Get to know the GRV

OVER 60% OF OHIO'S GRAPES ARE GROWN IN THE GRAND RIVER VALLEY.

The Grand River Valley (GRV) Wine Region is a federally designated American Viticultural Area (AVA), located within two miles of Ohio's Grand River in Lake and Ashtabula Counties. The Grand River Valley was formed by retreating glaciers that carved out the Great Lakes and deposited a ridge of fertile soil ideal for the cultivation of vineyards.

Slopes and valleys move air and drain water, playing a major role in the agricultural success of the plentiful grape varieties grown in the Grand River Valley. The landscape, micro-climate, rich soil, and innovative winemaking techniques combine to identify the Grand River Valley.

How to Use This Guide

Enjoy three types of winery experiences in the Grand River Valley

Signature Winery

At Signature wineries, guests can expect to find rows of vineyards growing grapes used to produce Grand River Valley estate wines. Inside, wine sampling is encouraged to help guests make a selection that suits their taste (please note that Ohio law requires a charge for samples). Food choices are available for pairing; wine always tastes better with food! Signature wineries are open 5-7 days a week.

Artisan Winery

Artisan wineries are small-scale wine producers that focus on producing high-quality, handcrafted wines. These wineries are characterized by their emphasis on traditional and manual winemaking techniques, attention to detail, and commitment to producing unique and distinctive wines. Guests can expect a light menu or snacks to pair with their wine experience.

Casual Winery

Casual wineries offer a laid-back, relaxed atmosphere. These locations cater to visitors who want a comfortable and informal setting. Many have a full menu to accompany their wine list. Guests often enjoy live music and a variety of beverages. Every location has a story, be sure to ask about the history while you are there, and learn what they are known for.
