New Equipment Enhances Schertz Road Maintenance

The City of Schertz Public Works Department recently acquired two pieces of new equipment—a lay-down asphalt paver machine and a pothole patch truck—that promise to significantly improve the quality and efficiency of road maintenance across the city.

The Asphalt Paver is designed for faster, more efficient repairs, delivering a uniform thickness and a smooth finish to roadway surfaces with minimal manual labor. This ensures not only a better driving experience for residents but also greater cost-effectiveness in the paving process.

Similarly, the new pothole patch truck has greatly improved how potholes are repaired. With all necessary materials and tools onboard, the truck reduces a four-man operation to just two, cutting man-hour costs and increasing productivity. Its larger load capacity and streamlined application process further enhance cost efficiency, allowing for more frequent and thorough repairs.

Training provided by the manufacturers of the new equipment ensures that Public Works crews can operate the new machinery safely and efficiently.

Funded through the FY 2023-24 budget, this new equipment will enable Public Works to tackle street repairs more effectively, improving road durability and safety. Whether it's pothole patching or larger street repairs, residents can look forward to smoother and safer commutes across Schertz.

Schertz EDC Receives International Recognition for Excellence in Economic Development

THE SCHERTZ ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (EDC) IS THRILLED TO ANNOUNCE THAT IT HAS BEEN HONORED WITH TWO PRESTIGIOUS AWARDS FROM THE INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL (IEDC).

Schertz EDC received Bronze Awards in both the Special Events and Regional or Cross-Border Partnership categories, highlighting our community's commitment to innovation and cooperation in economic development.

Award for Special Events: Snow Cone Celebration

The first accolade was awarded in the Special Events category for our highly successful "Snow Cone Celebration." This event, which brought a refreshing twist to community engagement, saw an overwhelming turnout of employees who had been inconvenienced by the year-long construction project on Tri-County Parkway. The event and free treats served as a thank you to our businesses for their patience with the city. The event also served as a platform for networking, community building, and connecting with local businesses and their operational managers.

Award for Regional or Cross-Border Partnership: Regional Job Fair

In the Regional or Cross-Border Partnership category, the Schertz

EDC, in collaboration with the Cibolo EDC, Seguin EDC, and New Braunfels Chamber of Commerce, were recognized for our Regional Job Fairs. These events feature a diverse range of industries, providing opportunities for individuals to explore various career paths and for businesses to find the talent they need to thrive. The collaborative effort showcases the strength of our regional partnerships and our shared commitment to economic growth and workforce development.

About the IEDC

The IEDC is the largest professional organization for economic developers, with members from around the world. The annual IEDC awards program is highly competitive, recognizing the best economic development programs and partnerships globally. Receiving these awards is a significant achievement, as it places Schertz EDC among the top economic development organizations internationally.

Schertz EDC staff, along with Seguin, Cibolo, and New Braunfels will have the honor of accepting these awards in person at the 2024 IEDC Annual Conference in Denver, CO, this September.

We hope these awards highlight our innovative approach to economic development and our commitment to fostering a vibrant and prosperous community. We are proud of these accomplishments and look forward to continuing our efforts to support the growth and success of Schertz.

Keep Schertz Clean

By KIRA VILLARREAL

EVERYONE APPRECIATES LIVING IN A COMMUNITY THAT'S CLEAN, SAFE, AND WELL-MAINTAINED, AND THE SCHERTZ COMMUNITY IS FORTUNATE TO HAVE AN ORGANIZATION DEDICATED TO KEEPING IT THAT WAY.

The division is composed of the Code Enforcement Team, which works to protect residents' safety and quality of life, and the Environmental Health Team, which works to ensure that food service establishments and other public facilities meet safety and sanitary requirements.

October is National Code Enforcement Month, and the City is urging residents to do their part to help keep our community safe and clean. You can help "Keep Your Schertz Clean" by utilizing the many resources and initiatives that Neighborhood Services has to offer. One of the most popular among these is the Community Tool Shed, which provides residents with access to a collection of tools that can be borrowed and used at no cost. Among other items, the shed offers lawn mowers, weed eaters, pole saws, picks, shovels, wheelbarrows, and a pressure washer. It's a great way to supplement your tool collection and keep your home maintained or help a neighbor with their home and yard work.

