As offices become more about collaboration and virtual workspaces, workers are no longer bound to a single desk, but they still need somewhere to store their personal items.

Allow employees to create a personal space in the office, support hybrid workers when they are out of the office, and give visitors to the office a secure place for their possessions.

//DIVIDE.

Help create zones in the office environment by using the Flux locker system as a dividing wall and a visual barrier between departments and working groups.
