President

Rita Jackson

Welcome to Highlands Summer Festival's Made in Canada season from me, Rita Jackson, and all the Highlands Summer Festival Board. We are thrilled to be providing exciting and professional-level theatre to the Highlands and beyond, using the wealth of our talented local performers. Each year, actors eagerly await the chance to perform in these carefully selected plays – and you, our audiences, await the opportunity to enjoy these high level performances. We thank you for trusting the board and production teams to create something special for you – something memorable and something out of this world.

We could not do it without the dedicated and continued backing of so many in our community. Our gratitude goes to the long list of sponsors and advertisers who support the season and join in the excitement and enthusiasm of our community.

AND I must recognize those countless, dedicated, hardworking volunteers who, numbering well over 125, start working as early as the week right after the previous season closes, already creating plans for the next. Those who are building, painting, marketing, singing, acting, back-stage managing, hosting, guiding, feeding, boarding, promoting And so much more - we could not do it without you. THANK YOU.

You might wonder how it is that so many people get involved behind the scenes. For some, it gives a chance to use their skills to help create magic. For others, it's a chance to learn something new. And for all, it's an opportunity to work with great people and have a lot of fun. Might you be one of them? If you're curious about volunteering – or anything about the Festival – let's talk! Twenty-six years ago, a handful of theatre-loving enthusiasts got together in a local living room and had a vision, a dream of creating a summer extravaganza of performance entertainment that would rival any put on in the 'big cities south'. The 2026 Highlands Summer Festival season continues this professional quality of entertainment for you with our Made in Canada season. Sing, dance, laugh, cry, wonder and enjoy!

Artistic Producer

Douglas (Dougie) Walker

I am thrilled to present the Highlands Summer Festival's new season. Entering my second year as Artistic Producer, I remain inspired by the incredible support of our community. From our tireless production teams and talented casts to our dedicated volunteers and board, everyone has worked magic to bring professional theatre to Haliburton. This year, I wanted a theme that celebrates home: Made In Canada. Every production this season was crafted by Canadian creatives to showcase the immense talent our country offers.

We kick off with the classic musical Anne of Green Gables by Donald Harron and Norman Campbell, featuring a vibrant cast eager to share this beloved story.

Next is Norm Foster's Doris and Ivy in the Home, directed by Myrna McBrien. This wonderful comedy is a testament to living life to the fullest, regardless of age or stage—expect to laugh and cry, probably at the same time.

Our third show features the celebrated Colombian-Canadian opera singer Fabian Arciniegas in My Shadow Y Yo. Through a masterful blend of song, monologue, and wit, he guides us on a journey of migration and acceptance.

We then return to comedy with the hilarious farce Too Many Cooks by Marcia Kash and Douglas E. Hughes. Set in Niagara Falls, Ontario during Prohibition, chaos ensues as a father and daughter attempt to open a restaurant amidst madness, mistaken identities and murder. Directed by Mr. A. Braatz, it's an absolute must-see.

Closing the season is Orangeville's own Leisa Way and the Wayward Wind Band with Sweet Dreams: A Tribute to Patsy Cline. Leisa is our most-requested act, and with the combination of charismatic performance and the band's musical talent, it is the perfect way to finish our summer.

I am beyond excited for you to experience these shows. It will be a summer of joy, laughter, and great theatre. I look forward to welcoming you all!

HSF 2030 ?

Highlands Summer Festival

There's no better time than a significant anniversary to assess your progress and take a serious look at the future. Last year, with twenty-five seasons under our belt, the Highlands Summer Festival board wondered what HSF could look like in five years. The context included:

- a dramatically changed landscape for providing live theater, especially after the disruption of COVID
- Continuing challenges with financing live theatre
- Substantial changes in staff and board leadership.

Immediately following the 2025 season we undertook a strategic planning process - with some help from our friends at Haliburton County Development Corporation - to understand our challenges, develop a vision of where we should be in five years, and create a plan to get there.

We began by sending a survey to 800 of our patrons. Almost one in three responded, an astonishingly high result. Among the things you told us...

- musicals and comedies are, by far, the most preferred show type,
- when we're selecting shows, you want us to consider local cast members, including young actors, shows appropriate for younger audiences, and run times of less than two hours
- you would like better sound and improved accessibility
- one in five said they prefer matinées, and your preferred start time for evening performances is evenly split between 7:00 pm and 7:30 pm. (For 2026, we've moved evening performances up to 7pm. We hope half of you will forgive us.)
- many of you want us to retain a print program, handed out at the theatre, but even more of you expressed a preference for downloadable programs available prior to the show.

WE HEARD YOU! Our 2026 season reflects what you said was important – a musical and two comedies, earlier start time, local cast, lots of young actors. We've retained a smaller print program and added a downloadable digital program option with expanded content.

We are working with The Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavillion and others to improve the sound system at the theatre. Improved accessibility is a long-term goal that we will continue to address.

