COMPOUNDING is the joining of two or more words into a new one. Compounds are usually written as one word (raincoat), but also as two, hyphenated words (eye-opening). Compounding is by far the most common and productive type of word formation in English as well as in other languages.

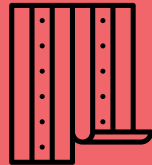

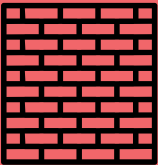

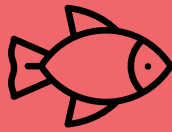

In English	Cannot (can+not) Baseball (base+ball) Fireworks (fire+works)
In Chinese	學生/学生 Xuesheng (student) 學 xué (learn) + 生 shēng/ (living being)
In Finnish	sanakirja (dictionary) sana (word) + kirja 'book'
In Ancient Greek	φιλόσοφος philosopher φίλος philós (friend) + σοφία sophiá (wisdom)
In Italian	pomodoro pomo d'oro = apple of Gold = tomato
In German	The number 728,349 is siebenhundertachtundzwanzig- tausenddreihundertneunundvierzig

In 120", put + , - or = between the pictures of each row to create compound words.

Can you match a red word with a black one to create a new compound?
