Susan & Graeme Belch

Susan & Graeme Belch

"From the moment we first experienced a Callerton kitchen, we were captivated by the elegance and versatility of the designs. The option to customise the paint colours ensured our kitchen would be uniquely ours" Susan reflects.

Having previously owned a Callerton kitchen, Susan knew exactly where to turn when it came time to find a kitchen for her new home — a charming late Victorian sandstone villa. "The decision to choose Callerton again was easy. Their kitchens blend timeless elegance with modern functionality, making it the focal point of our home" she adds.

The design process was seamless, facilitated by her local independent design-led kitchen specialist who ensured a stress-free experience. "The attention to detail and the quality of craftsmanship are what make Callerton stand out. They truly delivered our dream kitchen."

Excellence in every detail

Founded over 40 years ago in Newcastle by James Herriot and Gordon Stanger-Leathes, Callerton began as a small property development business. Recognising their passion and potential in kitchen design and manufacture, they shifted focus. Callerton was born, embodying the ambition and innovative spirit of its founders.

At Callerton, we are committed to British manufacturing, using locally sourced materials wherever possible and sustainable manufacturing practices. We combine partnerships with the biggest innovators in the market, like Egger and Blum, and the standards of the Kitchen Bathroom Bedroom Specialists Association (KBSA), of which we are a corporate member, to deliver quality and service you can trust.

Our passion for innovation drives us to explore new technologies and design concepts, creating furniture that are functional, tactile, and visually striking. Working with our design-led independent retailers, each Callerton project reflects our spirit of creativity and forward-thinking design.