Dogie Walker

I couldn't be more excited to present an icon of the Canadian stage: Anne of Green Gables – The Musical. Based on Lucy Maud Montgomery's 1908 novel, the story of Anne Shirley is a cherished part of our national identity. This beloved family musical follows the journey of a spirited, red-haired orphan who arrives at Bright River Station dreaming of a fresh start. Though siblings Matthew and Marilla Cuthbert originally intended to adopt a boy to help on their Prince Edward Island farm, they are quickly captivated by Anne's vivid imagination. Despite her fiery temper and knack for finding trouble, Anne transforms their quiet lives with her heart of gold, finally finding the home she has always craved.

The stage production, originally directed and choreographed by Alan Lund, has a historic legacy. It has been performed every summer since 1965, headlining the Charlottetown Festival at the Confederation Centre of the Arts. This makes it Canada's longest-running mainstage musical. In 2014, Guinness World Records officially named the Charlottetown production the "longest-running annual musical theatre production" in the world.

While its roots are in Prince Edward Island, Anne's story has captured hearts globally, and Haliburton is no exception. This production marks our second run of the musical, our first performance of it being in 2011. When I began searching for a musical to direct this year, I had two non-negotiable stipulations: it had to be Canadian, and it had to showcase the immense talent of Haliburton's youth. Our youth cast has been practicing non-stop to bring you an unforgettable performance.

Backed by the talent and mentorship of our adult cast members, Anne of Green Gables will leave you singing and smiling all the way home—likely with a stop for ice cream along the way!

Director

Anne of Green Gables - The Musical

Douglas Walker is looking to build on the success of his first season with the Highlands Summer Festival as the Artistic Producer. After the hilarious absurdity of Urinetown, Douglas is following up with a more classic tale, Anne Of Green Gables. This season builds on his history with the festival, which includes a moving performance in Every Brilliant Thing and his directorial debut with the rollicking 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee.

His creative talents extend beyond directing and producing, though. Douglas has also showcased his writing and performing chops in Candid Cabaret with R.C.S., and his choreography has been featured in The Rink at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival and A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum at the Highlands Summer Festival.

On stage, Douglas has toured extensively across Canada and beyond, appearing in popular productions like Jersey Boys, Mamma Mia, and The Soul Of Motown (Stage West), as well as Avenue Q on its UK National Tour. He has also performed in The Voice of the Turtle and Affairs of State (Classic Theatre Festival), Miracle on 34th Street (Pitlochry Festival Theatre), and even Scooby Doo Live: The Mystery of the Pyramid (UK National Tour, Warner Bros.). His theatrical journey has taken him across the globe, including performances with The Tenors (Netherlands Tour) and Sesame Street (Universal Studios Japan).

Beyond the stage, Douglas has appeared in several television productions, including Frankie Drake Mysteries (CBC), A Christmas Exchange (Lifetime), In The Dark (The CW), Jazz Ramsay: A K9 Mystery (Hallmark), and Rabbit Hole (Paramount). He has also lent his voice to Hyperscape (Ubisoft) and the audiobook Unrest by Gwen Tuinman (Penguin Random House).

As he steps into the exciting role of Artistic Producer, Douglas is dedicated to fostering artistic excellence, innovation, and community engagement at the Highlands Summer Festival.

All my love to Jocelyn, Lachlan & Kaja for their unwavering support xxx

Backstage Spotlight...

Grant Gooley, Stage Manager

“It just made sense to step up”

When the call went out for someone to stage manage Anne of Green Gables – The Musical, Grant Gooley figured it just made sense to step up.

After all, he had training in television broadcasting and a background in stage managing with a long-running murder mystery dinner theatre in Ottawa. He had the skills and experience.

Then there was the fact that his two daughters are in the show.

“This is the most rewarding thing, a once in a lifetime opportunity, to be so close to my family and collaborate on building something beautiful.”

Ella Gooley, 16, plays the fiery Anne. Ella is a conservatory pianist who loves to sing, as six hundred people learned in June when she performed the national anthem at the opening of the Haliburton Sports Hall of Fame. Brooke, 14, is an Instagram creator with millions of monthly views. She will be featured in the role of Gertie Pye. Both Ella and Brooke performed in the Summer Festival's 2022 production of The Sound of Music. Mom Jillian also has a background in theatre arts and will be helping young cast members keep things organized backstage. It's truly a family affair.

The family connection may be a beautiful thing, but there are potential pitfalls. "I definitely have to put my hand over my mouth sometimes. I have to be careful not to be in dad mode, so I don't embarrass them. And it's hard not to shed a tear in rehearsals watching your daughter play a scene where somebody is dying."

Fortunately, the work demands focus. Anne is an ambitious production, with thirty characters played by twenty-four performers. As stage manager, everything in the musical's two acts and twenty-three scenes runs through Gooley.

