what inspires you?

I'd have to say that early Illegal Civilization shit from the IC1 period to a bit after the IC2 period really changed the way I thought about making skateboarding videos and all that. I remember watching IC2 on a sick day off school and just seeing that you could film with something as simple as a GoPro instead of a big bulky VX1000 or a Panasonic HMC150 with one of those huge fisheyes really inspired me to make my first full length movie 'Letter Home' with just a GoPro Hero+. I don't know if that shit will ever get released though, it's gotten taken off of Youtube like 5 times now and even the intro is apparently too spicy for the site too. The whole Illegal Civ thing inspired me to get my own HD cameras and aspire TO have the HMC150 and an Xtreme fisheye, I feel like the Propagate channel would look very different if I started by watching more classics like 'Baker 3' or 'The Deathwish Video' or even just 'Video Days' which was filmed on VHS. I'm really inspired by movies like 'Kids', 'Romper Stomper', 'Requiem for a Dream' and the 'CKY' videos. I'm in love with the genre of movie where it feels so grimey or realistic that it feels like it could've been taking place not too far from your own house.

equipment i use

(JAPANESE VERSION) PANASONIC HMC45 W/ 43MM FISHEYE

$800 and many weeks of saving up later, I have this. I saw it in an @osk4rf4uvrelle video and thought it was the cute brother to the HMC150 so I bought it. Paired with stickers and a fisheye it's unbeatable. Bought in October 2024.

CANON VIXIA HF R300 W/ 37MM FISHEYE

My first introduction into HD camcorders, before that I used my mum's old DVD cam for like a month. The white shit all over the lens cover is superglue because I had to glue an adapter to put the fisheye on. This is my baby, audio out of sync when I put clips into Premiere though. Bought in April 2024.

GOPRO HERO 4 BLACK

I used a GoPro Hero+ to film all of Letter Home on and I showed it to a cool ass teacher at my school and he came to school the next day with the GoPro Hero 4 and some accessories. Thank you Mainey. It got confiscated off me once for trying to record a 'school fight' (they were just yelling at each other). Received in July 2024

What inspires you?

I've always had an interest in skate culture since i was young, and everything else to do with skating. I remember watching people on youtube playing skate 3 and just being obsessed with fisheye lens's. Going to the local theatre in my hometown where in the back of the building there was a massive graffiti mural also got me super interested when I was young. Within the past few years, watching the movie Mid90's really brought me back into the love for not only skating, but for vhs cameras with a fisheye lens. My music taste was also a fairly big influence on my interests by listening to tons of hiphop especially from the 90's. Levi helped me heaps to get back into the interest of vhs cameras, with me ending up buying some camera's too so shoutout to him

My Equipment

My first vhs camera I bought, runs off of miniDV tapes but needs a repair because of the tape mechanism not being able to spin tapes. Once my tapeless setup arrives I'll be getting good use out of this camera

My most prized camera that I have, runs off of video8 tapes, new battery on the way because the current ones are dead. Will also attach the tapeless setup onto this camera and get really good use out of this camera

FinePix S5800

The main/only camera I use for photos and will be using for the magazine. I really like the quality of this camera, looking very 2000's but also pretty high quality. I have a cheap wide angle lens for this too that I'll get photos with
