INTRODUCTION

Art on a Postcard's International Women's Day 2025 Auction Online at Dreweatts Auction House

27 February – 13 March 2025

Private View at The Bomb Factory Marylebone, London WC2B 6QX, 4 March 2025

Art on a Postcard is back for a sixth year with its annual International Women's Day Auction and an all-female identifying lineup. This year, we are joined by six guest curators, promising an event that's both familiar and full of exciting new additions.

Money raised will go towards the innovative work The Hepatitis C Trust carries out in Women's Prisons where much of the prison population tests positive for hepatitis C, and the majority of women affected or at risk of hepatitis C are marginalised, experience gender inequalities, and often face complex multiple needs which are poorly met.

Ceramist Mercedes Lucy, an emerging talent and studio holder at Tracey Emin's TKE Studio, has enlisted the best of Margate's artistic community for this year's auction. Her lineup, which would look good at Frieze, includes some exciting contemporary artists, including Vanessa Raw and Laura Footes who have both recently had inaugural solo shows at Carl Freedman Gallery, and Sophie Von Hellerman, who depicts imagery from fables, mythology, literature, and current events and is represented by Pillar Corrias.

Contemporary artist Hannah Tilson has contributed to Art on a Postcard auctions since she was a student at The Slade, so we are delighted to have her back as a curator in 2025. Hannah's lineup includes fashion designer and artist Sara Berman, who currently has her first solo show at Vielmetters in Los Angeles, and Serbian painter Maja Djordjevic, whose faux naïve paintings reference the visual style of Microsoft Paint.

Writer and editor on photography Gemma Padley has curated a fabulous selection of photographers, including Julie Cockburn, known for her distinctive embellishment of found images; Juno Calypso, whose photography captures the unsettling nature of feminine self-perception; and Alma Haser, known for detailed portrait work influenced by her background in fine art.

Curator, researcher, and art historian Marta Marsicka's auction includes works by Hungarian Artist Zofia Schweger, South Korean artist WooSun Choi, and Chinese artist Danying Chen. All three artists focus on identity, home, and being foreign.

Finally, The Women in Art Prize is participating with its finalists, including Laura Pannack, a social documentary photographer; Mandy Racine, a contemporary painter inspired by Baroque and Rococo old masters; and Han Yang, a photographer and creative director.

Art on a Postcard features an impressive array of talent, including feminist artist Caroline Coon whose work highlights the politics surrounding sexual liberation. Printmaker, wood engraver, Royal Academician Anne Desmett, and American artist Kat Giordano, whose paintings explore societal concerns related to subtle, unacknowledged violence and feeling trapped within suburban life. Chicago-based Ashley January tackles Black maternal mortality and morbidity crisis in America through painting and multimedia. Also, from the Kristin Hjellegjerde stable Heidi Ukkon, whose paintings explore relationships, anguish, and suffering as themes. Glasgow-based Ren Yen Song, whose practice explores self-mythology as survival tactic.

This edition of Art on a Postcard is packed with talent and interesting artists, and the lots start at an affordable £50. With the economy still shrinking, we want to ensure everyone can feed their art habit and be part of this exciting event.

MERCEDES LUCY

Mercedes Lucy's practice centres around her passion for ceramics combined with drawing from life and illustrative work, expressed in vigorous brushwork and mark-making. Recurring themes include domesticity, feminism, motherhood, grief, and identity, often with tongue-in-cheek humour.

The slow process of ceramics compliments my innate urge to rush, whilst creating artwork that is 'useful' relieves the female guilt of creating something that, arguably, in its' truest form may not be considered necessary.

Mercedes Lucy lives and works in Margate, Kent, UK, where she is a studio holder at TKE Studios.

MARTA MARSICKA

Marta Marsicka is an art historian and curator pursuing a PhD at Camberwell College of Arts, University of the Arts London, and working as an Artist Development Coordinator at BACKLIT Gallery in Nottingham. Their research deconstructs Western paradigms of art history, addressing the underrepresentation of East-Central European art within the West-centric discourse.

Through their curatorial practice, Marta bridges academic inquiry and cultural production, delving into the complexities of East-Central European identities and fostering transnational dialogues in the context of post-Brexit Britain.

MEET THE CURATOR

Gemma Peppé founded Art on a Postcard in 2014 to fundraise for The Hepatitis C Trust. Former Tust CEO Charles Gore brought Gemma on board to utilise her experience as a music agent in fundraising within the music industry. Before running Art on a Postcard, Gemma managed The Hepatitis C Trust's successful prevention campaigns, What Not to Share, which featured Lily Allen and Mark Ronson, and the Get Tested Campaign. These campaigns were highly effective in raising awareness, with T-shirts designed by Bella Freud and Sadie Frost; the campaign involved a collaboration with Boy George on a photographic project in which they dressed contemporary celebrities as 1980s icons. Art on a Postcard has raised over two million pounds and receives approximately 1,000 artworks annually.