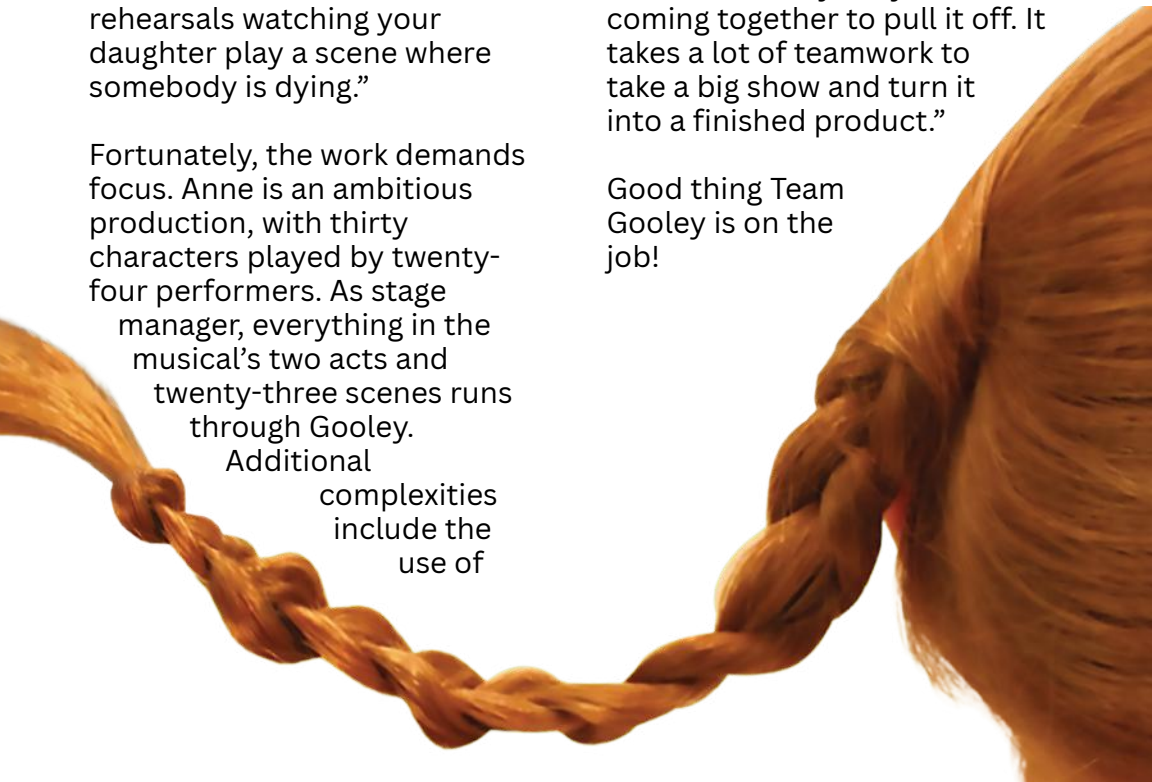

Additional complexities include the use of scrims, semi-transparent fabric that will contribute theatre magic to scenes like the three-legged race. (There's also fake ice cream, but at press time details were still classified.)

On opening night, a handoff takes place when the director turns complete control of the show over to the stage manager. But the SM has a huge role throughout the rehearsal process, including the gargantuan task of scheduling. "Everybody is so busy, we've got kids at track meets, kids in sports and other obligations, so there's a lot of juggling," says Gooley.

"I'm always amazed by community theatre and how dedicated everybody is at coming together to pull it off. It takes a lot of teamwork to take a big show and turn it into a finished product."

Good thing Team Gooley is on the job!

Director's Notes

Myrna McBrien

As part of this village community, I feel incredibly fortunate through the years to have shared the theatre experience with actors, crew, fellow directors, and numerous volunteers who have become cherished friends. One never knows when or where a friendship will begin—and perhaps that is one of life's greatest gifts. It is also one of the joys of growing older: the adventure of discovering new connections, even the most unexpected ones, never truly ends.

Children form friendships so easily—free from self-doubt, self-consciousness, or fear of judgment. In Doris and Ivy in the Home, friendship emerges quickly, almost by accident, and yet the childlike trust still needs to be earned. Sometimes, the hardest person to trust may be yourself. Despite heartbreak and loss, the characters find that their varied experiences do not divide them, but instead bring them together. They learn to open their hearts to possibility, to set aside fear, and to trust in connection. Within the safety of unconditional friendship, they discover—or re-discover—vulnerability, intimacy, and love.

While Doris and Ivy in the Home has drawn comparisons to Foster's Jonas and Barry in the Home, it possesses a heart and spirit entirely of its own. Norm Foster has a remarkable ability to write with authenticity—guiding us from laughter to the most tender and difficult truths of the human experience. He reminds us that even in life's later chapters, often symbolized by the "golden years," there remains immense potential for joy, growth, and the most meaningful connections.

