Our Eco-Fabrics

NEW!

Fabric Spotlight: Hemp

Hemp, or industrial hemp, is a botanical class of Cannabis Sativa cultivars grown specifically for industrial or medicinal use. It can be used to make a wide range of products.

Along with bamboo, hemp is among the fastest growing plants on Earth. It was also one of the first plants to be spun into usable fiber 50,000 years ago. It can be refined into a variety of commercial items, including paper, rope, textiles, clothing, biodegradable plastics, paint, insulation, biofuel, food, and animal feed.

100% Certified Organic Cotton

Grown with only natural fertilizers, pesticides, and rainfall as its irrigator, this type of cotton has the most minimal water consumption and use of resources, making it 100% certified organic and natural.

100% Recycled Cotton Canvas

This type of cotton canvas fabric is made exclusively from reprocessed industrial cotton fabric waste converted into a new, 100% recycled fabric that helps lessen the burden on local landfills.

Post-Consumer RPET

A common plastic used in consumer goods' packaging, PET (Polyethylene Terephthalate) is collected and reprocessed into a new material that is woven into fabric, making it a great 100% recycled fabric.

Non-Woven Polypropylene

Made with reprocessed industrial waste, this fabric helps redirect scrap from landfills to be reprocessed into a new material, making it an ideal, economical option for any eco-friendly promotion or program.

Biodegradable Cotton

Natural, durable, and biodegradable, our AZO-free cotton is a timeless fabric available in a variety of weights (5oz to 22oz) that can provide solutions to any application.

Biodegradable Jute

Because it requires neither fertilizer nor pesticide to promote growth, and consumes significantly less water than cotton, Jute is an eco-friendly fabric that is organic, durable, and biodegradable.
