Kirkliston

EDINBURGH

Named for its 13th century Parish Kirk, the historic town of Kirkliston lies around eight miles to the west of Edinburgh.

Standing above the north bank of the River Almond, the town grew up around what was once the main route from Edinburgh to Linlithgow, Falkirk and Stirling, and was once home to linen mills and a whisky distillery.

Perfectly positioned for living, learning and working, Kirkliston benefits from a wide range of local amenities including a GP's surgery, library, leisure centre, supermarkets, local shopping centres and schools, which are all within easy reach.

Offering all the lifestyle benefits of a countryside setting, with the convenience of easy commuting links to Edinburgh via road and rail, Kirkliston is the ideal place to call home.
