Artist Statement

Gloaming, a British word meaning "sunset." It is my favorite time of day. It brings back memories of evening drives to get ice cream. It is also when two worlds collide to make something beautiful. The world of day and the work of night. Morning are relaxed, the sounds of the birds and the swaying of trees in that refreshing morning breeze. Nights are frightening. The darkness creeping upon you and that eerie feeling when you sit in silence to fall asleep. Those worlds. Those times come together and create something bright and exciting. It feels like home.