Another important initiative is the Clean the Creek Project, which helps to tackle one of the City's ongoing challenges, according to Neighborhood Services Manager Rebecca Vera. "Schertz is working to meet the challenge of protecting people, property, and the natural environment from flooding through planning and preparedness," she said. "The city maintains man-made diversions and engages in mitigation practices such Vera notes that these programs and services have been very well received by residents and have clearly made a positive impact on the community. “Our Community Tool Shed has served our residents well and has been averaging 80 reservations per month over the last year, while LWYL assisted 90 families with minor home repairs and yard maintenance at our spring event. It’s clear that we are making a difference,” said Vera.

Meanwhile, the Neighborhood Services Code Enforcement team has ongoing efforts in the areas of code compliance and graffiti abatement. The Code Enforcement team works to keep Schertz a beautiful place to live and work by proactively patrolling the city and responding to resident concerns on a variety of issues including exterior property maintenance. The Graffiti Abatement Program (GAP) works with other city departments to rid the city of graffiti on properties and infrastructure.

Residents who spot graffiti or vandalism should report it immediately to the police non-emergency line, and owners who have been victimized should also take photos or measurements if possible.

Residents also have an important role to play in keeping the community clean, and not just by maintaining their own properties. Everyone can help by doing their part to report any issues that arise so that they can be addressed promptly, and the city provides several avenues for this. Residents can file a code enforcement complaint at development.schertz.com/portal. They can also report issues by calling 311 from any phone within the city. Types of issues that should be reported include property maintenance issues like grass over eight inches, tree limbs hanging below 15 feet over a street or below eight feet over a sidewalk, trash or discarded materials stored outside, unsecured vacant structures, and fences that are missing sections or in poor condition.

In addition to the Love Where You Live Event coming up in early October, as a part of the National Night Out event on October 1, Neighborhood Services and Schertz Public Library staff will be holding a joint block party in the Aviation Heights Neighborhood. This event promotes community partnerships, and it gives residents a chance to learn about library programs and services and to meet and get to know their community’s first responders.

According to Vera, Neighborhood Services is also hard at work planning a new weatherization program that should be rolling out in the coming year, so residents can look forward to more opportunities to keep their community beautiful, clean, and safe.

as stormwater programs and floodplain preservation, but our watersheds can be impacted by litter, pollution, and illegal dumping. The Clean the Creek Project engages community volunteers to work alongside city staff in an annual cleanup effort to keep the natural creek way from becoming clogged with litter and other debris.”

For those who may need some assistance with their home repairs and maintenance, and for anyone who wants to help their neighbors in need, there’s the Love Where You Live program. LWYL connects volunteers from local churches and other organizations to assist with property maintenance and repairs. With events held twice per year, this is a great way to share your skills and spread goodwill in the community. The next LWYL event is planned for October 5th of this year.

Schertz is working to meet the challenge of protecting people, property, and the natural environment from flooding through planning and preparedness.

Schertz Rolls Out Updated CIP: Planning for Tomorrow

In FY 2023-24, a top priority for city staff was the development of a comprehensive Capital Improvement Plan (CIP). As the city grows, it is essential to plan for future infrastructure needs while addressing aging systems that require replacement. Capital improvement projects stand out due to their scale, impact, and cost, often requiring extensive planning and time to complete. These projects may include the addition or replacement of water and wastewater systems, construction or repair of roads, development of new parks or trails, and the building of new public facilities.

“Projects included in the CIP are selected based on thorough citywide studies that analyze land topography, population growth estimates, and zoning restrictions. These studies, known as “Master Plans,” are reviewed and adopted by the City Council before being incorporated into the CIP. Some projects are also identified by staff as critical additions, even if they aren’t included in a formal master plan,” commented Finance Director, James Walters. This organized approach to identifying capital projects ensures that the city can accommodate the growth while addressing the most pressing needs. Projects are then prioritized based on requirements of state and federal governments, as well as those that have the biggest need to help Schertz provide for new residents and businesses.

The CIP is not intended to be a static document, but rather, it is something that is reviewed and updated annually as part of the budget process, ensuring the identified projects remain relevant and responsive to the city’s evolving needs. “Prior to the creation of the comprehensive CIP document, the city’s approach to capital projects was less cohesive, with different departments maintaining separate project documents. It’s much more efficient to have all future projects in one plan because it serves as a map of future needs and helps staff to plan more effectively,” commented Assistant City Manager, Sarah Gonzalez. She also added that the updated CIP provides transparency for residents, enabling them to see the scheduled start and completion dates of future projects, ensuring that residents are well-informed and engaged with the city’s development.

