How to use this calendar...

Quality Area 3 of the Australian National Quality Standard focuses on the physical environment, assessing that it is safe, suitable and provides a rich and diverse range of experiences that promote children's learning and development, and children becoming environmentally aware and responsible.

Standard 3.2 of the National Quality Standard requires a service to take an active role in caring for its environment and contribute to a sustainable future. For a service to be meeting the National Quality Standard, element 3.2.3 requires that sustainable practices are embedded in service operations.

NQS Element 3.2.3: The service cares for the environment and supports children to become environmentally responsible.
(Revised 1 Feb 2018 Version)

This requires that children develop an understanding and respect for the natural environment and the interdependence between people, plants, animals and the land. Educators and children work together to show respect, care and appreciation for the natural environment.¹

New Zealand Environmental Education for Sustainability (EES)
EES goes beyond 'caring for the environment'. It is about the cultural, social, cultural, and economic well-being of all people - as well as our planet, the biodiversity that relies upon it. EES encompasses an understanding of local and global citizenship, democracy, and the environment.

In the context of the early years curriculum, EES includes practices associated with sustainability, climate change, critical thinking, identity, community, and kaitiaki tangata.

One of the taonga of the Tiriti o Waitangi is kaitiakitanga, meaning stewardship, protection, and preservation. It is a way of respecting and caring for the environment, based on a Māori worldview.

¹ Guide to the National Quality Standard, ACECQA 2018

² Based on extracts from E. Framling, Sameroff and V. Raja, eds. The Contribution of Early Childhood Education to Sustainable Society (Paris: UNESCO, 2008)

Our Sustainable Year is a monthly calendar designed to highlight the sustainable practices carried out in the ECE Setting.

It is a monthly reminder to actively involve children in sustainable practices and activities as well as a record of the activities for parents and assessors to view. Write stories, draw pictures, stick in photos to document your month.

Use the Quality Improvement Plan for the year ahead.

We have based this monthly calendar on seven of the Re/ Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, Recycle, Repair, Respect and Reflect which then leads on to planning for the month.

Refuse is about refusing to buy or use items or practices that are not sustainable to skip the process of needing to reuse or recycle at all in the first place!

Reduce is about reducing the consumption of food, materials, and resources, which may involve working with parents on the problem of children's exposure to advertisements promoting endless consumption.

Reuse is about showing children that materials can be used many times for different purposes in the ECE setting and at home.

Recycle can be encouraged by asking children to bring recyclable materials to school and integrating them into a range of activities.

Repair involves taking care of broken toys and other objects and repairing them.

Respect is about nurturing understanding of and respect for nature and natural processes and reducing the extent to which they are violated.

Reflect is a habit and skill everybody will benefit from in working for sustainability. It is about thinking and talking about our actions and attitudes and how they can impact our world.

OUR SUSTAINABLE YEAR WALL CALENDAR

HOW DOES OUR CALENDAR HELP WITH COMPLIANCE?

FRAMEWORKS

Principles

- Secure, respectful, and reciprocal relationships are achieved when educators form nurturing relationships with children that help children learn about their responsibilities to others, such as our responsibility to create a sustainable future for others. Sustainability is the core principle of the Calendar with the goal to promote sustainable communities through shared practice between educators, children, families and the community. Critical reflection is encouraged with a monthly reflect box to encourage meaningful experiences and forward planning.

Practice

- The Sustainability Calendar is an intentional teaching tool that allows you to purposefully and thoughtfully plan and capture learning. Holistic approaches are supported by focusing on connections with the natural world. Responsive learning relationships are supported with this monthly reminder to actively involve children in sustainable practices. It encourages educators to allow children the opportunity to explore respect for the natural world through play-based learning. Welcoming learning environments are fostered through a displayed calendar that allows families to contribute ideas and questions and for children to reflect on their learning. It provides an additional tool for capturing assessments of learning.

New Zealand EEfS

- In the context of the early years' curriculum, EEfS involves ideas and practices associated with sustainability, climate change, critical thinking, identity, community, and kaitiakitanga which can be captured and displayed for families.

Learning Outcomes

- Children's emerging sense of identity is fostered by allowing children to construct their own identity within the context of the natural environment (LO1). Educators are offering this by:
 - Providing children with strategies to make informed choices about their sustainable behaviours, promoting children's sense of belonging, connectedness, and wellbeing, mediating and assisting children in negotiating their rights in relation to the rights of the community (LO1.2),
 - Promoting a strong sense of shared identity as Australians and respect for the land and sharing children's successes with families through a displayed calendar (LO1.3).
- Children's connection to the world and their ability to contribute are promoted (LO2). Educators are providing this by:
 - Building connections between their centre and the local community and providing opportunities for children to investigate ideas relevant to their lives and community (LO2.1),
 - Encouraging children to be socially responsible and show respect for the environment through sustainable practices such as: Reduce, Reuse, Recycle, Repair, Respect, and Reflect (LO2.4).
- Fostering children as confident and involved learners is supported (LO4) when educators:
 - Provide children opportunities to revisit their ideas through a displayed calendar and reflect with children on what they've learned using the Reflect prompt (LO4.1),
 - Provide the opportunity to transfer and adapt what they learn from one context to another by taking and sharing sustainable practices from the centre to their homes and communities (LO4.3),
 - Provide opportunities for children to explore natural and processed materials, and experience the broader community and environment (LO4.4).

OUR SUSTAINABLE YEAR WALL CALENDAR

HOW DOES OUR CALENDAR HELP WITH COMPLIANCE?

THEORETICAL LINKS

- Dewey believed children's social and cultural worlds are important to children's learning. The Sustainability Calendar brings children's learning inside the centre and connects it with the larger community.
- Bronfenbrenner believed the world influenced children's development; our Sustainability Calendar connects the wider community and society with children's learning and encourages positive environmental interactions with a displayed program for families.
- Environment Learning Theory believes children's environments shape learning and behaviour. By embedding sustainable practices, educators are providing an environment that will shape a connection with the natural world and responsibility to the wider world.

DEVELOPMENTAL MILESTONES

- Children's development across all areas can be captured through a range of experiences documented in our Reduce, Reuse, Recycle, Repair, Respect and Reflect boxes (EYLF 1, 2, 3, 4, 5).
