Dear Principal,

Subject: Invite for the Annual Inter-school Festival

Warm greetings from Father Agnel School, Noida!

We are delighted to, once again, invite you to 'Agnel Talent Spectrum 2025' — a celebration of creativity, innovation, and youthful brilliance. This vibrant platform continues to be a place where talent thrives, ideas ignite, voices rise with a purpose, and young minds come together to explore, express and excel.

The theme for this year is 'Quest Beyond' — an invitation to challenge the ordinary, transcend limits, and boldly redefine what is possible. This is the moment to think differently, make an impact and create a legacy — not just for yourself, but for your school and the community.

Youth is the promise of tomorrow, and that promise is fulfilled when young individuals dare to break through barriers and reach their full potential. So, encourage your students to step forward and join us on this inspiring journey, because here, every voice matters, every idea counts, and every effort is celebrated. Let their passion and potential shine!

Success for each is the competition itself, and that is assured to each one of the participants; however, in order to recognize and reward excellence, individual achievers will be honoured, and the school with the highest overall performance will be awarded the coveted Rolling Trophy.

We look forward to your school's spirited and wholehearted participation.

Please Note: Teams that fail to report at their assigned time will be debarred from participation.

With regards,

(FR. J. A. CARVALHO)
DIRECTOR

VOICES FROM THE FOREST - SCIENCE TALK SHOW

Class: V

Date: 21/08/2025

Category: Talk Show

No. of Participants: 3

Duration: 5 minutes

Venue: ROOM 008 (Lower Ground)

Time: 8:30 AM

Brief Description

Welcome to “Voices from the Forest”, a creative and inspiring inter-school science competition encouraging students to observe closely, think deeply, and speak meaningfully.

A forest scene picture— with animals, birds, insects, trees, creepers, bushes, rocks, water streams, nests, and fallen leaves—will be shared with all participating schools 10 minutes before the event. This same image will be displayed on screen during the event as a visual backdrop for all participants.

In the style of a talk show, students will present their observations and thoughts about the forest scene. They can choose two or three forest elements (animal, bird, insect, or plant) and talk about it using clues from the picture and their logical thinking.

Participants are not expected to memorize or repeat textbook information or act in roles. Instead, they are encouraged to observe, think clearly, and speak mindfully.

Subtopics students can choose (one or more):

- Habitat (where it is found in the forest)
- Habits (daily activities: sleeping, eating, moving, etc.)
- Special features (tail, claws, beak, fur, etc.)
- Super senses (hearing, smell, sight, touch, etc.)
- Type of movement (flying, hopping, crawling, climbing)
- How they stay safe (self-defense methods)
- What they eat
- How they help the forest
- Any challenge they might face

How It Builds Deep Thinking in Young Minds:

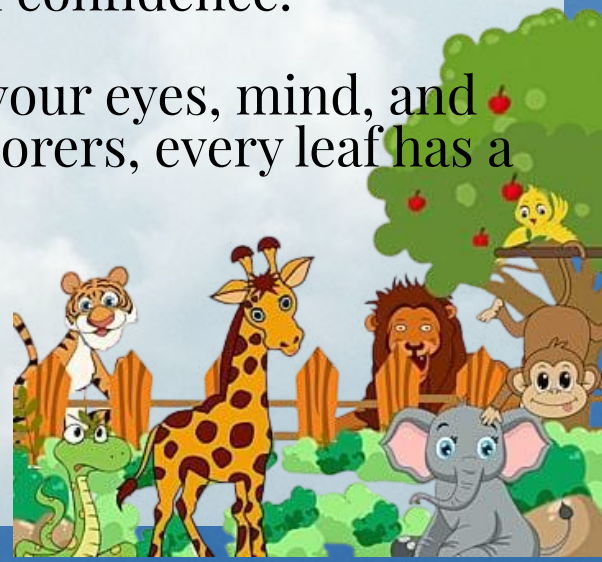

Students will learn to look closely, find clues, and think beyond the obvious.

Example:

“I see a deer standing near the water. Maybe it came to drink water, but it’s also seems to be standing very still. I think it’s listening carefully to make sure no danger is near. That shows how it uses its ears to stay safe.”

This talk show is all about noticing minute details, making smart guesses, and sharing ideas with confidence.

Get ready to step into the forest with your eyes, mind, and heart because when we think like explorers, every leaf has a story to tell!

Rules

- Format: A Talk show style presentation encouraging interaction among participants
- Focus: Emphasis on critical thinking, scientific reasoning, and observation-based responses
- No Memorized Speeches: Responses should reflect understanding, not rote learning

Judgement Criteria

- Relevance to the topic
- Clarity and depth of explanation
- Scientific connections
- Creativity and presentation
- Ability to answer critical thinking questions
