Indian Cat Black

Because of its dark reddish background with dark flecks that resemble a cat's eye, Indian Cat Black granite is also known as cat eye. It has a high visual intensity that is associated with magnificent earthly elegance. The chromatic intensity of this dark-colored granite tile is inspired by the Earth's innermost layers.

With its single textured, it breathes new life into the interior and outdoor granite floor tiles.

This recognisable granite is stain-resistant, easy-to-maintain, and long-lasting, making it an excellent choice for kitchen countertops, wall cladding, flooring, and other applications. Cat Eye granite is available from Pears Granite, a prominent granite provider, in custom slabs, tiles, and blocks. This granite is mostly found in its raw form in South India.

Mapple Red Granite

Maple Red granite has a bluish-brown backdrop with bright red colour patches reminiscent of a maple leaf filling the area with joy. For people who want to design their granite floor tiles and walls with fine-textured stone, granite is a great delight. The black background brings life to both the inside and exterior spaces.

The Maple Granite is eye-catching. A fantastic show stopper, with attractive oxide red, black, and silver natures all around.

"This single granite is simple to maintain, stain-resistant, and durable, making it a good choice for customising any modern design." Maple Red granite is also known as Goa Red granite and Maipu Red granite. It is a dark red granite with an unpolished texture and an equally uniform background.

Safari Blue Granite

Safari Blue granite mining and production is very important in Karimnagar District, Telangana State. There is a blue patch in Safari Blue granite that looks really gorgeous and distinctive. Safari blue granite costs between 55 and 75 rupees per square foot.

The rates are determined by slab similarity, without variances, slab length, slab height, and a variety of other factors.

Star Blue Granite

Star blue granite has little white specks of granite from India. It is well-known for its stunning appearance and quality. As a result, this stone has a long lifespan and is excellent for both commercial and residential construction projects.

This granite also gives the wall a stunning aspect. Countertops, mosaic, external - interior wall and floor applications, fountains, pool and wall capping, stairs, window sills, and other design projects benefit greatly from this stone.

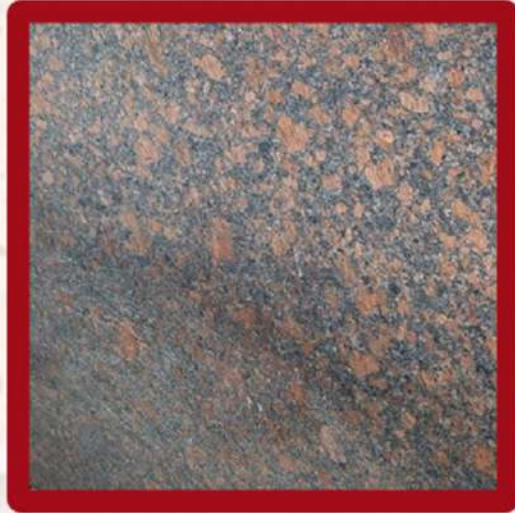

Surf Green Granite

The Surf Green stone features a light green background with swirls and streaks in various colours of green, brown, and grey. This granite, mined in South India, has a very relaxing appearance and is best suited for settings with minimalist design.