Given the substantial costs associated with these projects, funding them often requires careful financial planning. “While cash funding is ideal to avoid interest charges, many CIP projects are debt-funded. CIP projects are much like cars or houses for individuals that usually require loans,” explained Walters. To ensure financial sustainability, the city uses the CIP to plan for upcoming project funding and make informed spending decisions. This approach allows the city to balance its budget, prioritize essential projects, and explore grant opportunities, all while preparing for the long-term financial health of Schertz.

As a supplemental tool to the CIP, the City of Schertz has launched a Capital Improvement Project dashboard, which provides an interactive and up-to-date look at ongoing construction projects. This user-friendly platform allows residents to explore areas of construction and stay informed about the current status of various projects. View the City of Schertz Capital Improvement Project dashboard at Schertz.com/CIP.

The CIP is a vital tool that allows Schertz to strategically plan for the future, ensuring that the city’s infrastructure and services are ready to meet the needs of its growing population. By prioritizing transparency, thoughtful planning, and financial responsibility, the City of Schertz is laying a strong foundation for the future.

👉 The city’s comprehensive CIP document is included in the FY 2024-25 budget and can be found by going to Schertz.com/budget.

UNDERSTANDING THE CONSTRUCTION PROCESS

1 LONG-RANGE PLANNING

The first step in the construction process of a capital improvement project is to assess the city's needs, focusing on addressing aging infrastructure and preparing for current and future growth. This includes evaluating the water and sewer system, city roads, drainage channels, parks, and public facilities. Whether the need is for preservation, rehabilitation, or new development, this planning phase ensures that the city's infrastructure remains robust and capable of supporting a growing community.

2 PRIORITIZATION

Once the city's needs are identified, projects are prioritized based on their condition, urgency, and potential impact on the community. Priority is often given to projects that address critical infrastructure issues, such as deteriorating roads or outdated water lines, to prevent disruptions as the city grows. Available funding will determine how many projects can be carried out within the Fiscal Year.

3 PROJECT DESIGN

After prioritization, staff develops a detailed scope of work for each project and partners with engineering or design firms to create comprehensive plans. The final designs will include estimated costs, allowing staff to reassess funding and finalize the list of projects that will proceed to the bidding phase.

4 BID PROCESS

With final designs in hand, staff collaborates with the Purchasing Department to competitively bid out the work. An evaluation team reviews the bids, and the best value vendor is awarded the project, pending City Council approval.

