SUPPORT FOR SPORT 2023/24

Funding allocated to recognised sports in 2023/24 via the Support for Sport Programme

Funding allocated from Disability Sport Support to recognised sports in 2023/24 number of initiatives funded via our programmes in 2023/24

number of recognised sports supported in 2023/24

Over the last two years, we have been able to allocate an unprecedented amount of funding due to underspend from Covid-19 and reduced travel off-Island. We are now starting to reduce overall funding allocations to all sports which will be expected to continue to fall significantly over the next few years to a more sustainable level long-term. Funding is therefore being prioritised for initiatives which align most closely with our IOM Sport priorities and objectives and as a result of this we have allocated over £73,000 towards coaching, officiating and volunteering initiatives to increase the number of qualified coaches, officials and volunteers, as well as providing access to CPD opportunities on and off-Island.

Through working with the Sports Liaison Officer, sports have submitted 191 initiatives which align with our IOM Sport Priorities and Objectives. Due to the increased number of initiatives that meet our IOM Sport priorities and objectives and the increase in the number of recognised sports, funding has been spread across a wide variety of initiatives to ensure IOM Sport can provide some support to all initiatives that meet our objectives.

Isle of Man Sport Coach Education Programme free to individuals within recognised Governing Bodies of Sport!

In order to reduce administration for sports and to demonstrate our commitment to ensuring sport on the Island is safe for all, last year we piloted providing all workshops on our Coach Education Programme for free to members of recognised Governing Bodies of Sport.

Over 75 individuals utilised this scheme in its first year and following the success of this new initiative, Isle of Man Sport will be continuing the scheme into 2023/24 and hope that more volunteers, coaches and officials can access the essential coach education that they need.

How do I access these workshops for free?

Anyone involved in coaching, officiating, volunteering or administration who requires these qualifications, please contact your local club or recognised Governing Body of Sport who will be able to provide a promo code to you. This can be entered on the EventBrite website when booking to reduce the cost to nil.

Please note that sports whose National Governing Body requires them to attend sportspecific workshops can still access matched funding via their Priorities and Objectives, should they wish to do so.

Our coach education programme includes:

- UK Coaching Safeguarding and Protecting Children
- Royal Life Saving Society (RLSS) Life Support 3 (First Aid)
- Level 2 Welfare Officer training

To book onto a course, please click the below link or contact Sam Caine on Sam.Caine@gov.im or 688557.

MANX CARRIAGE DRIVING 4 DISABLED

Last year, Isle of Man Sport provided some funding to Manx Carriage Driving for Disabled (MCD4D), via their recognised Governing Body of Sport, the Manx Horse Council. This funding was towards the purchase of some new driving obstacles to enable drivers to develop their skills and practise on a course similar to that experienced in competition.

We visited MCD4D and Margot Dahn (one of the Carriage Driving coaches) in May this year to see how this project has helped their club and the service users.

Tell us a little bit more about Manx Carriage Driving 4 Disabled and what you do.

Formed over ten years ago, Manx Carriage Driving 4 Disabled (MCD4D) was the 'brainchild' of a group of ladies with equestrian interests and an desire to provide something different.

Our aim is "to make the wheels go round" and MCD4D has delivered hundreds of drives for disabled members at Ballavartyn Equestrian Centre in Santon over the last 10 years. The comments and smiles we receive from drivers, carers, friends and family make it all worthwhile!

We are all volunteers, so any donations go directly to the provision of the service we deliver and we were privileged to have a visit from The Princess Royal last year to thank the team for the work we do.

How has the purchase of the obstacles benefitted the club and users?

Thanks to Isle of Man Sport, we have purchased a full set of multi coloured, purpose-built obstacles, which enables our partially sighted members to distinguish a contrasting colour over just one solid colour and of course, the larger size helps with their visual and spatial awareness when actually driving round or through the obstacles.

Our drivers love to learn and experience the thrill and skill of 'driving the hazards' which is an integral part of Carriage Driving in a competitive format! The sense of achievement and inclusion is palpable in our sessions, be it the pleasure of driving or the competitive element!

What are the next steps for MCD4D?

We are now gearing up for twice the number of drives on two days per week, now that we have our latest pony and new carriage with softer suspension! We're aiming to recruit new volunteers to ensure we have the 'human resources' as well as the 'pulling power 'and the carriages to deliver an increased number of drives.

We will have paid for these latest investments from the donations we've received in the last twelve months, and the matched funding opportunities from Isle of Man Sport.

We now continuing our fundraising efforts and looking for further support in order to:

- Pay for livery, husbandry and care for our ponies
- Acquire additional equipment to keep members safe and protected during their drives
- services • Extend our to members likeminded charities whose members will benefit from what we provide

Who is MCD4D for and how can someone get involved?

Anyone with a disability, physical or mental, permanent or temporary is welcome each Friday and some weekends, at Ballavartyn, for a drive in one of our specially adapted carriages.