In bringing this warm, humorous story to life, our committed team, talented cast, and hard working crew have joyfully worked together to celebrate lives fully lived—lives that, despite hardship, remain open to friendship, vulnerability, and unconditional love.

In an uncertain world, one hopeful constant endures - the discovery of love. Through this story, Norm Foster gently reminds us never to give up on love. We hope you enjoy the journey.

Myrna McBrien

Director

Doris & Ivy in the Home

Myrna is a seasoned actor and director with over twenty-five years of experience spanning both amateur and professional stages. As an actor, director, and producer, she is recognized for her storytelling, team-minded leadership, and commitment to creating character-driven work. Her years with the Highlands Summer Festival reflect a deep passion for theatre as both an art form and a vital community experience.

Most recently, Myrna appeared as Gingy in her own theatre company's Toronto production of Love, Loss, and What I Wore by Delia and Nora Ephron, having played the role previously at Oakville Centre for the Performing Arts. As a director, she has helmed recent Toronto productions of Norm Foster's Doris and Ivy in the Home and Willy Russell's Shirley Valentine. Myrna's producing credits also include Kingfisher Days by Susan Coyne, in which she also starred in Hamilton On.

Her longstanding involvement with the Festival includes performances in Annie, The Goodbye Girl, The Last Resort, Looking, Fallen Angels, and The Ladies Foursome, the latter of which she also directed. She has also directed notable Festival productions such as The Dining Room, The Importance of Being Earnest, Shirley Valentine, and last summer's Drinking Habits. Myrna is honoured to return to the Festival and to work alongside its dedicated artists, volunteers, and loyal supporters. She extends her sincere thanks to Melissa and Douglas, and to the Board for the opportunity to once again contribute to this vibrant, community-minded theatre.

Special heartfelt thanks goes to her brave and beautiful cast, the behind the scenes teams such as set design, building, painting, tech, light design, all volunteers, and backstage crew. Myrna wants to thank her wonderful stage manager for keeping us all organized, and uplifted every step of the way.

Myrna invites you to enjoy another fabulous HSF season—and believes wholeheartedly that you are never too old to get lost in the magic of theatre. Love to the family, and cheers to friends who become family.

Jack Brezina

The Excitement is Still Live Theatre...

Jack Brezina is holding court at Castle Antiques, sipping from a cup of coffee and answering questions about his twenty-five years on the board of the Highlands Summer Festival, while greeting a steady stream of well-wishers. His eighty years show in the slight stoop of his tall frame and the careful pace of his steps. They show not at all in his quick wit or the ready twinkle in his hazel eyes.

"They gave me a lifetime season pass when I retired from the board," he says, "which was a very nice gift, and I intend to use it right up until my gate is announced."

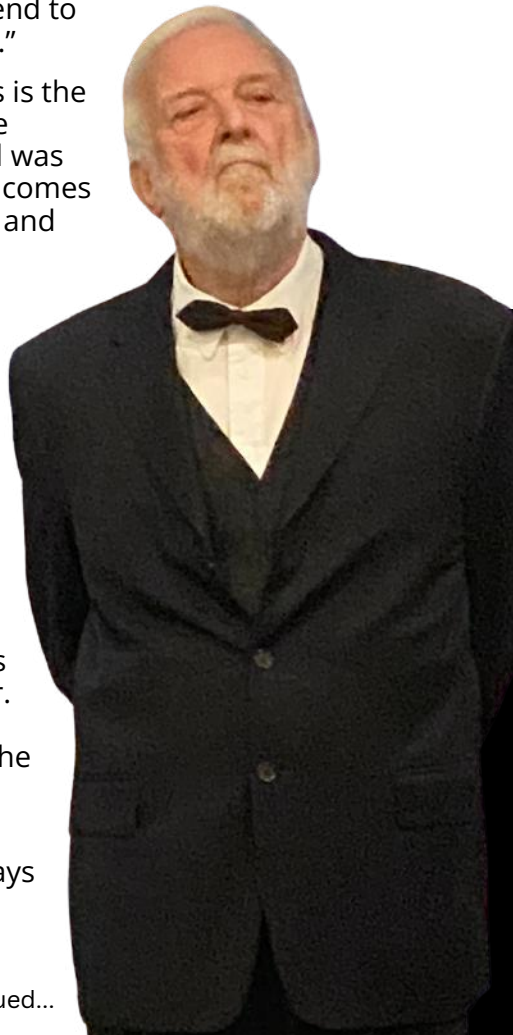

That light-heartedness is characteristic, as is the way he downplays his contributions to the Festival. "I think mostly what I contributed was my enthusiasm. Theatre is the circus that comes to town on a train, unloads the elephants and marches down the street. It's exciting."

"So I contributed my love of it all. That and maybe some journalism skills. I was still running the Minden Times when we started the Festival, so I could help with publicity and photography."