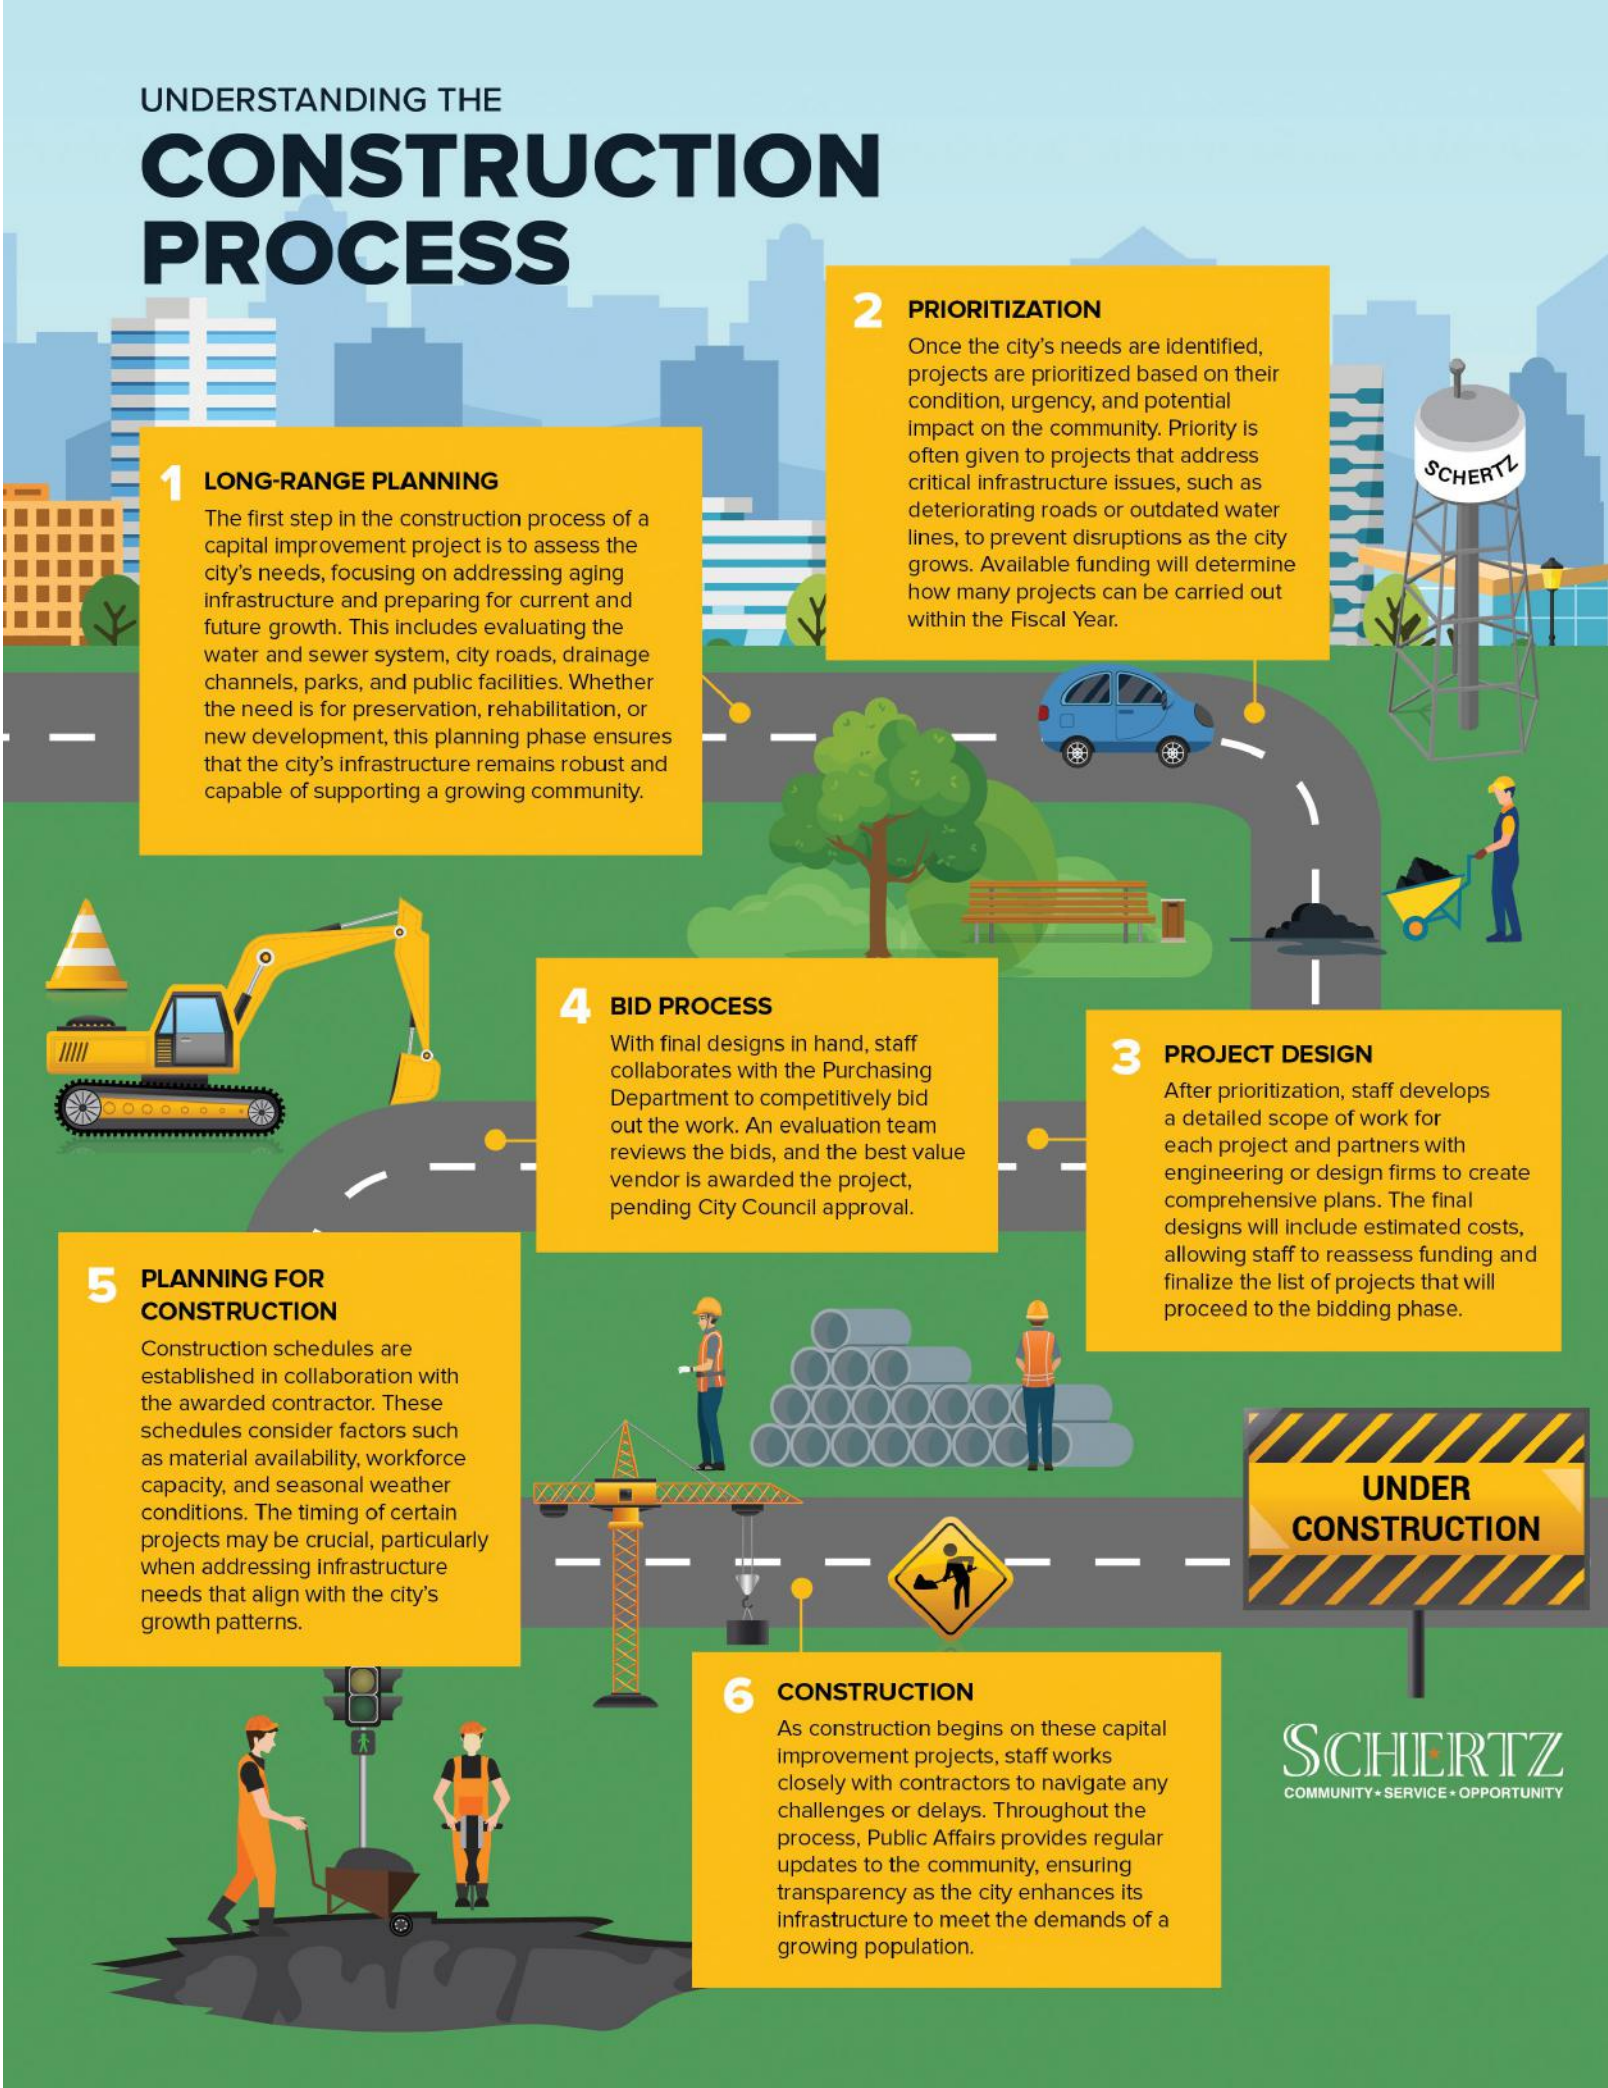

5 PLANNING FOR CONSTRUCTION

Construction schedules are established in collaboration with the awarded contractor. These schedules consider factors such as material availability, workforce capacity, and seasonal weather conditions. The timing of certain projects may be crucial, particularly when addressing infrastructure needs that align with the city's growth patterns.