Volunteers from MCD4D with some of the new driving obstacles

We are always looking for support, so if you're able to help, in cash or in kind, with donations or in time, skill or expertise we'd love to hear from you! Our website gives you an insight into what we do and how to become involved. We look forward to sharing a great experience with you soon!

Where can I find out more information or get in touch with MCD4D?

Raymond Cox, Chair of the Manx Horse Council said:

Full praise to the MCD4D who fulfil such an important role in the equestrian community and beyond. The volunteers are an example to all in sport and the joy that they bring to their members is uplifting. Well done to Isle of Man Sport for their support generous to MCD4D as they look to the future.

ISLAND GAMES 2023

After a 2-year delay with the 2021 Island Games being postponed, over 180 athletes are due to make their way to Guernsey in the coming days to represent the Isle of Man at the 19th Natwest Island Games from 8th-14th July 2023.

through the Games, this competition is not just about medals and scoreboards and the core values of sportsmanship and fair play shine through. The Games is a unique opportunity for thousands of people from Islands across the world to come together to explore new places and cultures, share invaluable experiences and form lifelong friendships through sport.

Isle of Man Sport recognise the importance of the Games for Manx athletes and continue to provide financial support to the Island Games Association of Mann (IGAM) to assist the Isle of Man team to go to this competition every two years.

youth games

The Isle of Man team for this year's Commonwealth Youth Games has been announced!

Seven athletes have been selected across three sports to compete in the event which is due to take place in Trinidad and Tobago between 4th and 11th August 2023.

Regan Corrin and Jack Kinrade will be representing the Island in the athletics events. Tyler Annis and Ruby Oakes have been selected to compete in cycling and Ella Justice, Magnus Kelly and Connor Mealin will all compete in the pool.

The seventh edition of the Commonwealth Youth Games will see more than 1,000 athletes and para-athletes between the ages of 14 and 18 competing across seven sports, managed by over 500 officials.

The Commonwealth Youth Games is an invaluable opportunity for aspiring young sports people to compete in a multi-sport Games, contributing to the further development of youth sport throughout the Commonwealth.

The Games have traditionally taken place every four years with the first event hosted in Scotland in 2000 and the Isle of Man hosting the Games in 2011. However, the Games in Trinidad and Tobago was originally due to be held in 2021 and was postponed due to the impact of the pandemic on the international sport calendar.

The last Commonwealth Youth Games was held in the Bahamas in 2017 when the Isle of Man enjoyed success in the cycling events, with Thomas Bostock winning gold in the men's road race and Tara Ferguson taking silver in the women's equivalent.

Isle of Man Sport are proud to have provided financial assistance and performance services for the athletes and wish them and their support staff the best of luck for Trinbago 2023!

SPORT AID:

ATHLETIC DEVELOPMENT AND PHYSICAL PREPARATION

Following the appointment of Trevor Christian as Physical Preparation Lead in September 2021, he tells us a little bit more about his role and the importance of physical preparation in supporting athletes to achieve their best performances.

Tell us a little bit more about yourself and your role.

I've worked for Manx Sport and Recreation since 2005 in a variety of different roles, initially starting out as a Lifeguard and Gym Supervisor at the NSC on the role of before taking Athletics Development Officer over in the Sports Development Unit in 2009. At the same time, the Sports Institute had just been built and I was asked to be involved delivering sessions a few hours a week for Sport Aid athletes and different sports groups. One of the first groups I worked with was a group of swimmers which included Laura Kinley and Charlotte Atkinson - it's great to still be working with Laura now, all these years later! I then worked part-time as a Community Sports Development Officer and part-time as Sports Coaching Co-ordinator before becoming full-time in Sports Coaching.

Fortunately in 2021, there was an opportunity to change role towards working as a full-time Athletic Development and Physical Preparation Lead. I now manage a team of 5 coaches who deliver open coaching sessions for our Sport Aid athletes as well as some athletes who may buy in services via their sport and some Sport Aid Academy athletes who are transitioning into the full Sport Aid pathway. We have 9 sessions a week week that athletes can access and they all receive periodised programming based on the demands of their sport and where they are currently at with their athletic development and their training age. Initially, we tend to look at fundamental movements, such as squatting, lunging, hinging, pushing, pulling, jumping, landing, twisting, bracing to ensure these can be performed really well, prior to looking at more complex sport-specific movements.

We are now focusing more and more on collaboration, working with not just an athlete but their coach and support network to ensure a multi-disciplinary athlete-centred approach. We are also starting to expand our services to work with National squads, so please get in touch if you or your sport is interested in accessing some bespoke physical preparation.

What are the different aspects of physical preparation and why is it so important for performance?

There are many aspects to physical preparation from picking the right exercises, for the right purpose, at the right time with the right dose! Ultimately these decisions must help improve performance or as the famous rowing quote says, "will it make the boat go faster". Another big consideration is injury reduction. Less injuries means more opportunities to train and compete and more opportunities to improve performance.

