Spring / Summer 2025

LOOKBOOK

We are Dedicated

Dedicated was founded in 2006, offering printed T-shirts in organic and Fairtrade-certified cotton. Today, we have come a long way, offering extensive collections made in only natural, organic, or recycled materials. Our collections include styles in unique prints and patterns, designed by our talented in-house team or in collaboration with renowned photographers, illustrators, and artists, as well as garments in solid colors, such as timeless basics.

Our brand is centered around transparency, honesty, and staying true to our values. We truly believe that fashion can be done differently and we are dedicated to changing the industry norm. We work with suppliers that share our ethics and respect international labor standards, and we always use raw fabrics/materials that are certified by some of the industry's most demanding environmental standards.

Working with reliable and credible certificates is vital to us and a way of showing the world that we are serious about our mission and responsibilities as a modern-day clothing brand.

We design our collections focusing on personal style, quality over quantity, and with people and the planet in mind - always striving to be better in terms of resource use and overall impact on nature, people, and animals. Hence our name: Dedicated.

Spring / Summer 2025

— The Escape

The Escape collection was inspired by our desire to get off the beaten track.

Order deadline —
4th of August, 2024

Our search took us to the less visited Mediterranean regions where the sea meets land. Our wanderlust led us to the bright pink colors of Berber rugs, the various shades of blue from the ocean, inspiring ceramic tile art, lively fruit markets, and the knowledge that flowers bloom in the desert. We were instantly captivated by the colors and craftsmanship, the plants and animals, the music and food.

Being off the grid provides an opportunity to reflect, take in your surroundings, and perhaps pick up a new hobby - maybe you always wanted to try sailing, painting, hiking, or cooking. Or maybe you just need to focus on breathing. In and out.

We want this collection to convey warmth, curiosity, playfulness, and a sense of coolness. Despite the hardships that exist in the world for both people and nature, we hope to bring a positive spirit to the upcoming season.

Recycled Polyester

OUR TEXTILES

Our polyester garments, mainly outerwear and swimwear, are made of polyester from 100% recycled plastic bottles, i.e. post-consumer waste that otherwise risks ending up in landfills. By working with the recycled alternative, we can sidestep the oil extraction required to make virgin polyester, thus lowering (our) CO₂ emissions. Polyester made from PET bottles also requires less water and energy compared to conventional polyester production.

WHAT GOES AROUND COMES AROUND

LENZING™ ECOVERO™

OUR TEXTILES

Introducing LENZING™ ECOVERO™ to our fabric selection, which will replace TENCEL™ Lyocell for our upcoming collections, starting with SS25.

LENZING™ ECOVERO™ is a viscose fiber, which means that it is made by man, from wood. The wood is turned into a fiber through a process that saves water and emits less CO₂, compared to conventional viscose. Lenzing wood sourcing complies with the FSC and PEFC forest management certifications, ensuring that no endangered forest is affected. FSC and PEFC are non-profit, independent organizations working towards a long-term sustainable and viable use of the world's forests.

Carl Johan De Geer

COLLABORATION

Carl Johan De Geer, born in Québec, is a Swedish baron, artist, writer, filmmaker, musician, designer, cultural journalist, photographer, actor and scenographer. He made a name for himself during the late 60s through his participation in the underground magazine "Puss" where he, along with others in his field, made fun of society in a somewhat outrageous satirical-like manner.

Carl Johan is a prominent figure in Swedish cultural life. He's innovative, provocative and distinctively versatile as you can tell by his many occupational titles. His artwork has been showcased at galleries all around Sweden and his work in film has been credited with many fine awards. We're thrilled for this collaboration, which includes styles for both men and women in a beautiful blue bird print.

Linen

OUR TEXTILES

We love a fiber that's both functional, comfortable, and timeless. Therefore, the choice to add European-grown linen to our collections was a no-brainer. Flax is a long-line fiber mostly grown in Europe with much consideration of nature. The name, long line fiber, derives from the plant that can grow more than 3 feet tall – with its main advantage that long fibers cause less pillage over time which makes it very durable. The plant naturally grows fast without inputs: meaning no extra irrigation, no genetically modified seeds, and no synthetic fertilizers. These reasons make linen fields real carbon sinks – they can store up to 400,000 tons of CO₂ a year, which makes this a winner in our book.

