Remarks of Chairperson, Sewa UK

Digital literacy is a crucial aspect for human development and it significantly contributes to socio-economic progress. Nearly two-thirds of the population of the Nepal still resides in rural/tribal areas, but only few people are equipped with the skill of digital education where more than 70% people lacks the access to proper digital education, which is higher in hilly/mountainous areas.

Nepal

Many countries strongly believe that if we want to overcome poverty, unemployment and discrimination, we have to empower people with knowledge & employable skills.

With its objective of filling up the skill gap, 'Skill Development Centre Computer training' is confident to raise the standard of living of our country's youth by transforming them into skilled manpower.

About Medics4sewa Project

As villagers do not get proper guidance about a healthy way of life from their childhood, they suffer from many diseases.

Rural India struggles to obtain the basic healthcare that is much needed for the individual members to live a long and healthier life in rural India.

There is a high incidence of disease, facial deformity and oral cancer. Health education is virtually non-existent. Infant and maternal mortality is amongst the highest in India.

Medics4Sewa will provide a variety of healthcare services to the families of Chitrakoot and the surrounding villages.

About Chitrakoot

Chitrakoot is a small town situated on the Mandakini River, approximately 500 miles South East of Delhi.

It is on the border between Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh, two of the poorest and most deprived areas of rural India.

There are 500 surrounding villages with a total population of over one million, all struggling with poverty and an almost total absence of health care.

Sewa UK has set out to make a difference by bridging this gap!

Chitrakoot means 'hill of many wonders', it is a place of religious, cultural, historical and archaeological importance.

After surgery (right)

Medics4sewa encourages medical professionals to offer their services and skills in much needed advanced treatments and surgeries at DRI establishments.

The type of work carried out varies and will be dependent on skills of the healthcare professional. sewaUK aims to carry out procedures ranging from standard testing for general health through to more major surgery in all specialities
