Evergreens Harvested Sustainably

In 1996 we were recognized by the US Forest Service for founding the Balsam Bough Partnership through which we shared our sustainable balsam bough harvesting techniques. Due to these efforts, Minnesota continues to have thriving bough harvesting and Christmas Wreath industries.

A Family Tradition

Grandma Mickman in 1934

John & Chris Mickman at one of our Million Tree Planting Project forests.

Grandma Mickman learned to make wreaths from her mother when growing up on a fjord in Norway in the late 1800s. Each year they would display their Christmas Wreath on the door of their small cottage to celebrate the season.

During the Great Depression in 1934, Grandma had an idea to make wreaths and sell them to earn extra money for her young family in St. Paul, MN. A business was born!

Since our Grandma taught us how to make wreaths as young boys, brothers Chris and John have taken pride in standing behind each of the products we supply to our clientele.

The mantra we stress to each of our employees is "Each wreath you make must be nice enough to display on your own mother's front door!" Our attention to detail for each Holiday Evergreen we handcraft will be appreciated by each of your Holiday Gift Recipients!
