The Gujarat Earthquake – 2001

RAISED
£3.1 Million Pounds

The 2001 Gujarat earthquake occurred on January 26, 2001, India's 51st Republic Day, at 08:46 AM. The epicentre was Bhuj (23.6° N 69.8° E) Gujarat, India. With a magnitude of between 7.6 and 8.1 on the Richter scale, the quake killed around 20,000 people injured another 167,000 and destroyed nearly 400,000 homes.

The shock waves spread 700 km. 21 districts were affected and 600,000 people left homeless.

What did we fund?

- Provided for food, water, medical attention and temporary shelter for the victims of the earthquake. 1,000 food distribution camps, and over 100 tent villages to house the victims of the earthquake.
- Set up a makeshift hospital in the town of Bhachhau, to serve 72 surrounding villages. This hospital consisted of 100 beds with areas partitioned for x-ray, pathology, operating theatre, medical stock room, and an outpatients department.
- Over 19,000 outpatients were treated and 2,500 operations
- Rebuilding of six entire villages in the earthquake zone.
- Build 253 Bhunga Houses (traditional Kutchi houses) in 9 villages
- Funded a total of 35 schools, which have been built in the villages.
- Funded 2 mobile medical vehicles and a dispensary

Phase 1: Organised Coordination

- Evacuation process at this stage was centered by city location
- Every city had its own challenges – transport mode (Rail / Bus), distance from border crossing, proximity from war zones, student concentrations, etc.
- Information dissemination, validation and follow up specific to city
- Every city was assigned with one main coordinator, who was being assisted with many others

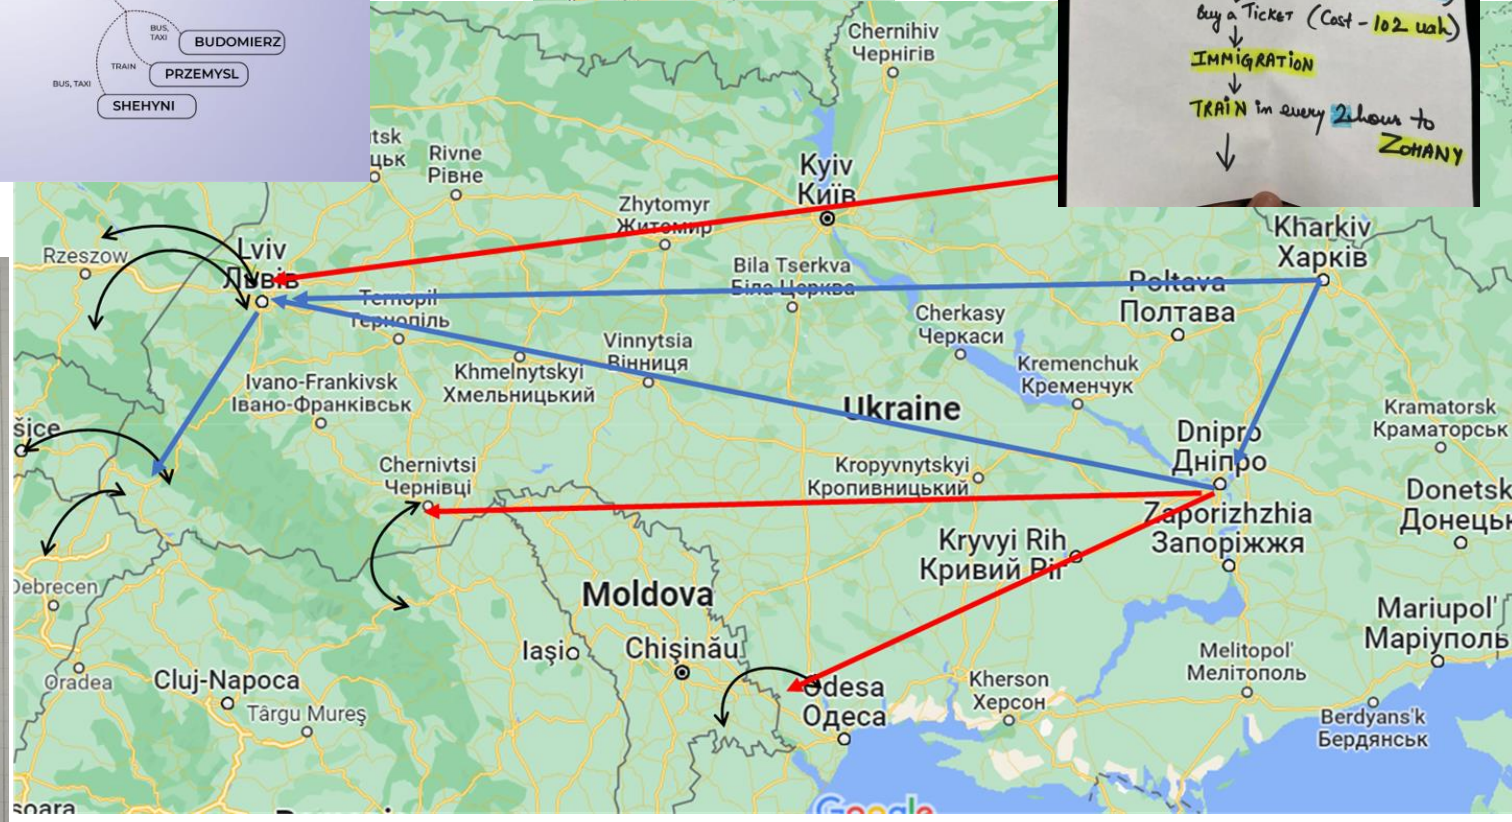

Phase 1: Cities to borders
