Common Mistakes Women Make

Women come from a different emotional and psychological place than men. As a result, it can be hard to understand the way that men think and act.

This is particularly true when it comes to relationships, and many women make the same mistakes when trying to understand their man.

One of the most common mistakes is trying to solve the problem instead of listening. Even if it is well-intentioned, trying to solve the problem instead of listening can be perceived as trying to control the situation and can push your man away. Additionally, making assumptions can be a huge mistake.

If your man is not opening up, don't jump to conclusions and make assumptions. Instead, remain patient and give him the space to open up.

Another mistake that women make is not accepting his feelings.

You may not agree with his feelings, but the important thing is that you accept them and understand where he is coming from.

This will help him feel accepted and understood, and will encourage him to open up more and be vulnerable.

Finally, many women make the mistake of trying to change their man.

If your man is not willingly opening up, pushing him to change is only going to create resentment and resistance.

Instead, focus on being understanding and supportive, and make sure to let him know that it is OK to share his feelings.

By avoiding these common mistakes, women can create a safe and secure environment to strengthen their relationship.

With patience and understanding, you can create an emotional connection that will make him want to worship you.