Current members of the board have a somewhat longer list. "We now have three people trying to keep up with all the things that Jack did," says Sue Vorvis, chair of the marketing committee.

"Jack is the world's best arm-twister," adds Ken Loney, the Festival's general manager. "He can drag favours out of people while making everyone feel good. I don't think the Highlands Summer Festival would still be here after twenty-five years without Jack."

Joan Chappell, a former board member, says he was a treat to work with because, "he always knew exactly what he wanted."

JACK BRENZIA
Henry the Old Actor
The Fantastics, 2007

For Melissa Stephens, executive producer, Jack's contribution is his community mindedness. "After family, I think community is the most important thing to him – and sometimes community might win out. Whenever somebody needs help, if he's available he's there. Morning noon or night."

Jack and Pat Brezina moved to the Highlands from Cochrane, Ontario, with their two young kids, Kerry and Kevin, both pre-school, in May of 1979. By the early Eighties, Pat was teaching elementary school and Jack had settled into his role as publisher of the Minden Times. "I also did some editing, reporting, sales, mailing and sweeping." It wasn't long before he got involved with the Highlands Little Theatre. Twinkle: "They let me be on stage!"

When a high school renovation opened up the possibility of creating a new community theatre, Jack was an ardent supporter. The conversion of the gymnasium into the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion had many funders – the provincial government, local school board, and various grants – topped off by enthusiastic local fund-raising that raised more than $750,000. "We had a grand opening over three gala nights," he recalls, "involving performers from all over the county. Actors, folk singers, Scottish dancers and pipers, everyone. There were more than two hundred people on stage for the finale."

"And then the question became, what next? The theatre was a school classroom nine months of the year, but it couldn't just sit empty the rest of the time. We had a strong performing arts community here, and we wanted to build on it."

A group came together. Each chipped in a bit of money for working capital. They designed a logo, planned a season, and divvied up tasks. At the end of the year they had recouped their investment with enough left over to launch the next season. "Finances have always been a challenge," Jack says, "but we've always managed to finish the season in the black." COVID was a particular challenge. After that great intermission, Jack decided it was time to step down as board chair, but he stayed on as past chair for three more years, helping to ensure a smooth transition.

Don't call it a retirement. Immediately after his last meeting with the Festival board he launched into directing the Little Theatre's acclaimed production of Calendar Girls. And his familiar presence will be back at the Festival through the summer to host this season's post-performance Curtain Talks.

Asked about the future, he goes immediately to prospects for the Festival. "I was delighted when Dougie said yes." (Douglas Walker became the Festival's Artistic Producer in 2025). "There's new energy on the board, and renewed public support. "The excitement is still live theatre."

Curtain Talks

Back by popular demand, Highlands Summer Festival continues its practice of presenting Curtain Talks throughout the season. Also back by popular demand, Jack Brezina will host our Curtain Talks!

Curtain Talks, are a great way to discover why and how the creative team were inspired by the play and its characters characters. Patrons can pose questions to the cast and crew members as they offer insight into the process that went into creating the play. We will present one curtain talk for each production (two for Anne of Green Gables). If you don't have tickets for the productions when Curtain Talks are being held, you are welcome to attend ... and it's free. Simply show up at the end of the performance and take a seat after those wishing to leave have left the auditorium. So come and listen and ask questions. A raw, funny and moving journey into the soul...

An introspective and deeply personal yet humour-infused exploration of identity, transformation, and the human psyche. Acclaimed Colombian-Canadian opera singer Fabián Arciniegas invites audiences on a journey through migration, self-doubt, and reconciliation with his "shadow," a concept inspired by Carl Jung.

This one-person show masterfully blends monologue, music, movement, and sharp wit, weaving a poignant narrative that tackles profound themes with a touch of levity. Featuring an eclectic musical repertoire, from haunting Latin American melodies to classical arias and comedic moments that catch you off guard, "My Shadow y Yo" is a raw, moving, and entertaining portrait of resilience and self-acceptance.

Fabián Arciniegas

Fabián Arciniegas is a versatile Colombian-Canadian singer-actor. He brings a wide range of repertoire to life, from Baroque to Contemporary.

Inspired by his love for chamber singing, Fabián discovered a passion for new composers and successfully toured Canada and internationally as part of the series Crossing Borders. He has premiered new compositions by composers such as Saman Shahi, Patricia Morehead, Michelle Lorimer, Chia Yin Wu and Mario Gómez Vignes. He has performed with prestigious organizations including the Canadian Opera Company, Toronto Operetta Theatre, and Opera in Concert.

He is the creator and performer of "Colores", a show that invites audiences to engage with classical and contemporary music through pop music and storytelling.

He premiered his new show "Yo And My Shadow" in September 2024 as part of the Northumberland Festival Of The Arts.

Recently he took part in the Toronto premiere of the opera Angel's Bone by composer Du Yun with Loose Tea Theatre and Sound The Alarm Theatre.

