“Sculptural Glass Desk: This is an office desk made entirely of transparent, tempered glass molded into fluid, organic shapes reminiscent of flowing water. The main work surface is smooth and flat, but the supporting structures twist and turn like liquid tendrils, making it appear as if the desk is frozen in motion. LED lights embedded within the glass structure can change colors, adding to the ambiance.”

“The Harmony DeskCube is a sleek, multifunctional furniture piece designed for both households and offices. At its core, it's a cubic structure made of transparent smart glass. When powered off, it's a clear glass box that can be used as a side table or decorative piece. When powered on, the glass becomes opaque and displays interactive touch-sensitive screens on all sides. One side features a virtual keyboard and touchpad, another displays sticky notes and reminders, while another provides video conferencing capabilities. The top surface can wirelessly charge devices placed on it. The cube sits on a minimalist metallic base with concealed wheels for mobility.”

“Whimsical Cloud Bookcase: This wall-mounted bookcase is shaped like fluffy clouds, made from soft-touch, pale blue materials. Embedded LED lights in the bookcase give a soft glow, resembling cloud illumination during different times of the day. The clouds have different depth pockets, allowing for storage of books, decor items, or even small plants.”
