Care and Maintenance Guide

HOLLY HUNT Outdoor Furniture has been designed and constructed using only materials that meet the highest standards for strength and durability.

Routine care and maintenance will ensure that your furniture looks and performs its best and will provide you with many years of enjoyment.

Regional environmental conditions vary greatly, so it is important that your particular installation is evaluated frequently.

All outdoor furniture should be protected with fitted furniture covers or stored indoors during inclement weather. Harsh environments (elevated pollution levels, humid/arid climates, salt, high daily temperature variances) will require that recommended maintenance routines are performed more frequently.

Because each material has unique properties and needs, we have compiled these specific care and maintenance recommendations. This guide is intended for your use and reference as you enjoy your HOLLY HUNT Outdoor Furniture.

Powdercoated Aluminum

Powdercoated aluminum is a very durable material that should be routinely cared for like the paint on a fine automobile. Use only a soft cotton or microfiber cloth with a mild detergent (ph: neutral) to clean. Rinse thoroughly. It is important to never use abrasives or solvent based cleaners.

The addition of a good quality automobile wax will provide a layer of protection against salt and minimize water spotting. Be sure to clean the surface thoroughly prior to application (per the manufacturer's instructions).

Outdoor Woven Fiber

HOLLY HUNT Outdoor Woven Fiber is designed to be virtually impervious to the elements. It will not fade or crack even under the most extreme conditions. No special maintenance is required. Simply clean regularly with a soft cloth and a mild detergent. Rinse thoroughly.

Glass Fiber Reinforced Concrete (GFRC)

While HOLLY HUNT GFRC has a protective sealer coat, the material is porous and can be easily stained. Fortunately, most stains can be removed, though stubborn stains can leave traces. It is important to clean up spills as quickly as possible to prevent a stain from migrating deeper into the surface.

For regular cleaning, use a soft cloth dampened with distilled water to remove dust and dirt. Tap water is not recommended as it can leave calcium marks. A mild soap solution may also be used if necessary. Do not use abrasives, harsh solvents or industrial cleaners.

Natural Stone

Cleaning Stone & Marble Table Tops

Most airborne dust and dirt can easily be removed from stone table tops with plain water. You should occasionally rinse off your table top to prevent debris from settling in and leaving stains or discolorations. After rinsing, you can also use a mild detergent mixed with water and scrub the table top with a soft cotton or microfiber cloth. Dry thoroughly after cleaning to prevent moisture penetration. Spills should always be cleaned up as quickly as possible, since over time they may begin to penetrate the sealant.

For more thorough cleaning, use a pH neutral cleaner. Avoid ammonia-based cleaners, which can break down the sealant and possibly damage or discolor the stone. You should never use scouring creams, abrasive cleansers or acid based products (citrus, pine or vinegar cleaners). Also, you should not use alkaline-based products (ammonia, baking soda or borax) unless specifically formulated for use on natural stone or marble. On areas of concern (finger prints, smudges, or spots) use a clean cotton cloth & a polishing compound (Ex. TURTLE WAX® RENEW RX™ PREMIUM POLISHING COMPOUND). Apply a small amount of the compound to the cloth and rub in a circular motion until the area appears clean and free of the mark(s). Wipe the polishing compound off using a different clean cotton rag. Following, use a new cloth and stone cleaner that is safe for use on natural, synthetic and engineered stone including marble, granite, quartz, limestone, corian, silestone (Ex. Clean Stone Plus or Simple Green Stone Cleaner). Make sure to clean the surface such that there are no shiny areas visible where the polishing compound was used.

Preventative Maintenance for Stone & Marble Table Tops

HOLLY HUNT Outdoor Collection tabletops are coated with the most durable stone enhancing sealer available. This sealer provides extraordinary resistance from stains and moisture and helps maintain the stone's natural color. For optimum protection, tops should be resealed every 6 to 12 months after it has been thoroughly cleaned of dirt and debris. It takes just a few minutes to distribute an even coat of the sealer and then wipe the tabletop dry. Stone sealers for natural/honed finishes [such as FILA FOB] are available at most hardware stores.

Cold Climates: HOLLY HUNT recommend that tabletops be stored in a dry area in cold climates or be covered with a suitable outdoor furniture cover. It is possible that snow sitting on a tabletop for an extended period of time could cause moisture to penetrate the sealer. Marble is porous, and if moisture were to enter the stone and freeze, the marble may crack. Always seal the tabletop before each winter.

Hot Climates: The porous nature of stone leaves it susceptible to heat retention. Care and caution should be exercised when handling stone that has been subjected to lengthy sun exposure.

Care and Maintenance Guide

Engineered Stone

Cleaning Engineered Stone Table Tops

Use a soft cotton or microfiber cloth to remove dirt from the surface. Engineered stone tops can be washed with hot water, to which you can add the manufacturer's recommended dose of mild detergent, if needed. Rinse with hot water and dry with a cloth. For best results, we recommend cleaning any spills immediately, without letting them dry.

Do not use waxes, oily soaps, sealers or other treatments: they are not required. Moreover, some of the commercially available treatments contain wax or polish additives that can leave an oily film on the surface after several applications, affecting the cleanliness and appearance of the top.

Avoid using abrasives or scouring pads as they could affect the surface.

When routine cleaning is not enough, specific procedures are required, depending on the nature of the stain. In these cases, there are aggressive products available that will not affect the surface's beauty. The amount of time the stain remains on the surface is important, so we recommend cleaning as soon as possible. On areas of concern (finger prints, smudges, or spots) use a clean cotton cloth & a polishing compound (Ex. TURTLE WAX® RENEW RX™ PREMIUM POLISHING COMPOUND). Apply a small amount of the compound to the cloth and rub in a circular motion until the area appears clean and free of the mark(s). Wipe the polishing compound off using a different clean cotton rag. Following, use a new cloth and stone cleaner that is safe for use on natural, synthetic and engineered stone including marble, granite, quartz, limestone, corian, silestone (Ex. Clean Stone Plus or Simple Green Stone Cleaner). Make sure to clean the surface such that there are no shiny areas visible where the polishing compound was used.

Contact HOLLY HUNT Customer Service if you encounter a stain on engineered stone that you are having trouble removing.

Cushions

All HOLLY HUNT Outdoor Collection Cushions are made of fast-draining anti-microbial reticulated foam with a dacron crown. They are well suited to all moist and humid conditions.

Cushions should never sit in water or be exposed to water for any prolonged period. To prevent mildew growth and corrosion of any sort, always remove wet cushions from furniture frames.

Outdoor Covers

Care & Cleaning

- Shake off cover to rid it of debris
- Use a garden hose to rinse cover
- Use mild soap and warm water with sponge or bristle brush to scrub the cover. Rinse thoroughly.
