The Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis today exists so members of the residential construction industry and related businesses can conduct business efficiently and ethically in order to provide the community with reliable, safe, affordable residential construction accomplished by competent professionals in the industry. The charter jurisdiction of BAGI includes: Boone, Hamilton, Hancock, Hendricks, Johnson, Marion, Morgan and Shelby counties.

As of January 1, 2000, all BAGI builders and remodelers agree to adhere to the Quality Assurance Builder Standards. Divided into construction phases, the Standards provide new homebuyers and remodeling customers a written set of standards addressing prevalent issues that arise. The Standards are a series of performance measurements builders and customers can use to communicate and understand each other's expectations.

BAGI is also a member of the Indiana Builders Association and the National Association of Home Builders. To join BAGI, call 317-236-6330.

[QUALITY ASSURANCE BUILDER STANDARDS]

The Quality Assurance Builder Standards provide new homebuyers and remodeling homeowners with a way to measure the quality of the project against an industry approved set of standards.

Who set these standards?

These standards have been developed by the Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis as a service to new home and remodeling homeowners in the Central Indiana area who are working with an Association member.

What does this mean to me?

These standards create a series of performance standards that the member builders and the homeowners can use to communicate and understand each other's expectations regarding the building or remodeling project.

It should be noted that the standards are not a warranty nor are they intended as a substitute for a warranty. The service period for these standards is defined as one year from date of closing and/or final acceptance of project.

The standards address the most prevalent issues that arise between the builder/remodeler and the customer before the project, during the project, and, most importantly, after the project is completed. All too often it is the undefined expectations that create the majority of the problems encountered in the building and remodeling processes. The standards will help eliminate problems before the project even begins.

Do all builders use these standards?

Every builder and remodeler member of the Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis agrees to participate in the Builder Standards as a requirement of membership.

The contract you sign with a member builder or remodeler will include a provision that the project will be completed to meet the requirements of the Builder Standards.

How do I reference the Standards?

These standards are published online for easy reference. When you sign a contract with your builder or remodeler they will provide you with a password-protected login to the Standards.

INTEGRITY: A REPUTATION BUILT ON HONESTY AND QUALITY

For over three decades, Shaffer Homes has been the Gold Standard for luxury custom home building in Indiana. As a third generation builder/designer of dream homes, President of Kent Shaffer Homes, Kristen Shaffer-Hale has brought a unique perspective to the building process. Blending over a decade of job-site experience with modern technologies and multi-generational building expertise passed down, Kristen has overseen some of the most talked about builds in communities like Holiday Farms and Chatham Hills. A client-first approach and being present on the job site are just a couple of reasons why clients choose Kent Shaffer Homes over other builders and why transitions clients, and even their growing children, choose to come back for another custom home.
