

Apprentice Stories

MORGAN
SINDALL
PROPERTY SERVICES

An apprenticeship offers the perfect balance between working and studying, allowing me to apply what I learn in real-time on actual projects. This approach not only enhances my understanding, but also makes me more industry-ready by the time I complete my training.

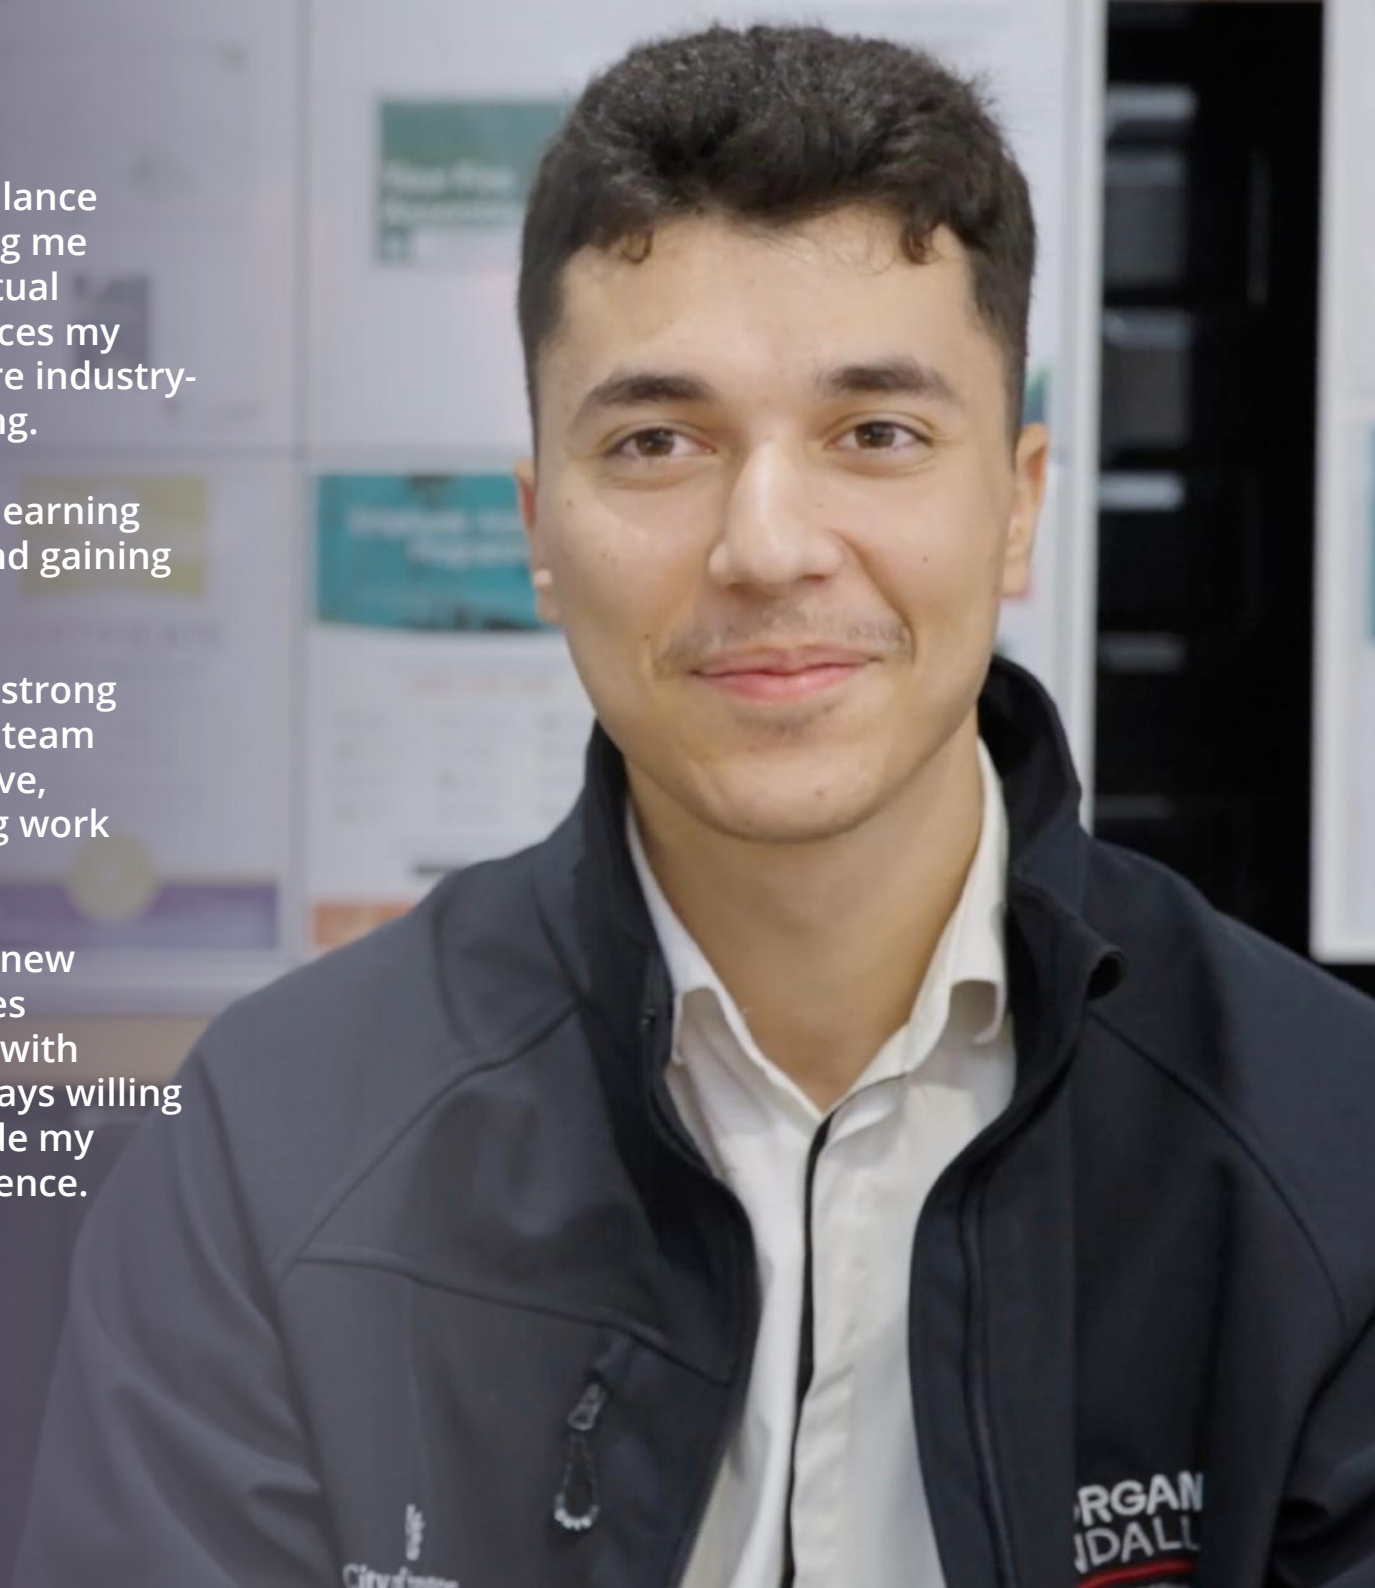

The opportunity to earn a salary while learning means I can start building my career and gaining financial independence sooner.

What I enjoy most about my role is the strong sense of camaraderie in the office. The team is incredibly supportive and collaborative, which creates a positive and motivating work environment.

Everyone, from senior management to new apprentices, interacts openly and shares ideas freely. Being able to work closely with experienced professionals who are always willing to offer guidance and support, has made my apprenticeship a truly enriching experience.

Robert Bala

Commercial Apprentice,
Westminster City Council

I love the variety of work, every day is different and every day brings more problem-solving experiences and projects, which keeps it interesting!

My electrical knowledge has improved greatly since starting, but I've also managed to pick up a lot of general building knowledge and skills from other trades by working closely with them on jobs and projects.

MSPS are a great company to work for and I've been supported throughout my training and development. Unfortunately my college had to delay my practical exam due to shortage of materials, but MSPS stepped in and donated the materials needed for me to complete the exam!

Apprenticeships allow you to tackle the job role from both sides, the hands-on experience you get from being on site, working and then learning more on the theory side during your college hours, is really beneficial. It allows you to better understand the job, get your foot on the career ladder and earn money at the same time

Jamie Smith

Electrical Apprentice,
Basildon Borough Council

The idea of going to university never appealed to me as I enjoyed the idea of earning while learning and gaining valuable experience that will help me understand my course and my job.

I am currently enrolled in a Level 4 Construction Quantity Surveying Technician on the Westminster City Council contract. I am really enjoying it, as the course is very interesting and challenging and is giving me a better understanding of my job role.

