Before & After

Introduction

My aim when creating a balayage for a client is always to compliment their features with a stunning, yet natural looking colour. There are many things I have to take into consideration, such as past colours they may have had on their hair, overall hair condition, skin tone, eye colour, and that is only the non technical elements! Over the years I have worked extensively with so many different combinations and variations of all of these factors, perfecting my technique to give you a natural colour, that is unique to you.

Book an online, or in salon consultation with me, let's talk about your hair goals!