Organic Cotton

To this day, organic cotton remains our main material, representing around 80% of our production in volume. Conventional cotton farming usually requires a tremendous amount of toxic chemicals, which are poisoning the land, the water, and the farmers. Organic cotton farming, on the contrary, relies on non-harmful practices and inputs that preserve the soils, ultimately requiring less water and energy, even reducing CO₂ emissions. Thus, the properties of healthier soil can even absorb CO₂ as well as retain water and nutrients much better than a dehydrated one (which requires more irrigation). Additionally, organic farming promotes better water management and irrigation systems, such as drip irrigation. That is why we made the early choice to work with organic cotton.

Today we work with the toughest label for organic cotton garments: GOTS. This means no toxic chemicals were used in the manufacturing, among other strict environmental and social requirements. Additionally, part of the cotton we use is Fairtrade-certified and ROC™ certified.

Hemp

OUR TEXTILES

Hemp is one of the most versatile and durable fabrics around. Made from fibers sourced from the stem of the Cannabis Sativa plant, it's also one of the fastest growing, most self-sufficient fibers to grow. It's naturally pest-resistant, which means that farming doesn't require any pesticides, synthetic fertilizers, or genetically modified seeds. Hemp also has anti-erosion properties and can drain soil from poisonous substances and heavy metals. Pretty neat if you ask us. All these reasons make hemp a given material for us to use in our collections.

Fairtrade is the only label that actively works with cotton farmers on the ground, to provide the financial support they need. Fairtrade buys the cotton for a fair minimum price and provides an extra premium for community investments. So, when you buy our T-shirts, sweatshirts, sweatpants, or any of our other products made of Fairtrade-certified cotton, you're actively supporting Fairtrade's work to tackle poverty. With that said, Fairtrade isn't just a fair minimum price, it's a movement. Fairtrade encourages farmers to form cooperatives to have more trade power. They help to finance schools and non-genetically modified seed developments. They also provide training to switch to organic practices and much more.

Regenerative Organic Certified®

Regenerative Organic Certified® (ROC™) verifies cotton that has been produced according to globally recognized organic standards and adds to it a set of principles ensuring the regeneration of soils, animal welfare, and farmers' social empowerment. Farms are being checked regularly and must show an improvement in the soil health. A healthier soil produces more, retains water better, and can sequester more carbon.

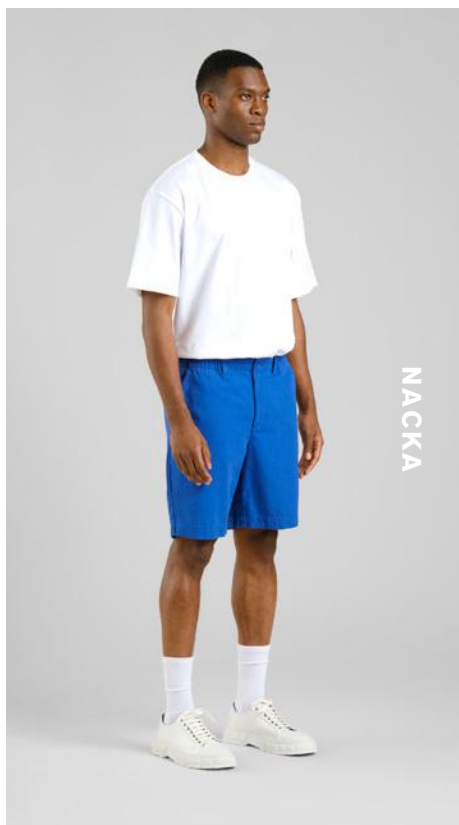

Brands in the global north investing in regenerative agriculture programs should acknowledge that we are not inventing a solution. This concept has been around for hundreds of years and is still used by many indigenous communities around the world. Programs like ROC™, help to shine a light on the benefits of regenerative agriculture, and partially finance the transition towards it where needed. Regenerative Organic Certified® is a farm-level certification only. A Regenerative Organic Certified® garment must also be GOTS certified.