I am incredibly happy with my choice of going down the apprenticeship route. It has so many benefits and I have been able to experience a range of different situations and experiences, which I never would have been able to if I went to university.

Morgan Sindall Property Services have had a positive influence on my experience, and I would recommend them to anyone who has an interest in a career in Quantity Surveying.

Daniel Browne

Commercial Apprentice,
Westminster City Council

“

I decided on an apprenticeship with Morgan Sindall Property Services as I knew a business of this size could provide me with lots of opportunities to develop my career. Working alongside so many other Quantity Surveyors, I knew I would learn and pick up different skills from my colleagues, such as communication skills.

I chose an apprenticeship over another career route because I would be completing my course, as well as gaining day to day experience whilst also getting a salary. I didn't feel like university was the correct route for me, therefore an apprenticeship was the best option available.

What I enjoy most about my role is the responsibility I have. I am valued within my team and am supported within my role.

The apprenticeship is different to anything I have done previously, which did take some getting used to, as I got to grips with balancing work, study, and a social life.

Jack Vincett

Quantity Surveyor Apprentice,
Westminster City Council

I chose the apprenticeship route over a full-time career because it allowed me to gain qualifications while working in a corporate environment. It also gives me the chance to gain real industry experience whilst I continue to learn. This will then allow me to hit the ground running when I complete my qualification and become a full-time employee.

Since I have started, I have learnt numerous new skills, with the main ones being communication and efficiency. I have learnt to communicate effectively both verbally and through email to ensure that all issues are resolved. I have also learnt to become more efficient in my role, meaning I stay on track with all tasks that I'm working on.

My experience at Morgan Sindall Property Services has been beyond expectation. I've been made to feel part of the team straight away, and through great teaching, I have learnt the role very quickly and am looking forward to progressing further.

Tarun Mudhar

Commercial Apprentice,
Westminster City Council

Find out more about our apprenticeships here:
morgansindallpropertyservices.com/working-with-us/apprentices