How can the right physical preparation aid injury prevention?

Unfortunately, we can't completely prevent injury but strength and conditioning can help reduce the amount of non-contact based injuries by making athletes strong and robust, therefore reducing the likelihood of pulling a muscle, for example.

This is all included in a needs analysis, looking at understanding the demands of the sport - what are the different strength qualities required for their sport, what are the common injuries that are inherent in the sport and looking to try and put strategies in place to mitigate against those injuries.

What are Sport Aid doing to help athletes with their physical preparation?

We're giving individuals bespoke periodised training plans that are linked to help them develop the physical qualities they need for their sport but also linked to undulate in the right way at the right time to ensure an athlete is ready to perform at peak capacity on a given day/at a given competition. We're fortunate enough to have a breadth of knowledge and experience amongst the team of coaches to enable us to give the best possible service to our athletes. We're also starting to increase our use of technology, firstly through the use of an app called Athlete Monitoring which is used communication but now also programming, so that this can be done online and so that we can also monitor athletes who are doing programmes remotely. Secondly, we've got some new technology from Output Sports called IMU which enables us to assess range of motion for mobility, bar speed for velocity based training and opens up a wide range of testing and monitoring opportunities to assess the effectiveness of our programmes.

We've heard there's been some recent refurbishment in the High Performance Centre, what changes have you made?

We've updated and added to our racks enabling more people to lift at once which is particularly useful for teams and squads. We've got new flooring and new additional equipment and the athletes also chose the new colour scheme! Thanks to Connor Cummins and CoffeeMann, we've also got a new water fountain too!

What would you say to anyone who has not yet explored Strength & Conditioning before and is unsure whether it's right for them and their sport?

Don't be scared of it, the research shows strength and conditioning can benefit athletes from all sports, so it's definitely something to explore. Just ensure you get some advice from a qualified professional who is appropriately trained.

As the latest Sport Aid Academy 2021 cohort draws to a close, we caught up with Paul Jones (Sports Performance Co-ordinator) to find out more about the Academy.

What is the Isle of Man Sport Aid Academy?

The Isle of Man Sport Aid Academy was launched in 2015 as a platform to assist young athletes who are in the early stages of their sporting pathway. The Academy will provide young athletes with support, guidance, workshops and educational events to help grow skills in their chosen sports. Throughout the programme, the focus is to create opportunities and experiences which will improve the self-awareness of the young people involved so they (and the group as a whole) are in a better place to release their full potential in sport and life.

Who is it for?

The Academy is for young people aged 13 to 16 and their parents, guardians and coaches.

How does the Academy link into Sport Aid?

Isle of Man Sport Aid is available for young athletes over the age of 16 who demonstrate the potential for a career in their chosen sport. The Sport Aid Academy was created to help nurture young people aged 13 - 16 who enjoy competing in their sport but who are not yet eligible to be on Sport Aid and it is hoped the programme will assist in the early part of their sporting journeys.

Are there any criteria for being part of Sport Aid Academy?

Other than age, there are no criteria and individuals can be put forward by schools, local sports clubs and governing bodies of sport or they can directly nominate themselves to be part of the programme.

When is the next intake for the new programme and how do I apply?

The next cohort is likely to commence in September 2023 and applications have been sent to all recognised Governing Bodies of Sport and schools. Forms are also available on the IOM Sport website here:

https://www.isleofmansport.com/sportaid/sport-aid-academy/

Is there a cost to be part of the programme?

No, there is no cost to be part of the Academy due to the fantastic support of our long-term partners Suntera, Newfield and Isle of Man Sport Aid.

All athletes have the right to compete in sport knowing that they, and their competitors, are clean. Isle of Man Sport believe in clean sport and work in partnership with UK Anti-Doping (UKAD) and the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) to ensure that the integrity of sport is protected.

Isle of Man Anti-Doping Policy

Isle of Man Sport has in place an anti-doping policy that all athletes, athlete support personnel and recognised Governing Bodies of Sport (GBS) must abide by. This Policy came into force in April 2022 when the Isle of Man joined the UNESCO International Convention against Doping in Sport. The anti-doping policy IOM Sport has in place is consistent with the World Anti-Doping Code, the core document that harmonises anti-doping policies, rules and regulations within sport globally. The anti-doping rules that IOM Sport adopt are the rules published by UK Anti-Doping (or its successor), as amended from time to time.

If you compete in Sport on or for the Isle of Man then the anti-doping rules apply to you, regardless of what level you participate at.

Anti-Doping Education and Training

Isle of Man Sport are committed to supporting GBS' around Anti-Doping education and training. Free workshops will be provided to all recognised GBS' centrally at the Sports Institute. Alternatively GBS' can request closed workshops specifically for their sport. For more details, contact Lisa Motley on Lisa.Motley2@gov.im UKAD and WADA also offer online learning opportunities aimed at anyone involved in sport.