Sean Pennylegion

...has a long list of passions

Sean Pennylegion's current passion – in a long line of passions – is championing democracy, particularly municipal democracy, specifically municipal democracy here in Haliburton County.

Pennylegion helped drive a grassroots project, the Haliburton Highlands Healthy Democracy Project. "I've been yipping about it for quite a while and at the end of 2024 it came together organically."

"It's important because we're bringing to light that a very important election is coming up, and hoping to light a fire under everyone and get more people involved." Phase one of the project offered a series of four well-attended workshops in all parts of the county. Phase two, funded by a LIP grant, will provide a set of all-candidates meetings in every municipality. "We're neutral. We have no ax to grind. We just want to get more people engaged."

Pennylegion is something of a renaissance man. Over the years you might have found him running the Humane Society in Guelph, or the post office and general store in Woodview, near Peterborough, or in Haliburton Forest guiding a canopy tour in the clouds, or piloting a submarine, or managing the Forest Festival.

He also collects certifications the way some people collect spoons. High Ropes Challenge Course Instructor. NAUI scuba diver. Canoe tripper. First responder. First aid. CPR. Royal Life Saving. Super Host. Oh, and Smart Serve. He can take you into the clouds, pull you out of the water, or pour you a drink.

Pennylegion has had a long involvement with theatre, usually backstage, but he made it onto the boards a couple times. A police officer who says “yes sir” three times, and a corpse, both roles with Highlands Little Theatre. “Onstage is not a comfortable spot for me. It tightens my sphincter.”

He served for eleven years as treasurer of the Highlands Summer Festival. (Actually, it's hard to find a community organization in the county that he hasn't served on.) “The Highlands Summer Festival is in some ways the granddaddy of performing arts in the county. It's the model to which one would aspire. Creative. Disciplined. Professional.”

A year after leaving the role, he still bumbles with ideas for enhancing the Festival. “My involvement with the Highlands Summer Festival was a big deal in my life. It was rewarding, stimulating. The level of creativity is very high.”

Sean and Gwen Pennylegion moved to Haliburton in 2000, after selling their general store. “We had bought a derelict store in Woodview and turned it into a thriving business. Gwen did a lot of that. Her customer service skills are exceptional.”

For many years they chose to work on six month contracts, Gwen at Fleming college, Sean at Haliburton Forest. “I got pushed outside my comfort zone a lot there, and you grow from that.” In the other six months they did bicycle touring around the world – southeast Asia, New Zealand, Australia – packing everything with them. “We were self-contained, with sleeping bags, tent, cooking stove. That wasn't always comfortable either. You go into a place, you don't speak the language, you don't know where you're going to sleep. But we met wonderful people and we always figured it out.”

He retired from the Forest in 2015, only to find his calendar filled with worthy projects in the county, including a part time gig as a courier for the Haliburton County Library. “I'm hangin' with really interesting people doing good stuff. Quality human beings who make things happen in this community. What could be better?”

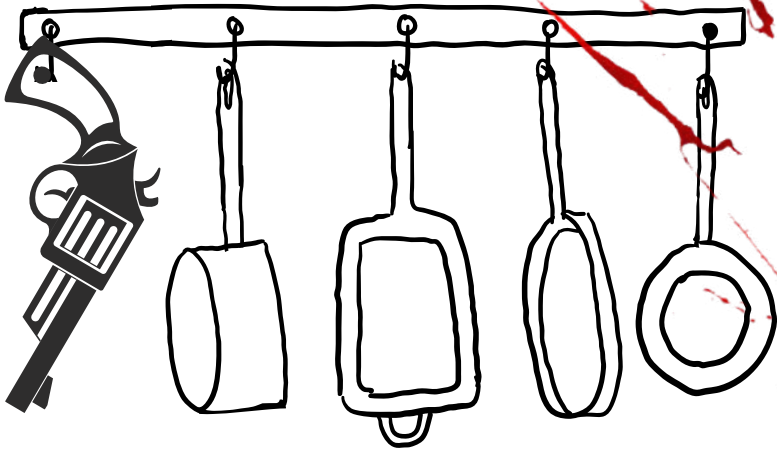

So what's next? Is there something else on the horizon? Is he maybe ready to settle down and relax?

“Well... I'd like to do more cycle touring.”

You go, Sean!

Director's Notes

A Braatz

Firstly, thank you for joining us and for supporting the arts. It's important that we take time to reflect on how we got here and what truly matters. For me, that is creativity. When we invest in creation, its impact ripples outward—through our communities and into the wider world.

Too Many Cooks is one of my favourite pieces, and I was fortunate to connect with the writers to better understand the motivations behind it. Though set in the 1930s, the play feels strikingly relevant to today's political climate. Its satire lands in ways that echo the world we live in now.

