (The Absurdities)
Revealed in Mecca: 108: 1-3

Introduction

In the old days people believed that women who were not married to their husbands were cursed. When Allah sent Muhammad to his people, they were angry with him because he told them that they should not believe in such things. He told them that he was only a messenger of Allah and that his message was for all people. He told them that the only way to be saved was to believe in Allah and to follow His commands.

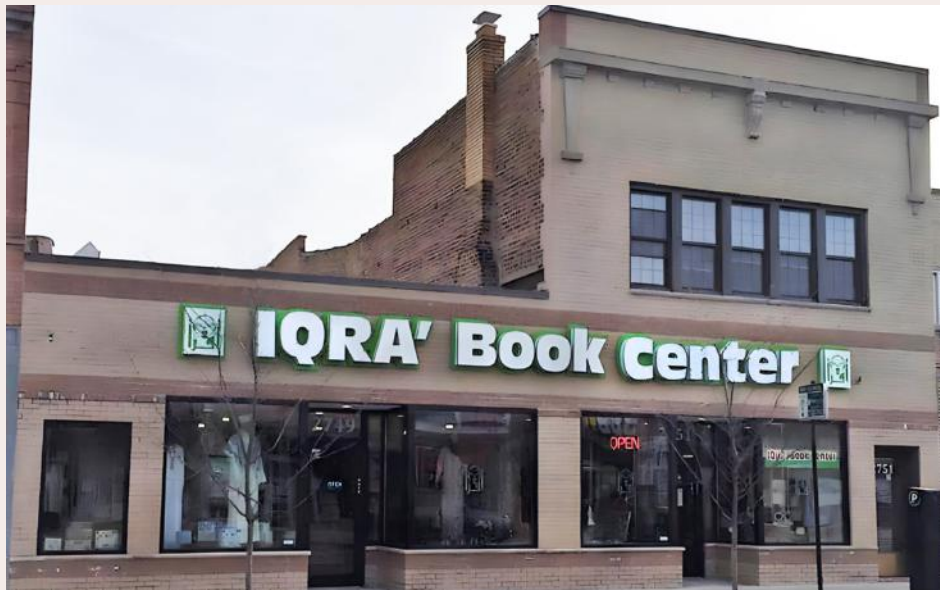

سُورَةُ الْكَافِرَاتِ
بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ
إِلَّا أَنْظَلْنَاهُ إِلَّا أَنْظَلْنَاهُ
مَنْزُورًا
إِنْ تَسْتَفْتِنَا عَنْ شَيْءٍ فَاسْأَلْنَا

Enhancing Weekend School Islamic Education

Weekend schools play a pivotal role as the primary avenue for young Muslims in North America to learn the foundational principles of Islam. For many students, these schools represent the sole source of their religious education. This reality underscores the importance of maximizing the quality of instruction provided during weekend school sessions.

Recent data indicates that there are well over 2,600 masājid and Islamic centers in the United States, each undoubtedly offering some form of religious education for children. While this may encompass only a fraction of the total number of Muslim children in the country, it still translates to tens of thousands of students enrolled in weekend or supplementary Islamic schools nationwide.

In contrast to full-time Islamic schools, where students are immersed in a Muslim environment throughout the week, weekend schools must deliver their curriculum within the constraints of two to four hours on a single day. This limited time and exposure heightens the necessity for effective teaching methods. It is imperative that weekend school educators are equipped with the right tools to impart knowledge in a manner that leaves a lasting impact on their students. Clear, convincing, and memorable communication of Islamic teachings is essential to fortify students' faith against the pervasive doubts of the modern world. Simply instructing students to “believe” is not sufficient.

Given this context, there is a significant need for a high-quality, comprehensive program like IQRA' WISE. IQRA' recognizes its mission and capability to develop a series of textbooks, workbooks, and other educational materials specifically designed for weekend schools. Through the IQRA' WISE program, we aim to achieve this goal, bi-idhnillāhi ta'āla, with the permission of Allah, the Exalted.

Our mission is to ensure that the truths of Islam are effectively communicated and internalized by students, empowering them to uphold their faith with confidence and conviction in the face of contemporary challenges. Join us in this endeavor to elevate the standard of weekend Islamic education and nurture a generation of knowledgeable, resilient young Muslims.

COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS

The instructional content of IQRA' WISE textbooks is developed in accordance with the assessment standards set by nationally-recognized Islamic Studies Standardized Tests™. This overarching framework is designed to ensure a coherent and effective flow of study, starting from the first grade and continuing through the eighth grade. It outlines the larger instructional goals of the entire IQRA' WISE course of study, providing a clear road map for both educators and students.

STRUCTURED PROGRESSION & AVOIDANCE OF REPETITION

The framework assists curriculum planners, including teachers and administrators, in preventing unnecessary repetition of course material. By offering a structured progression, it helps educators prepare lessons that are appropriate for the students' level of understanding and maturity at each grade level. This ensures that students build on their knowledge each year without redundancy, making their learning experience more efficient and meaningful.

GUIDANCE FOR TEACHERS

For weekend Islamic Studies teachers, this framework is an invaluable tool. It provides clear and concise guidelines on what is to be taught in each class, helping educators deliver content that is both age-appropriate and pedagogically sound. Teachers can confidently plan their lessons, knowing they are aligned with the overall instructional goals of the IQRA' WISE program.

MODERN YASSARNAL QUR'AN

Introducing the Modern Yassarنال Qur'an, an innovative educational resource designed specifically for young learners. Unlike traditional versions used for centuries, this book exclusively utilizes words taken directly from the Qur'an, allowing beginning readers to familiarize themselves with Qur'anic vocabulary early in their learning journey. This unique approach ensures that students not only learn to read the Arabic text with ease and fluency but also achieve correct pronunciation from the start. Ideal for elementary school students, this textbook fosters a deep connection with the Qur'anic language, paving the way for a lifelong appreciation and understanding of the sacred text.