6 CONSTRUCTION

As construction begins on these capital improvement projects, staff works closely with contractors to navigate any challenges or delays. Throughout the process, Public Affairs provides regular updates to the community, ensuring transparency as the city enhances its infrastructure to meet the demands of a growing population.

Schertz Historical PRESERVATION COMMITTEE

Looking Back - Life in Schertz Memories - Betty (Gesche) Kreutler

Betty grew up like most of her contemporaries during the 1940s and 1950s in the Schertz/Selma area the daughter of a farmer and businessman. Her father raised corn and owned a feed store and grain mill on FM 1518 near Selma. Hers was a generation unlike those before her. She and her contemporaries were the first to have some choices as to their future expectations on life. Prior generations of farm families saw their children follow in the footsteps of their fathers and mothers. She and her contemporaries did not escape the toil of the farm during their early years. She recalls very vividly the long summer days riding the back of the combine sacking 100-pound bags of grain and the longer evenings assisting her father at the feed store. She had a lot of responsibility early in life. She had her drivers license (hardship license) at fourteen years of age and was responsible throughout her high school years for, among other things, taking the store revenue to the Schertz State Bank and Trust for deposit each day. Betty worked long and hard in those days and characterizes the experience as a character building opportunity. She treasures her upbringing but is even more appreciative of the fact that she was the first of her ancestors to have choices as to her life's path. She did not have a desire to stay on the farm and business school was an option after high school graduation. After business school another opportunity was presented by the arrival of Randolph Air Base where she went to work. Unlike her mother who was born, raised, married, and died in the same house on FM 1518, Betty was among the first generation of Schertz citizens to have options not available to their parents. Betty appreciates the lessons learned as a youth but is even more grateful for having been a part of a "generation in transition."

Share your memories of living in Schertz to Rozwise@aol.com. Information presented by the Schertz Historical Preservation Committee (SHPC) is in the interest of historical perspective and community awareness of local historical legacies.

SCHERTZ PD REMINDS PARENTS AND CAREGIVERS TO

KEEP KIDS SAFE IN THE SEAT

AS CHILD PASSENGER SAFETY WEEK APPROACHES (SEPTEMBER 15-21), THE SCHERTZ POLICE DEPARTMENT IS HERE TO SHARE IMPORTANT TIPS FOR ENSURING YOUR LITTLE ONES ARE SAFE ON THE ROAD. HERE ARE SOME ESSENTIAL CAR SEAT SAFETY GUIDELINES TO PROTECT YOUR PRECIOUS CARGO:

1 CHOOSE THE RIGHT CAR SEAT

It's crucial to select the appropriate car seat for your child's age, weight, and height. Infants should ride rear-facing for as long as possible, ideally until they are at least two years old or exceed the seat's height and weight limits. Once your child outgrows the rear-facing seat, it's time to transition to a forward-facing car seat.

2 PROPER CAR SEAT INSTALLATION

There are two methods for installing a car seat: using the vehicle's seatbelt or the LATCH system (Lower Anchors and Tethers for Children). It's important to use only one method at a time, not both. Ensure the seat is securely installed according to the manufacturer's instructions.

3 ENSURE THE CORRECT FIT

A properly-fitted harness is crucial for your child's safety. To ensure the best fit, position the harness straps at or below your child's shoulders for rear-facing seats and at or above for forward-facing seats. The harness should be snug, and the chest clip should be at armpit level. Perform a "pinch test" to confirm the harness is tight enough—if you can't pinch any extra material, the fit is just right.

4 KNOW WHEN TO TRANSITION CAR SEATS

Always check the label on your car seat to verify your child's weight, height, and age limits. When your child surpasses these limits, it's time to move to the next type of car seat or booster seat.

COMMUNITY CAR SEAT CHECK

If you can't attend the event, you can schedule an appointment with Officer Anna Kraft, a National Child Passenger Safety Technician dedicated to helping our community keep children safe. You can reach her at (210) 619-1264. Let's work together to ensure every child's journey is safe and secure!