In approaching this production, we focused on grounding each character's experience in truth, even within the chaos. By working closely with the text, rhythm, and pacing, we aimed to bring its fast-paced comedy to life. Through timing and a sense of musicality, we discovered the moments that let the story breathe and collide.

History may not repeat itself, but it often rhymes. We cannot fully understand where we are going without acknowledging where we have been. While this story is fictional, it carries a deeper truth—because, in many ways, that is what comedy does best.

I am deeply grateful to HSF, our cast and crew, and the Haliburton community and beyond for embracing and supporting this work. Bringing a production to life is no small feat—let alone five in a single month—and it is only possible through the dedication, generosity, and creative spirit of so many people. That commitment to artistry is something the world truly needs.

Now, sit back, relax—and before long, you may find yourselves leaning forward, caught up in the chaos and laughter.

Thank you, and enjoy the show.

A Braatz

Director

A Braatz is thrilled to join HSF's 2026 season. A multifaceted artist, he works as an actor, singer, musician, writer, director, producer—adapting to whatever role is needed. He has performed on stages and screens across Europe and North America, bringing his dynamic talents to diverse projects.

A Braatz believes storytelling unites us, sparking our shared humanity and driving progress through creativity. "Every story is our story," he says, reflecting his commitment to invigorating the spirit of commonality through art.

Grateful for the family and friends who have supported him on this journey. A Braatz looks forward to many more years of creating and connecting.

Sweet Dreams takes audiences back in time to spend an evening with the music of one of the greatest entertainers of all time. Backed by a full five-piece band, well-known Canadian stage star, Leisa Way, a powerhouse singer and entertainer herself, celebrates not only the music of this legendary singer, but tells stories about Patsy's life that have never been heard before. This concert has been playing to sold out crowds at over 60 theatres across North America.

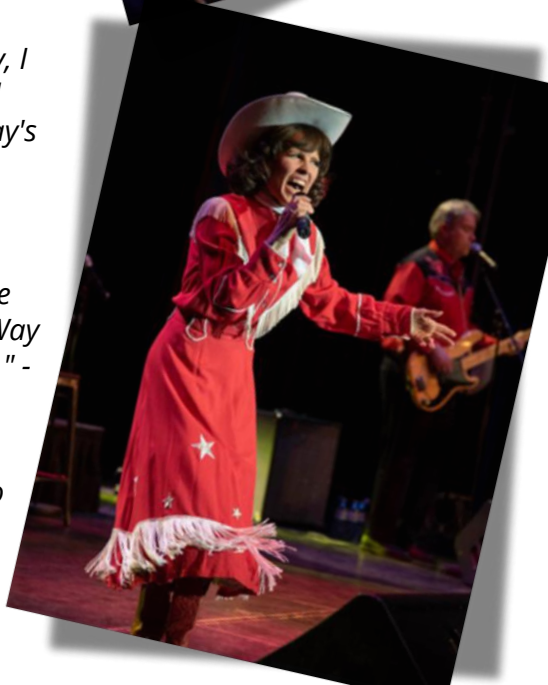

Leisa Way delivers the songs of Patsy Cline with a pure heart and sensational vocals. Her strong, full, honest voice will thrill any fan.

"Canada's Leisa Way dominates the stage, filling every corner of the theatre with her rich, vibrant voice. And if ever a singer could be said to be "channeling" the late, much-loved Patsy Cline, then that singer is unquestionably Way. Backed by a four-man band of outstanding musicians, artists in their own right, Leisa Way delivers classic Cline numbers like Crazy, I Fall to Pieces, The Tennessee Waltz, and Walkin' After Midnight that had Saturday's capacity crowd cheering" - Morrisburg Leader

"No one has come as close as Way in emulating the essence, the voice and the passion of the country music legend... Way causes shivers with her grandiose voice." - Banner Review

"Leisa Way's brilliant portrayal of this unforgettable country music icon has to be her greatest triumph to date." -- Country Music Jukebox, Germany

Music has played a significant role in our family activities, so it was a natural step to become involved in the Festival Choir, the orchestra and the band, along with the church choir. Then, one summer, when an actor became ill, I was invited to take on the part. Since then, I have been privileged to play minor roles in several productions including this one.

Rules of Set Decoration

Our sets contribute to the magic of theatre, whether it's an other-worldly Urinetown or a down-home country cottage. Painting each set requires a small group of volunteers with a vast range of talents, from 'great with a roller' to professional artists. The work can be complex but there are a few simple rules:

The Thirty Foot Rule

The set is intended to look its best at a distance of thirty feet or more. To the audience it should appear as a subtle plaster texture. Up close it's a visible tone-on-tone painted rag application. A fine mahogany wainscoting is actually a red/brown paint base overlaid with various colours of water-downed paint brushed together to imitate grain and highlights. We don't bother with subtle details because you'll never see them. And if one of our painters gets stuck on a detail, another will helpfully call out 'thirty feet'.

