EXPLORE PARIS

Paris has an incomparable historical and cultural heritage. Iconic monuments, museums and collections not to be missed, castles, palaces... the list is long! To help you plan your trip to Paris and make sure you don't miss anything on your first visit to the most beautiful city in the world, here's a list of 10 places you absolutely must see at least once.

The Eiffel Tower, the Iron Lady of Paris
You can't visit Paris without seeing the Eiffel Tower. Built for the 1889 World's Fair, it is now the quintessential symbol of the City of Light. Linger on the first floor with its spectacular glass floor. You can even stop here for a bite to eat. From the very top, the great Iron Lady offers an incredible view of the most beautiful monuments of Paris.

The Louvre, the world's largest museum
A former palace of the French monarchs, the Louvre, covers a surface area of 360,000 m² and sits along the banks of the Seine. Discover priceless collections of paintings, Egyptian, Greek and Roman artefacts, crown jewels... The Mona Lisa, the Venus de Milo and The Winged Victory of Samothrace are among the 35,000 masterpieces on display!

The Musée d'Orsay, an exceptional impressionist collection. Formerly a railway station, the Musée d'Orsay now holds the world's largest impressionist collection. Stroll through the most beautiful paintings by Manet, Monet, Pissarro, Cezanne and even Renoir. The museum also has a magnificent collection of sculptures and decorative arts.

Notre-Dame, the heart of historic Paris. Immortalised by Victor Hugo in his novel of the same name, the Notre-Dame de Paris Cathedral is one of Paris's most iconic monuments. Although damaged by fire in 2019, this Gothic art masterpiece still stands majestically on the Ile de la Cité, as it has since the 12th century. As we await the cathedral's reopening, visitors can marvel at its monumental architecture, sculptures, stained glass windows and rose windows, which have been fortunately preserved.

From the Place de la Concorde, walk up the famous Avenue des Champs-Élysées which leads you straight to the Arc de triomphe. Built under the orders of Napoleon I, a symbol of the First French Empire, the monument evokes the greatness of France and its victorious armies. Enjoy the panoramic view of Paris and the avenue at your feet.

The Sainte-Chapelle, a Gothic art masterpiece. Situated close to Notre-Dame, the Sainte-Chapelle and the Conciergerie are an integral part of French history. Built in 1248 by Saint-Louis to house holy relics, the Sainte-Chapelle is a fine example of the Rayonnant Gothic style and a true architectural feat for its time. The beautifully preserved stained glass windows reach a height of 15 metres.

The Conciergerie, in the turmoil of the French Revolution. Together with the Sainte-Chapelle in the Palais de la Cité, of which the Salle des Gardes and the immense Salle des Gens d'Armes remain, the Conciergerie became a revolutionary court and prison during the French Revolution. It was within its walls that Queen Marie-Antoinette was imprisoned before she was led to the gallows.

The Sacré-Coeur Basilica, one of the most beautiful views in Paris. The Byzantine architecture of the Sacré-Coeur Basilica rises into the sky in the district of Montmartre. Built from 1875 onwards at the top of a hill, the most visited religious building after Notre-Dame, it is watching over the city of Paris, which it dominates from a height of over 130 metres, offering one of the most beautiful views of Paris. Stroll along the bustling Place du Tertre, next to the impressive monument, with its many cafés, restaurants, street painters and more.
