RULES

Inktober is the ultimate challenge for artists seeking discipline (or organized chaos). Launched in 2009 by Jake Parker, this global challenge consists of creating one drawing per day in October, preferably in ink, following a list of prompts. The goal? To improve, have fun, and most importantly, not give up halfway!

But what if we made the challenge even harder? Imagine an Inktober entirely focused on characters! Expressive faces, dynamic poses, quirky figures — some more welcoming than others — straight from my imagination... That's what you're about to discover in these pages.

INTRODUCTION

I'm Jazy, a Belgian artist and a lifelong image and drawing enthusiast. As a professional character designer, I explore the transition from 2D to 3D every day. And when I'm not creating, I love sharing my knowledge by teaching 3D courses.