The Paint Rule

If it can't be done with paint, we simply don't do it. Fortunately, there is very little that can't be done with paint. In Anne of Green Gables, we painted rock foundations, flooring to give the look of worn painted pine plank, weather-aged cedar, rotting cedar shingles, plank siding, dragon-tooth cedar shingles, authentic custom stencil wallpaper, beadboard, hand painted signs, cast-iron, and a cherry tree, to name just a few.

The Anything Rule

The Anne set is almost all wood, but we will paint anything. Metal, plastic, stone, glass, vinyl siding, and fabric are often painted to create a specific vision. For Shirley Valentine, we spray-painted yards and yards of canvas drop cloths to imitate a Greek beach; we painted the stage to resemble a hardwood gym floor in The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, and the terrace fence in Doris and Ivy in the Home is topped with plastic garden borders from the dollar store and painted to look like an iron fence.

The Mixing Rule

You can achieve any colour in the universe by mixing paints left over from previous shows. There are dozens of cans of paint, in a multitude of colours, stored at our shop, all from previous year sets. When a small amount or special colour is required, we simply mix it up. There are over a dozen custom mixed colours and washes used in the Anne set. For example, we mixed or applied eight different colours to transform wood into aged cast iron, and we used more than a dozen colours to paint the cherry tree.

The 'Not Garbage' Rule

You might throw it out, but we use it. A stiff, paint-filled brush is a tool. The stiffer the brush, the better the wood grain. We use stiff, paint-filled chip brushes (super cheap at $1.25) to create wood grain, old rags to create texture, wood blocks to create the illusion of peeling paint, scrunched up paper to create cracks in concrete, feathers to create veins in marble, and sea sponges for, well, everything. We use fine art brushes and good quality paint brushes, but it is the 'that's not garbage' items that create the magic.

The Magic Sponge Rule

Sea sponges are always at hand. Always used damp, they combine paint to apply multiple colours at once to create bricks, marble, granite, concrete, soot, break-up, and so much more. Best of all, a sponge can be used to 'paint' over an 'oops' or simply wipe one out completely.

The Flat First Rule

Sets are typically designed flat, which makes them lighter, and easier to paint and move. Our stock flats are a 1x3 pine frame with a quarter ply skin. Each of the six flats in the kitchen for Anne were painted no fewer than ten times to create the effect of an old, but well-kept kitchen in a rural farmhouse in a small Maritime town.

The "It's the Actor's Fault" Rule

If the audience is looking that closely at the set that they see our mistakes, the actors are not doing their job!

The 'A Little Help' Rule

Typically, our sets are created on-site by our own construction team. On occasion, however, the design calls for a piece that requires a little more finesse or precision that our team doesn't have the tools, time, or space to produce. Fortunately, we have some friends who have the skills and tools to take on these pieces (probably not the time, but they always come through). For Anne of Green Gables, we needed help with the cast-iron stove and the cherry tree.

Hans Andersen, his third season with HSF, crafted a cast iron stove to make Marilla's heart swell with pride. The dimensions are perfect, the doors open and close, and the details are authentic! Mary Hillaby and Gill Stephen transformed the raw wood into aged, well-used cast iron.

Due to space limitations on the stage, it was decided that the cherry tree as originally designed would have to be scaled back to a silhouette. Greg Shikazi, his second season with the HSF (cityscape for Urinetown in 2025), took one look at the sketch and knew exactly how to create some dimension without actually taking up stage space. He precision-cut puzzle pieces for the trunk, limbs, and canopy, layering them with spacers to create the illusion of depth. Jacquie Halupka, a local artist and part of our set decoration team, expertly captured the beauty of a cherry tree in spring.

Move-in Day...

Building the set for Anne was a massive undertaking in time, skill, materials, and space. The set has four main units - kitchen, house, train station, and front entry - and a couple of smaller pieces - the wagon and cherry tree; the kitchen and house are so heavy they are mounted on air pucks so that they literally float on stage. The set was constructed and painted in our shop over a period of six weeks.

And then, many of the construction team members that laboured long and hard to put the set together, pull it all apart! Under the very experienced direction of David Mills (HSF founder, actor, stage manager, construction team manager to name a few of his roles over the past 26 years) the team, with a little help from Ed Canning who will appear as Matthew Cuthbert and Nadarra Collette, our sound and lighting technician, moved all the pieces from the shop and carefully reconstruct the units on the Northern Lights stage.

Move-in day is long and frustrating. If asked, David will tell you that the set never goes back together quite the same as it did in the shop and, even after 26 years, he still doesn't know exactly why doors don't swing, trim doesn't fit, pieces go missing. But, at the end of move-in days, well, days in the case of Anne, the doors swing, the trim fits and new pieces/hardware are added as required.

Finally, the team sits in the seats to see what you will see. And when they are satisfied that you will feel the magic, they go home knowing that the actors and crew will bring the set to life....or back to the shop to work on the next set.
